BLOOMINGTON

Rock Slides
Savage River Road at Bloomington was blocked for some time Saturday when several large rocks slid onto the roadway. The rock slide was apparently caused by heavy water runoff and the warming temperatures.

The slide happened on Savage River Road about four miles from Rt. 135. The Garrett County Roads Department were able to open one lane of traffic first, and eventually cleared the debris. The Bloomington volunteer fire company also responded to the scene.

CHURCH NEWS

The Bloomington-Chestnut Grove Youth Groups went skiing on Wednesday, February 16, at the Wisp Resort. Approximately 30 youth and adults attended.

On Sunday, February 20, Pastor Bill and Sylvia Brown went to the Kensington-Algonquin Hotel in Cumberland to conduct a worship service and celebrate Holy Communion with the residents.

Bloomington SHARE Distribution Day will be Saturday, February 26, at the Bloomington United Methodist Church, noon to 1 p.m.. Persons may register for March at this time also.

Maryland Sells Triple A Bonds

The Maryland Board of Public Works, consisting of Governor William Donald Schaefer, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, and State Treasurer Lucille Maurer sold $184,210,000 in General Obligation Bonds for a low interest bid of 4.4786% on Wednesday, February 16. The bonds had been rated "triple A," the best possible rating, by Moody's Investors Service, Standard & Poor's Corporation, and Fitch's Investors Service, the three major bond rating agencies.

The winning bid of 4.4786% came from a syndicate of firms across the country led by Lehman Brothers, with a number of Maryland firms including: NationsBank Capital markets; Alex. Brown and Co.; Ferris, Baker, Watts; First Union Securities; Maryland National Bank and First National Bank of Maryland.

Approximately $64,210,000 of the proceeds from this sale will be used to redeem bonds sold in previous years at higher interest rates. Although these refunding bonds are being sold now, the redemptions will not begin until the year 2000.

Proceeds from the other $120 million will be used to fund a variety of loan authorizations, including general state construction; water quality projects; a variety of state and local projects including cultural, educational and health facilities, and local correctional facilities.

Maryland remains one of only five states in the nation to retain the coveted triple A rating from all of the major bond rating agencies. These 15-year bonds, backed by the full faith and credit of the state, are sold in denominations of $5,000. They are available to the public from brokers and bond dealers.

Governor Schaefer said, "We can be very happy with this sale. We've been through some difficult times, but have maintained the triple A rating thanks to the comptroller and the treasurer."

"This is the third time we have used competitive bond sales to refinance higher interest debt by taking advantage of a lower market rate," Treasurer Maurer said.

added, "This is an outstanding interest rate and we're seeing the benefit of competitive bids, the low market interest rates and our desirable triple A bond rating."

The low interest rate obtained by Maryland on general obligation bonds is important to every state taxpayer because of the significant savings in repaying the bonds. The highly regarded triple A rating ensures that Maryland taxpayers benefit from the state paying the lowest possible cost of borrowing money for capital projects

LEMON-HERB VEAL CHOPS

Total preparation and cooking time: 25 minutes

- 6 well-trimmed veal rib or loin chops, cut 1 inch thick (approx. 8 ounces each)
- Salt and pepper, as desired
- Seasoning:
 - 1-1/2 teaspoons grated fresh lemon peel
 - 1 teaspoon dried basil leaves, crushed
 - 1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves, crushed
 - 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves, crushed

1. Combine seasoning ingredients. Press evenly into both sides of veal chops.
2. Place chops on rack of broiler pan so surface of meat is 4 inches from heat source. Broil 14 to 17 minutes or until veal is medium or desired doneness, turning once. Season with salt and pepper, as desired.

Makes 6 servings

COOK'S TIP: Finely chopped fresh herbs may be substituted for dried. Triple the amount of herbs; use the same amount of lemon peel.

RISOTTO PARMESAN WITH OLIVE-ARTICHOKE SAUCE

Total preparation and cooking time: 40 minutes

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 cup converted long grain or arborio rice, uncooked
- 1 can (13-3/4 to 14-1/2 ounces) ready-to-serve chicken broth
- 1-1/2 cups water
- 1-1/2 cups (6 ounces) Sargento Fancy Supreme Shredded Parmesan Cheese, divided
- Olive-Artichoke Sauce:
 - 1 tablespoon olive oil
 - 2 cloves garlic, crushed
 - 1/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper
 - 1 can (14-1/2 to 16 ounces) diced tomatoes
 - 1 package (9 ounces) frozen artichoke hearts, thawed
 - 2/3 cup sliced pitted California ripe olives
 - 1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley

1. In large nonstick skillet, melt butter over medium heat. Add onion, cook 3 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add rice, cook and stir 1 minute. Stir in broth and water. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, 20 to 25 minutes or until liquid is absorbed and rice is tender, stirring occasionally. Stir in 3/4 cup Parmesan cheese.
2. Meanwhile, heat oil in medium nonstick skillet over medium heat until hot. Add garlic and red pepper, cook and stir 1 minute. Add tomatoes, artichoke hearts and olives. Simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in parsley.
3. Spoon rice onto serving platter, top with sauce. Serve with remaining Parmesan cheese.

COOK'S TIP: 1 can (14 ounces) artichoke hearts, drained, rinsed and cut into quarters may be substituted for 1 package (9 ounces) frozen artichoke hearts.

Entertaining at home is on the upswing. It's a comfortable, intimate way to relax with friends and to enjoy good food—a respite from our fast-paced lifestyles.

But time is still limited. We need menus that are convenient, yet spectacular, a task that's greatly simplified if you concentrate your efforts on two or three meal components and purchase everything else. And remember, ethnic flavors add instant flair.

Americans love Italian food, and these easy menus provide some new inspiration. Start with Lemon-Herb Veal Chops. Always on the best Italian restaurant menus, lean veal rib or loin chops are simple to prepare at home and make an impressive main dish. The secret to perfection is not to overcook, broil them to medium doneness for best flavor and tenderness.

Since the chops are simply prepared with an herb and lemon rub, they're perfect with a more intensely flavored side dish. Risotto, the creamy soft rice preferred by Italians, is another "hot" item on restaurant menus that's easy to adapt for home cooking. Fancy shredded Parmesan cheese stirred in at the end of cooking adds extra creaminess and a nutty taste—the distinct, full Italian flavor you'd expect if you took the time to shred a wedge of Parmesan cheese yourself. The long slender shreds are just right to use as a topping, and for dishes where quick melting is required.

Robust Olive-Artichoke Sauce, which needs only a five-minute simmering, is a delicious complement for the Risotto Parmesan. California ripe olives contribute a rich flavor and texture to the convenient combination of canned diced tomatoes and frozen artichokes. A pantry staple, olives add a special touch to Italian-inspired recipes. Complete the menu with an effortless salad of greens from the supermarket salad bar or one of the ready-to-serve packaged varieties in the produce section. Dessert can be as simple as fresh pears and crunchy bakery biscotti.

If you're serving the second menu, assemble the Rosemary Cheese Crusted Potatoes first and pop in the oven to bake. Just layer potatoes and onion with mild, classic shredded Mozzarella, ideal for use in casseroles and similar dishes that combine the cheese with other ingredients.

Olive, Pepper & Green Bean Salad can be done in steps. Prepare the dressing, beans and peppers in advance and refrigerate. Then, 30 minutes before serving, combine and toss with whole ripe olives. Available year-round, canned olives are a delicious, fuss-free way to add gusto to any salad. Garlic-Parsley Sautéed Veal Cutlets make a quick main dish. The tender, lean veal leg cutlets cook to fork tenderness in under 10 minutes. Pick up bread sticks and gelato for easy meal finishes.

What Are The Most Common Worm Problems?

The most common worm infestation in the United States is pinworm. Most of the 20 to 40 million cases in the U.S. each year affect children between the ages of 5 and 14 years. The medicine of choice for pinworm is one dose of pyrantel pamoate.

This medicine can be obtained without prescription. Consider a second round of medicine for all family members two weeks after the first dose. The second dose helps limit reinfection. Less common worm infestations in the United States include roundworm, whipworm, and hookworm. These three conditions are found most often in the southern and southeastern states.

STATE OF MARYLANDDEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT*WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION*PUBLIC NOTICE

Publication Dates: Once in each of the weeks of February 21 and 28, 1994.

The Maryland Department of the Environment has made final determination on the application for State Discharge Permits listed below. Any person who wishes to review the supporting information for any of these final determinations, including the proposed final permit, may do so by contacting Mr. Mark Jacobs at (410) 631-3595 to make an appointment. Copies of documents may be procured at a cost of $0.22 per page.

Any person adversely affected by any of the final determinations listed below may request a contested case hearing. A request for this hearing must be filed in writing no later than March 15, 1994 and should be directed to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, Attn: Mark D. Jacobs, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224.

The request must include the name, address, and telephone number (home and work) of the person requesting the hearing; the name of any other party whom the person requesting the hearing may represent; the name and permit number for the final determination; and factual allegations with sufficient particularity to demonstrate that the person is aggrieved by the final determination and that the final determination is legally inconsistent with any provisions of law applicable to the final determination or is based upon an incorrect determination of a relevant and material fact. Failure to request a hearing by March 15, 1994 results in a waiver of any right to a contested case hearing on these final determinations.

FINAL DETERMINATIONGarrett County

Modification of State Discharge Permit, No. 90-DP-2807, NPDES Permit MD0065234, for a BFS Foods, Inc., facility, known as BFS Truck Stop Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP), located at the southeast corner of Route 219 & 40, Keyser's Ridge, Garrett County, Maryland.

A public hearing was held on February 26, 1993 in Oakland on a tentative determination for the modification of the permit. The modification is for the occasional discharge of hydrostatic test water, storm water from a petroleum storage tank dike area, and storm water runoff from a petroleum loading rack pad to the existing wastewater treatment plant. Effluent limitations of 20 mg/l quarterly average and 30 mg/l daily maximum for monthly monitoring of total petroleum hydrocarbon (TPH) are being added for the combined discharge before it enters the wastewater treatment plant. Written and oral comments during the hearing have been considered in reaching the following Final Determination pertaining to modification aspects only.

1. Monitoring of Toxics

Comment: It was questioned why monitoring for toxic substances with a priority pollutant scan is not required in the modification of the permit; also, why an ammonia limit is not included in the modification.

Determination: The permit modification is for the flow of storm water from a storage area and occasional hydrostatic test water to the existing wastewater treatment facility after passing through an oil/water separator. This waste stream will be monitored and limited for hydrocarbons. It should not create any significant toxic effect on the receiving water body. Once the permit is modified, the Department will conduct acute and chronic testing of the effluent. If the effluent is found toxic, further self-monitoring of toxics and a priority pollutant scan will be required by the permittee. Further, if required, a TRE (Toxic Reduction Evaluation) would be imposed.

2. Tank Bottom Discharge

Comment: The proposed modification to the permit prohibits the discharge of tank bottom wastewater into the treatment facility. It was questioned how this provision will be monitored.

Determination: Results of effluent analysis will be submitted by the permittee and evaluated by MDE. Overall compliance with the permit will be monitored by MDE. Any discharge of tank bottom wastewater into the treatment facility is a violation of the permit and an infraction of state and federal law. Any violation may be subject to administrative, civil or criminal penalties.

3. Total Petroleum Hydrocarbon (TPH)

Comment: It was questioned why the proposed permit limitations of 20 mg/l TPH quarterly average and 30 mg/l daily maximum were not the same as limitations imposed on other facilities in Garrett County.

Determination: The proposed limitations are based upon best available technology (BAT). Consideration is given to the nature of the discharge, type of effluent, available technology, and buffer capacity of the plant; hence, limits cannot be compared with other locations and facilities.

4. Intermittent Stream

Comment: The classification of the effluent receiving stream as perennial is inappropriate; hence, a feasible alternative to the discharge must be investigated before modifying the permit.

Determination: Determination by MDE and testimony from long-time residents indicate that the receiving waters are fed by several springs and not intermittent. At the time of issuance of the permit, the limitations in the permit were based upon zero background flow in order to be extraconservative. They will protect the designated water quality of the stream.

5. Use Classification of Receiving Stream

Comment: The receiving stream is classified as Use I water. It should be use IV water, as Pennsylvania designated Puzzle Run as "high quality cold water fishery."

Determination: The Department considered this comment and concluded that this is not within the scope of NPDES permit modification. However, even if the discharge was to Use IV waters, the permit limitations would remain the same.

6. State Highway Administration (SHA) Discharge

Comment: The SHA project resulted in an acidic water discharge into Lake Louise which resulted in the deterioration of water quality on the Lake and Puzzle Run.

Determination: The Department considered this comment and concludes that this is not within the scope of the NPDES modification.

The modified permit will be issued as drafted.

Results Of Teen Health Survey Cause Concerns

While still in the process of compiling results of a teen health survey in the county's middle and high schools, the Garrett County Health Department recently shared some of its findings with the Garrett County Commissioners. Those findings revealed that, while Garrett County students are "about average" when compared to the national scale, "risky behavior" among the county's students is a cause for concern, according to Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County Health Officer.

The results of the survey, compiled in December, were presented by Ann Sherrard, director of Community Outreach and Education, to the county's health department.

In at least several of the survey categories, which included questions about cigarette smoking, sexual activity, a significant number of local teens were shown to have participated in these activities. In the case of cigarette smoking, almost 15% of seventh and eighth graders answered they had done so within the last month; nearly 25% had done so at the ninth and tenth grade level, and slightly over 25% at the eleventh and twelfth grade level.

When the data was broken down between the Northern and Southern middle and high schools, it was discovered that, in the ninth through twelfth grades, 30% of Southern students smoked cigarettes.

The early Monday morning incident threatened the lives of Michael and Deena Summerfield, their daughter, Erica, 17, and son, Chad, 16, who reside on D Street.

Mr. Summerfield told The Republican this morning she recalled feeling ill throughout the weekend, and suspected the flu. She was awakened at approximately 3 a.m., feeling ill, and soon after, awakened her husband.

After awakening Mr. Summerfield, the couple went downstairs, at which time Mrs. Summerfield, who had been sleeping, found her husband lying face down on the floor. She called 911 and the Southern Rescue Squad responded.

Members of the rescue squad put Mrs. Summerfield on oxygen, and found her blood pressure to be low and her pulse slow. Chad and Erica were also experiencing headaches and

Local Family Escapes Possible Tragedy Monday

School Budget Recommendations Are Presented By Dr. Ryscavage

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Garrett County Superintendent of Schools, presented a series of budget recommendations to the general public last Thursday at Northern Middle School.

The recommendations include a plan to add 19 teachers to the county's elementary schools over the next four-year period, as well as an aggressive staff development program to better prepare teachers in meeting the demands of the new Maryland School Performance Assessment Program.

Ryscavage was joined by Albert Coviello, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, in the presentation. Ryscavage said the school system budget planning process has been focused on both the national and state goals for the year 2000, and as a result, many recommendations are directly tied to goals in the areas of

Jennifer Smith Crowned Queen Of Winterfest

Jennifer Wrenn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Rt. 1, Friendsville, was crowned queen of the 1994 Winterfest, a celebration of the Deep Creek Lake area, Saturday evening.

The reception was sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Club. Miss Smith, a junior at Northern High School, was selected from among 18 candidates by a panel of representatives from both Northern and Southern high schools. She will reign over the three-day Winterfest, slated for this weekend, March 4-6, at the Wisp Ski Area, McHenry.

Active in numerous organizations and events at Northern, Miss Smith is a member of the varsity volleyball team, National Honor Society, and the After Prom Party Committee, serves as the treasurer of the Student Council, is publicity director of the Garrett County Association of Student Councils, is president of the junior class, and is a peer counselor and English and algebra tutor. She works as a waitress at Goehring's Restaurant.

Among the awards and honors she has received are: 1993 Student of the Year, 1992 Best Offense Player and 1993 Most Improved Player (volleyball), 1993 Homecoming Princess, Student of the Month, distinguished honor roll, 1993 ambassador to the High School Youth Leadership Convention, Garrett County representative to the 1993 Maryland State Flag Day celebration, United States Achievement Award, Student Government, and Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Shaffer said several persons have contacted the sheriff's office about these phone calls. Apparently the phone calls tell residents that they may obtain "bronze stickers" for a $25 or $35 donation, and "gold stickers" for a $75 donation. When asked for a return phone number or a name, the callers generally do not provide such information. Shaffer reported that in one case, a bogus 800 number was given.

"People who get these calls should try to get any information they possibly can," Shaffer said. "Ask for names, numbers, addresses - anything. Then they should contact the sheriff's office immediately."

Shaffer added that any kind of telephone solicitation should be reported to the police, even if the recipient of the call thinks it may be legitimate.

"There are legitimate telephone fund-raisers," he said. "But right now, during this apparent scam, people should be cautious of anyone asking for money, and they should report it to us."

Persons may contact the sheriff's office at 334-1911.

Bradley Manor Razing Stalled Indefinitely

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain said this week that the long-awaited demolition of the former Bradley Manor housing development has once again been stalled in federal court.

McCain has been working toward the razing of the dilapidated buildings for several years, and was hopeful several months ago that the process had finally been set in motion.

However, he was informed last Friday that the project has been temporarily stopped.

"They are apparently having some trouble moving out the legal part of the plan," McCain said. "I really don't know what the next step is. It's up to HUD (U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development) to make the next move."

In mid-November, McCain received word that the plan submitted by the Oakland Town Council had been accepted by all parties involved (town of Oakland, HUD, and the former Oakland Associates), and that the old buildings could be brought down after a waiting period of 40 days.

The new plan, designed by Dick Devlin, included 64 housing units, a playground, and several other amenities.

"I don't know what to report about it right now," McCain said. "We'll just have to wait and see."

The group was successful in finding support for its efforts, and Tom Jones, director of the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, affirmed that development of the corridor would, indeed, boost the economic picture for the county by directing more interstate, as well as international, traffic through the area.

The Rt. 219 corridor -- which stretches from Lorton, W.Va., to Charleston, W.Va. -- would be streamlined and widened to attract more commerce, and would include bypasses around Oakland, Accident, and a three-mile stretch north of Rt. 40 toward Pennsylvania, said Jones. Those areas are referred to as critical areas, or "pinch points," where heavier development could cause problems in land acquisition.

The issue of the Oakland bypass -- one that has been discussed intermittently for the past 20 years -- remains controversial, however, as some Oakland merchants seemed to be more accepting of the Oakland bypass concept. Others were not quite as enthusiastic.

"I don't think Oakland needs a bypass," said Connie Margison, part owner of Martin's Men's Wear in Oakland. "I think traffic control (such as in the form of traffic lights) is a better solution to the problem."

The concert will feature the sacred cantata The Seven Last Words of Christ, by Thomas Dubois. This work depicts the final hours in the life of Jesus Christ. The anger and rejection of the masses is compared to the suffering and compassion of Christ, as this work weaves together several biblical passages associated with the crucifixion.

Other works to be performed will be Mendelssohn's Verano, Beethoven's Sinfonia, Johannes Brahms's How Love Is Thine, and The Dying Swan, by L. Chopin.

Accompanists will be Dr. David W. Sheets, organist, and Elinor Benedict, cellist. The Garrett Choral Society, composed of local volunteers, has provided a wide variety of musical offerings for many years. Among the cantatas performed have been Handel's Messiah, Bach's Christmas Oratorio, and Mendelssohn's Elijah.

The Society has also presented a number of other seasonal concerts and full Broadway stage musicals.

Tickets for the Palm Sunday concert are now available at Englander's Pharmacy and from all Choral Society members. Ticket prices are $5 for adults and $3 for children ages 12 and under.

Beahms Leaving For Missions Work

Ray and Rebecca Beahm, who have served the Crellin Assembly of God Church for over 17 years, will be leaving the area soon to go into full-time missions work in Athens, Greece. Their missions itinerary will begin April 1, 1994.

The Beahms, both graduates of North Central Bible College, Minneapolis, came to Crellin Assembly in January 1977 from Senneville, Quebec, where they served for nine years as pastors in the Indian Pentecostal Mission.

While serving as full-time pastor at the Crellin church, Pastor Beahm has served on the church District Foreign Missions Committee for six years and the Assembly of God Decade of Harvest task force for the past three years. He has been director of the Assembly of God Kids Camps for five years.

He has also been active in the community, serving on the Mt. Top Ministerial Association and with the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Chaplain Program. He has served on the advisory board for the Garrett County Department of Social Services and became the county representative to the Maryland State Advisory Board. He served two years as chairman of the local community park development committee. After becoming a certified emergency medical technician, he served for two years on the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Mrs. Beahm has also been actively involved in church development and community service. She is presently employed by the Garrett County Board of Education, working at the Crellin Elementary School.

The Beahms are the parents of four children: Todd, Lance, Alayna, and Nathan.

The church is honoring the Beahms with a farewell open house, slated for Sunday, Mar. 13, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Deer Park fire hall. All are welcome to attend.

Fund-Raiser For Victims Of Fire Postponed

Because of adverse weather conditions, the fund-raiser planned to benefit those families affected by the February 13 fire in Oakland has been postponed from tonight, March 3, until next Thursday, March 10. The event will take place at the Elks Lodge in Oakland, beginning at 6 p.m. Tickets are $10 per person, with all proceeds going to the affected families. Organizers also hope to establish the Garrett County Fire Victims Fund through this benefit. The fund will be maintained by the Elks Club and will be available to victims of future fires.

Numerous area restaurant managers have agreed to donate food for a buffet at the benefit, and "Greg C" will serve as complimentary disc jockey playing "oldies." An auction will take place, provided the organizers are able to obtain enough donated items for such an event. Restauranters,

Sheriff's Office Probing Reported Theft Cases

Various incidents of apparent theft are currently being investigated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, according to the police log. The cases involve the theft of skis, a large wooden sign, and cash from a local residence.

Gary Ball contacted police on Feb. 21 to report the theft of his skis and ski rack taken from his vehicle during the night of Feb. 20. Ball had parked his vehicle, which was equipped with the "Top Tote" ski rack, on Stockslager Road. Head skis with Tyrolia bindings were secured in the ski rack. Upon his return at 10 a.m. the next morning, he discovered that both the rack and the skis were gone. The loss was estimated at $310, according to the report.

There are no suspects in the case.

In a second incident, Sidney Nazerod reported the theft of a 4'x14' wooden sign, taken on Feb. 20 from his property located at the intersection of Bethlehem, Schell, and Steyer Mine roads. On the sign was painted "I and For Sale." It was apparently stolen sometime on the evening of Feb. 18 or the early morning of Feb. 19.

The sign's value was set at $115.

The theft of cash and checks was reported by Dorothy A. Lowdermilk, Friendsville. The victim told police that she left the residence on Feb. 28 at 7:45 a.m. and returned that day at 2:45 p.m. She soon discovered that approximately $125 in cash and a Woodmen of the World checkbook had apparently been stolen.

When police officers examined the scene, they discovered that the back door of the home had apparently been forced open, causing some damage to the door jamb. Officers were able to lift fingerprints from the scene, according to the report.

Icy Roads Blamed For Monday Mishap

No injuries were reported in an accident involving a school bus loaded with children Monday morning on the Deer Park Hotel Road, according to a report filed by Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry.

Karen Steyer, Oakland, driving a 1990 International school bus with 21 school children aboard, stopped at the bottom of a hill at approximately 7:45 a.m. Kerri Shaffer, 18, Deer Park, was driving a 1990 Toyota pickup truck down the hill and, in an attempt to stop her vehicle, slid on the icy road and struck the bus.

A Swanton man was reportedly injured Saturday as the result of a one-vehicle accident, and was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Donnie D. Tichnell, 54, Swanton, was a passenger in a 1991 Ford F-150, driven by Abner D. Tichnell, 56, also of Swanton, who was traveling north on the Boiling Spring Road in Deer Park, when he swerved to avoid a collision with an oncoming vehicle, and struck a culvert, according to a report filed by Tfc. P.R. Brown.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the 5:45 p.m. mishap.

DWI ARRESTS

In other news from the state police, three men were arrested and charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs this past week.

On Feb. 26, a state trooper found Jimmy D. Steiding, 34, Alexandria, Va., sleeping in his running car on I-68, three miles east of Friendsville.

Following a series of tests, Steiding was charged with driving while intoxicated. A subsequent search revealed a quantity of marijuana. He has also been charged with alcohol and controlled dangerous substance violations.

Steiding was initially

Friendsville Fair Convicted On DNR Charges

A Friendsville couple was found guilty on several Natural Resources Police charges in Garrett County District Court last week.

Robert A. Boogher, 44, pleaded guilty to two counts of possession of untagged deer, and one count of possession of firearms-killed deer. He was fined $1,060 for the offenses. Laurie J. Boogher, 35, pleaded guilty to three counts of possession of untagged deer, and was fined a total of $360. Charges of possession of deer during closed firearms season, and 13 other charges against the couple for possession of untagged deer, were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney's office.

Several other charges, stemming from a Nov. 6, 1993 search of their property, were also not prosecuted by the state's attorney, including: possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS); possession of CDS paraphernalia with intent to use; possession of fireworks without a permit; possession of an alcoholic distilling device, a felony; and possession of CDS with intent to manufacture, distribute, or dispense, also a felony, which was not prosecuted because of insufficient evidence.

DNR officers Richard A. Towers and Jeffery W. Sizemore reported while they were executing a search and seizure warrant for deer parts, guns and ammunition on the Boogher property, they found several illegal deer hides in the barn and deer meat in the freezer. Upon a subsequent search of the house, suspected marijuana was found in the pocket of a hunting coat, as well as in a knapsack; a bag of marijuana and a pipe with a wire screen in its bowl, a silver pipette with residue, two CDS pipes, a pack of cigarette papers, an ashtray containing marijuana seeds, and a coffee can containing marijuana residue and seeds were also found. The report also stated an M-80 firecracker was found on a dresser in the master bedroom, and a copper cooker and a large plastic drum with copper condensing coils was found in the basement, resulting in the above charges.

In other district court news, Gerald C. Broadwater Sr., 49, Lonaconing, pleaded not guilty, and was found not guilty to violation of a protective order filed against him on April 21, 1993. He had been charged with the violation by Darlene Broadwater on Sept. 9, 1993, at the Old Accident School.

Jason D. Warnick, 18, Swanton, pleaded guilty to two counts of CDS possession. For each charge he was sentenced to one year in jail, with all suspended but 48 hours, to be served concurrently, and placed on

LIGHTING THE OLYMPIC TORCH occurred not just in Lillehammer, Norway, but also at the Wisp Ski Area in McHenry this past weekend, as some 120 special athletes from throughout Maryland gathered for two days of training and competition in the Maryland Winter Special Olympics. Hugs and smiles were in abundance, as gold, silver, and bronze medals, plus scores of ribbons, were awarded to the participants. Taking a major role in assisting with the event this year were members of state and local law enforcement agencies, while baseball great Cal Ripken Sr. was on hand to award the gold medals. Education Board To Meet Tuesday; Agenda Noted

The Garrett County Board of Education will meet Tuesday, March 8, at the education board office for the regular monthly session. The budget for fiscal year 1995 will be among the topics, with work sessions in both the public

The call to order is scheduled for 1 p.m., followed by an hour-long open budget work session. Public comment will take place at 7 p.m., followed by a discussion with parents who have varied concerns or comments about the local school system.

The public is invited to attend the all or part of the public session of the education board meeting. For more information, persons may contact Lucille Ludvigsen at 334-8901.

Survey Results

Continued from Page A-1 while slightly over 15% of Northern's students did so. At the seventh and eighth grade level, the difference was not as significant, with just over 10% at Northern and just over 15% at Southern.

Health officials have since met with representatives from Southern High School who will, in turn, help the students there launch an anti-smoking project.

The percentage of students who reported they have had sexual intercourse was just over 20% at the seventh and eighth grade levels; over 40% at the ninth and tenth grade levels; and close to 60% at the eleventh and twelfth grade levels.

Of those students reporting sexual activity, fewer than 500 said they were using a contraceptive and, in many cases, techniques reported to avoid pregnancy would not necessarily protect them from sexually transmitted diseases.

"There's a lot of risky behavior going on," said Archer, who also noted that a student's first sexual encounter tends, in particular, not to be protected.

Commissioner John Braskey asked Archer if the possibility existed that a student might lie about sexual encounters to impress peers but Archer assured him that under-reporting is much more likely than over-reporting.

Another question on the survey which also concerned the county and health officials related to alcohol consumption. A total of 15% of the county's seventh and eighth graders reported they had consumed wine or beer within the last month; almost 30% of ninth and tenth graders had done so; while approximately 55% of eleventh and twelfth graders had engaged in the activity.

The health officials reported that the incidence of drinking was higher at Southern High School than at Northern High School but that students having closer access to liquor at the southern end was probably a factor.

Of even more concern was the incidence of what health officials referred to as "binge drinking" (consuming five or more drinks in a row). Over 15% of ninth and tenth graders had engaged in the activity during the last month and over 20% of eleventh and twelfth graders had.

"We also need to look at the results of this behavior," said Archer, explaining that injuries, sexually transmitted diseases, or pregnancy could result from such behavior.

The survey came about in part, because of a recommendation from the Health Advisory Committee of the Garrett County for a Healthier Year 2000. The committee needed data to help them make health-related recommendations.

"This survey helps provide base-line data, and will also help us in obtaining grants," noted Sherrard.

Archer explained that the survey should also provide valuable information to the students. "Sometimes kids think that everybody is engaging in certain activities," he said. "We wanted them to know what the percentages were and reflect that information back to them."

Emperor Alexander I of Russia and Napoleon I of France agreed to divide the world up between them in 1807.

Teamwork At Its Best...

Tragedies and extreme weather conditions have brought out the best in Garrett County residents during the past several months, as we all join hands, rally together, and work our way through whatever life throws at us. While much can be said to describe this particular characteristic of our community, the single word that comes to mind this week is teamwork. As individuals, our efforts may seem somewhat insignificant, but as a team, our accomplishments are profound.

There is another shining example of teamwork in our midst right now and it does not involve tragedy and hardship, but a positive circumstance. We refer to the men's basketball team of Garrett Community College, which has won both the Maryland JUCO and Region XX championships in the past two weeks and is now headed to the Division II national championships.

The Lakers have earned their 27-4 record and championships not because they have one or two superstars. Their success has been the result of consistent, effective teamwork, accomplished by six or eight, and sometimes as many as 10, players on the GCC roster, all selflessly working together toward a common goal. While some players, obviously, are more talented than others, nearly everyone on the team has had a turn at being the top scorer in a game.

Among the luxuries this situation affords a team is that, if one depends heavily upon a superstar, and that player happens to be off on a given evening, the team will most likely lose. When a coach has a team full of solid players, victory can still be accomplished even if one or two have an off night.

We realize that the term teamwork is a tired cliché, used every day by athletic coaches everywhere as they explain why their teams won or lost a game. But the 1993-94 Laker team truly exemplifies the meaning of the words team and teamwork.

The enrollment of GCC is about 600, with nearly half of that number being part-time students. The enrollment of Prince George's Community College, whose team the Lakers defeated to reach the national tournament, is 16,000. GCC will undoubtedly be, by far, the smallest college represented in the tournament, yet, they used teamwork to overcome this tremendous size difference in schools and programs.

So, we congratulate Coach Dennis Gibson and his staff for outstanding leadership and the Lakers for their tremendous accomplishments this season. It is extremely rare that, out of such a rural community and from such a small institution, comes a team that has a real shot at a national title. We look forward with great excitement to the Lakers' trip to Indiana and, win or lose, we thank them for the distinction they have brought to Garrett County.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

If there was a magic meal that would almost certainly improve your children's school performance and overall health, wouldn't you want them to have it? Fortunately, there is breakfast. Studies have demonstrated that children who participate in school breakfast programs show significant improvement in attention, tardiness, and standardized test. The members of the Garrett County Federation of Teachers understand the importance of a nutritious breakfast to the well-being of children. We hope to draw attention to this important meal during National School Breakfast Week (March 7-11).

There is strong evidence that students who eat a school breakfast perform better on standardized tests, are on time for school more often, have better attendance, and have fewer disciplinary problems than students who don't eat a school breakfast.

Unfortunately, as the number of parents in the work force increases, and families rush to get to school and work, too many students arrive at school with empty stomachs.

Hungry children cannot learn. When children are hungry or undernourished, they tend to be irritable, have little energy, and have difficulty concentrating -- all of which can interfere with learning. School breakfasts benefit not only students who may not get enough to eat, but also children who do not eat the right kinds of nutritious foods. Children of all socioeconomic levels share this same risk.

The members of the Garrett County Federation of Teachers are proud of our school breakfast programs. Every school day, our school food service employees provide healthy breakfasts for Garrett County children. School breakfast goes far beyond just providing good nutrition and improving school performance. It also helps teach children good eating habits that lead to lifelong healthy eating. We believe many more children could benefit from a nutritious school breakfast.

Schools have a unique opportunity to provide children with a nutritious breakfast. School breakfast programs prepare children for learning, fight childhood hunger, and enhance the long-term health of children. We are making important advances toward guaranteeing health care for all and developing world class education standards. No matter how good our schools are, our education system will work effectively only if students are ready to learn. School breakfast can help fuel their success.

Sincerely,
Joe Heatherman, President
Garrett County
Federation of Teachers

Detective stories/mysteries are the most popular category of books at our library. The mystery genre also includes ghost/supernatural stories, as well as riddle stories. Detective stories originated as a form of riddle story, but have evolved into a separate category which at least to the present day reader has become synonymous with mysteries.

The modern detective story originated with "The Murders in the Rue Morgue" by Edgar Allan Poe in 1841. Poe's C. Auguste Dupin was the first fictional detective. The first full length detective novel, L'Affaire Lerouge, by the French author Emile Gaboriau, was published in 1866. The Moonstone by Wilkie Collins, published in England in 1868, was the first detective novel written in English. The library has a copy of The Moonstone and in spite of seeming a little slow paced for modern tastes, it continues to be eminently readable. The introduction to the edition in the library, written by Alexander Woolcott in 1937, claims that The Moonstone is not only the first detective novel, but that it is the best. Anna Katherine Green became the first American author, as well as the first female author, to appear in this category with the publication of The Leavenworth Case in 1878. Sherlock Holmes, undoubtedly the world's most famous detective, burst on the scene in 1887.

From these beginnings developed what is in the words of Dorothy L. Sayers, "An avalanche of mystery fiction." From Poe in 1841 to 1920, there were approximately 1,300 new titles in this field. In the next twenty years this number increased to 8,000. Today there are thousands of titles per year being published.

Other than the noted French author Georges Simenon and his Inspector Maigret novels, detective novels have remained largely an English language phenomenon. In both Great Britain and the United States detective novels are enormously popular. The work of English authors such as Agatha Christie, Dorothy L. Sayers, G.K. Chesterton and Margery Allingham created a sort of classic era of detective fiction. These authors remained faithful to the original precepts of the genre. In this country, as usual, things were different process, but friends sometimes get placed in a different category. But the truth is, and I have been there myself, whether it be family or friend, the hurt, anger, and pain remain the same.

It's true, time really does help, but it's also a hindrance. I had trouble coming to terms with the fact that I would forget their faces, their voices, the sound of their laughter. But now I know when you love someone you never ever forget one loving memory of them. God bless you.

The Garrett County Humane Society knows of a white pick-up with Maryland license and a light blue and white Chevrolet pick-up with a club cab having been seen in areas where pets have been reported as missing. There were two white males in the blue and white pick-up seen watching dogs from their stopped vehicle.

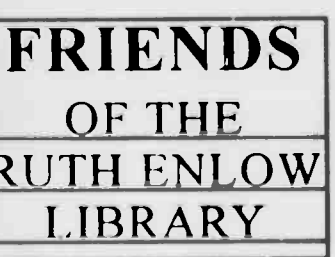

If we are going to stop this rash of disappearing animals we are going to have to work together. Anyone seeing vehicles like these with the occupants behaving suspiciously or watching areas where dogs and other pets are present is asked to try to get a license number and contact the local Humane Society chapter at 746-5725.

An Update From The Superintendent

By
Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent
Of Garrett County Public Schools

INTRODUCING STUDENT SERVICE LEARNING

written by Luther D. Parrack Jr., director of secondary education, and Michelle Zollner, teacher, Southern Middle School

The Garrett County Public Schools has implemented service learning programs for secondary school students. Beginning with those entering ninth grade in the fall of 1993, state regulation is requiring each graduate to perform 75 hours of community service or complete a local designed service learning program which is approved by the State Superintendent of Schools. Garrett County has chosen a locally designed program which begins in the middle school and continues through high school.

The service learning program is designed to teach students citizenship skills for living in a democracy. Students need to develop the social, personal, and intellectual skills necessary to make a positive contribution to their communities and the service learning experience helps them not only learn, but demonstrate responsibility, teamwork, leadership, caring for others, and personal maturity.

In the middle school program, all students will be included in integrated service learning instruction and activities. Each grade level team (grades 6, 7, and 8) has developed a structured activity involving groups, classes, and individuals in service projects. Much of the instruction takes place in the "Quest: Life Skills for Adolescence" curriculum. These activities are interdisciplinary, thematic projects adapted to the developmental levels of middle school students and special needs students. Through these activities, students become familiar with service learning language and concepts, and begin to develop their interests for high school student service learning projects.

Students complete the service learning requirement in high school. All students participate in a required government/citizenship class at grade nine. This course includes a specific unit of instruction emphasizing service learning outcomes as they relate to citizenship, community agencies and resources, and social issues and problems.

In addition to the civics unit, each high school student must complete 40 hours of approved service with a school group or with an approved community organization. Students may only accumulate 10 hours a year. Appropriate service activities are identified in the form of an index, which is a resource file of local service opportunities. Individual adult leaders willing to facilitate the service learning program are trained to assist students with appropriate preparation, action, and reflection activities required by the state. The community has been very cooperative in providing sites for students to do their volunteer service.

Over 115 different community volunteer sites have been registered in the index. These are in addition to the several school groups and include charitable agencies, scouts, fire departments, civic clubs, church groups, nursing homes, P.T.A.'s, community action agencies, libraries, and many others. Since this is a "learning" program for young people, the volunteer sites must have adult supervisors who are oriented to the objectives and procedures of the program in order for student activities at the site to satisfy the requirement.

There are a number of things parents, students, and people at the volunteer sites can do to insure the success of the service learning program. It is helpful for parents to encourage their youngster and to emphasize the positive aspects of serving others -- perhaps even join in volunteering themselves. Keeping the lines of communication open between the student and the volunteer sites also contributes to the success of the program. When a student calls to volunteer, the site supervisor should set up a time, and note the student's name and telephone number. If the student also writes down the name and number of the contact person at the agency, then either party can notify the other if the schedule changes for any reason. After a student has performed the volunteer work, the site supervisor will sign a student tracking sheet, filled out by the student, to indicate how many hours have been completed. A site supervisor should not sign the tracking sheet if a student fails to perform the tasks satisfactorily. It is important that the student takes the volunteering seriously.

Each volunteer site must be listed in the Volunteer Site Index. If an organization has not yet completed paperwork to be listed, it is simple to do so. Just contact Mr. Parrack's office at the board of education (334-8933) and request a Serving Learning Site Application, return the completed application to the address indicated, and provide an adult willing to be trained as a Serving Learning Leader. A student cannot be given credit for volunteer hours at a site that is not officially listed in the Index.

WISTFUL SKIING

Persons on the ski slopes at a distance from which I view, each appear as black specks weaving back and forth. Their ambience of singular person is beyond me to beckon. They are but a speckled presence upon the white maze of bright trails. For their particular motion in the remote view, they do transcend into a form which signals me as distinctly human. When they stand still, I am at a loss to discern.

These skiers are effectively out of reach, and I am not equipped to view their singular presence up close. For their relative size, they are more encompassed by the mountain than not. This wholeness of feature causes me to perceive the scene as some sort of puzzle instead.

In particular on a snow-occluded day, I might but catch a glimpse of the skiers' motion between the falling flakes. Behind a greater fall, the skiers would virtually disappear. During one such intervention, I was suspended to think of even a greater distance which might come between us.

Like so many sparkling flakes of snow, the stars form another curtain with dimensions immeasurably large. Distances are such that peering about from one to another with even the greatest of aids reveal not so much as a planet let alone a disparate skier.

Admonished by such awareness, my thoughts return to consider how one even survives long upon the streets away from those we recognize, know, and love. I survey few who seem to display such an anxiety. For the short interval, there seems to be a sense of solace which pre-empt thoughts of such separation, thoughts about a universe so large that being in it, we can become so small as to become invisible and lost. The incessant fall of snow continues to remind me of that vulnerability.

Chilled by the speculation, I await eagerly for the snow to cease and the return of my cheerful and familiar view. I am nostalgic now for the company it provides. There is reassurance to the regularity of the skiers presence as they dance again and again across the travail of paths cut through the woods.

At twilight, even on the best of days, I experience apprehension when I sense the skier's thoughts of home. At such times in progression, they slowly disappear. At day's end, they totally relinquish their claim to the mountain. The trails become motionless. They become but sinuous paths, diffuse shadows of bluish cast which rent a somber way through the immense cover of dark woods.

From my gathering of distance, I cannot be but impressed with the residual pall. Although, up-close, I am confident that within the sentient glow, there is a collection of cheer as friends assembly for their evening trek home. I am encouraged to wish them well by the warmth of the thought.

Meanwhile, the mountain and I are left to the final throws of light from the sky. The eclipse too is large, so I cannot exit from my ponder.

Then there is a final flurry of traffic with a stream of placid faces. Hello; Don't I know you? ... I wonder.

BACK TO NORMAL, PLEASE

by Carol Cox

The coming of the new year in Garrett County has been plagued with disasters, both natural and accidental. It's as though our beloved county is under some unseen spell destined to interrupt the otherwise peaceful tranquility usually found here in winter.

Mother Nature has wreaked havoc over the last two months in the form of exceptional bouts of sub-zero weather, excessive snowfall, ice storms, flooding and the uncertainty acquainted only with winters of days gone by. School has been out more than it's been in session, and regularly scheduled events have been canceled numerous times, including the monthly meetings of the Garrett County Alliance for the Mentally III. But, hopefully, things can return to normal in time for the March 11 meeting. After all, I've seen a robin, gotten a seed catalog, and onion sets are now in the stores!

The outlook for the new year includes plans for outreach programs throughout the county, and a concentrated effort to attract new members to the organization. Family members of persons with mental illness who have never attended a session of our group are encouraged to call me for more information and/or come out to the Garrett County Lighthouse, Rt. 219 N, on March 11 at 7 p.m. to share personal experiences and gain support from those of us who have been there.

We have the answers to your many questions, and we have personal experiences just like yours.

Hafer's Family Bills Rejected

District 1 Senator John J. Hafer's bill that would have required persons seeking a divorce to obtain family counseling for themselves and any children involved was rejected by a Senate committee, as was a companion bill sponsored by Hafer that would have made it a misdemeanor to interfere with parents' or grandparents' visitation rights.

Although Senate Bill 206 was reportedly killed because committee members were too uncertain about how it would be carried out, supporters of the measure showed themselves in significant numbers.

Hafer reportedly stated that he would continue to fight for both issues.

Lead Poisoning Bill Introduced

A bill introduced by the Schaefer Administration would reduce lead paint hazards while, at the same time, aim to protect landlords by granting immunity from lead poisoning lawsuits to owners of over 150,000 rental housing units in the state built before 1950.

In addition, owners of units built between 1950 and 1978 would be able to seek protection from lawsuits if the required repairs are made to those units.

State health officials have reportedly estimated that as many as 4,000 children, six years of age or younger, are annually poisoned by lead paint. Children who are exposed to lead for long periods of time often suffer permanent brain damage and develop learning disabilities.

Comm. Passes Death Penalty Reform Bill

A bill designed to shorten the appeals process for death row inmates was approved last week by the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee in a 9-2 vote. The committee, however, did not opt to honor the governor's request that the bill also contain language that would limit the scope of the death penalty.

Specifically, the governor hoped to limit the ability of juries to impose the death penalty by removing four of the 10 justifications for imposing the sentence.

Proponents of the bill say it would reduce the time which elapses from sentencing to execution to six years. A group of defense attorneys, however, have reportedly claimed they would not have enough time to prepare cases under the new limitations.

Currently, there are a total of 14 inmates on death row. There have been no executions in the state since 1961.

The bill is now on the Senate floor, and a companion House bill is scheduled to be heard today by the House Judiciary Committee.

Motorcyclists Want Helmet Law Repealed

Motorcycle groups were in Annapolis last week to protest a law passed two years requiring the use of a helmet. They are actively seeking to repeal that law which, they say, denies them their "personal freedom," according to reports.

Supporters of the helmet law, however, cite statistics that reveal highway deaths among motorcyclists decreased by 11 (from 54 to 43) since the law took effect, and Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer reportedly vowed to veto any attempts to reenact a repeal of the law.

A state helmet law was first enacted in the early 1970's, and then repealed in 1979. The law was then restored again in 1991.

Panel Approves Family Bills

Families suffering from divorce or domestic violence are the target of two bills approved unanimously last week by the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee. The first one, Senate Bill 312, would grant authorities more power in collecting $343 million in court-ordered, unpaid child support payments.

The measure was introduced by the Schaefer Administration.

The second bill, Senate Bill 279, aims to implement significant changes in the current state domestic violence law, including a provision that would repeal the prohibition against prosecuting a person for rape or specified sexual offenses if the victim is the person's spouse.

Hoffman Named Vice President Of Amer. Trust Bank

G. Paul Sagal Jr., senior vice president and director of commercial banking at American Trust Bank, recently announced the appointment of Andrew G. Hoffman as vice president and commercial loan officer.

Hoffman has over 18 years experience in banking and, prior to joining American Trust Bank, was employed with First National Bank of Maryland as vice president and commercial loan officer for Washington County.

A graduate of Middletown High School, Middletown, Hoffman received a bachelor of arts degree in economics from Hampden Sydney College, Va. He holds a master's degree in economics and political science from Hood College and a master of business administration from the University of North Carolina.

During his career, Hoffman has attended numerous American Institute of Banking courses on credit and commercial finance as well as various bank-sponsored seminars.

He was active in municipal and philanthropic organizations in Hagerstown, and has held positions in the Hagerstown Lions Club, Hagerstown-Washington County Industrial Foundation, Community Center, Inc., Boys and Girls Club of Washington County, and Goodwill Industries.

Hoffman, his wife, May Elizabeth, and their two children currently reside in Hagerstown.

that when and if money is made available by the Maryland State Highway Administration, they would be ready with estimates," he said. "Accident still has the best option for that project as opposed to Oakland where, since the proposal was rejected some years ago, the corridor has filled in with development."

He then concluded, however, that the project would take years to develop.

Groups representing environmental concerns, however, were not quite as enthusiastic about the prospect of developing a major thoroughfare through the county.

"We are absolutely opposed to the concept," said Fred Bolton, chairperson of the Western Maryland Chapter of the Sierra Club. "It's the worst thing you can do to the environment."

"First of all, the route would run right through Meadow Mountain, a part of the state forest. Then there is the question of just how economically advantageous it would be."

Bolton said the group strongly opposes forsaking natural habitats and ecosystems in exchange for more traffic and increased noise, air, and water pollution.

He also expressed concern about the county's dependency on tourism, saying that more development and road construction would tend to "destroy the very thing that tourists find so attractive about the area," and that there should also be a concern among the citizenry about the land trust factor inherent in public lands.

Annual Beacon Courses At GCC To Begin Week Of March 21

Garrett Community College will once again offer a group of Beacon courses designed for adults with special interests. Tuition for these courses, which will begin the week of March 21, will be waived for Maryland residents 60 years of age or older.

Two of these courses will be given at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland. Leaving a Legacy: Telling and Writing Family Stories (ENG 290) will meet on Wednesdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. for nine weeks starting March 23. Dr. Gail Herman and Joan B. Crawford will teach this course that was given for the first time last fall. Students in the class learn to share their memories of people and experiences in their lives and to preserve their stories in oral and written form from their families and future generations.

Instruction in illustrating the stories will also be given. Persons do not need to have previous experience in writing or storytelling to take the course. World War II (HIS 290) will be given at the Mary Browning Senior Center on Fridays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. for nine weeks starting March 25. Adjunct instructor Paul Shogren will teach this course in which students will view video tapes and discuss important events of the war and the changes on the homefront. Shogren plans to have some local veterans of World War II share their experiences for the class.

Students in this course will meet for the first time in the Music Room of GCC, and then will travel to various locations of historic interest in Garrett and Allegany counties to learn about the history of the area.

An art course and a biology course round out the Beacon schedule this spring. Watercolor Painting (ART 292) will be given on Friday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon in the art gallery of the college, beginning March 25 and ending June 24. life and biology, on several Saturdays each month during the growing season. Students in this class will walk along nature trails and through woodlands to find wildflowers that grow in the area.

Students may register for these classes by phone by calling 387-3044, or they may register in person at the Registrar's Office of the college, weekdays, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Anyone desiring further information may call Joan Crawford at 387-3046.

Car Windows Shattered During NHS-SHS Game

An unknown suspect apparently used a BB or pellet gun to shatter car windows on four vehicles during the Northern and Southern basketball game last Tuesday night. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is currently investigating the incidents.

Lona J. Filsinger, Swanton, told police that she had parked her 1985 Pontiac 6000 in the parking lot at Southern High School and attended the basketball game. Upon her return, she discovered that the driver's side window was shattered. The loss value was set at $200.

Steven Savage, Accident, parked a 1987 Bronco II (owned by Gary L. Savage) near the Southern High library before the game, and when he returned, he found that the passenger's side window was shattered by a BB. The loss was also listed at $200.

Clara Johnston, Mtn. Lake Park, had parked her 1990 Dodge Caravan in the driveway of her home, located on Oakland Drive, on the same night. The next morning she found that the back window was shattered, with the loss estimated to be approximately $800.

In the fourth case, the vehicle that sustained damage was parked at the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall, located on Allegheny Drive. Robert R. Damon, Mtn. Lake Park, had parked his 1989 Dodge Dakota truck there at approximately 7 p.m. on the same night. When he returned approximately an hour later, the back window of the vehicle had apparently been shot out. The damage in this instance was also $200.

Any person with information about these incidents is urged to contact the sheriff's office at 334-1911.

Silver In Garrett County . . . And Maybe Gold

by Lola B. Parker

Did the forty-niners leave a bonanza behind them when they trekked all the way to Colorado and California for riches? Civil War soldiers found gold at Cabin John, near Washington, D.C., and it was mined there for many years. (The old mine is now covered by a parking lot!) There is certainly silver hidden in the mountains of Garrett County, and folklore says there might even be a bit of gold.

In the early days of the last century, George W. Layman, who lived in Garrett County along the newly-made National Road, was a great hunter and fisherman, spending much of his time in the wilderness south of the road. One day he got lost in strange territory. After hours of wandering he stopped at a spring for a drink and a rest. As he looked around, trying to get his bearings, he noticed an outcrop of strange-looking rock. Since it was like nothing he had ever seen before, he chipped off a piece of the dark, metallic-looking stone to examine it, and found it unusually heavy. Dropping it into his hunting bag, he carried with him as he worked his way back into familiar terrain.

At home he forgot all about the rock until years later, at someone's suggestion, he had it assayed. It was found to be rich silver ore. He then had it minted into coins which amounted to sixteen dollars and ten cents. Layman then tried to return to the silver lode, but though he searched for years, he could never find it. He finally told others, but their luck was no better than his. Somewhere on the west side of Meadow Mountain in the New Germany area, where a stream flows east, is possibly a rich vein of silver.

Occasionally during the 1800s others found bits of silver ore -- or what they hoped was silver. A man named Gray found and sampled an outcrop of silver ore, also in the New Germany area, but like Layman, he could never locate it again.

Wiley Wellint found an unusually heavy rock near Herrington Manor State Park. From its appearance and weight, he had good reason to think it was silver ore. He never told where he found it or what he did with it.

One man -- name unknown -- seems to have had a secret lode all his own. The story passed down in the family is that, now and then, he would take his son on a tramp far back into the woods. At a certain place he'd stop, tell the boy to stay there and wait for him, then he'd disappear among the rocks. When he returned he'd be carrying silver ore. What he did with it, the family doesn't know, for he never told. He must have sold it, yet counterfeiting was a way of life in those days.

It was around the turn of the century that a Mrs. Isreal Duckworth, who lived in the New Germany country, dreamed three nights in succession that if they would dig beside a certain log in the woods close by, they would find silver. Someone believed her enough to follow her instructions, and a good grade of ore was found just where she predicted. This time the lode was not lost in some forgotten wilderness. They started mining. There is no record of stock being sold, but it was soon found the silver existed in no paying quantities, and the mine was abandoned.

The news that there was silver in western Maryland gradually leaked beyond the state. Around 1900 two men named Miller came from Arizona to prospect for precious metals. Before long they announced they had found silver, also on the Duckworth property, though not very near the Duckworth mine. Their discovery was supposed to be a real strike, not like those long-lost outcrops accidentally discovered by old-timers.

The Millers saw the word got around, and excitement spread rapidly. Almost at once The Silver Belle Mining Company was formed. The company was incorporated in West Virginia. (Why West Virginia instead of Maryland, no one now knows.) After it was reported that Lonconing bankers had invested heavily, stock sold fast. The Millers, from silver country in the west, should know the value of what they had found and how to develop it. Everyone wanted a piece of the action and the profits. Soon the Silver Belle was a real working mine. Investors' hopes were high.

The Silver Belle was a real silver mine, true, but it was a strange one. The Millers may have been experienced prospectors -- and they certainly were experts at selling themselves and their ideas to the public, but it seems they knew little about silver mining. Since hard-rock miners were not available, they hired coal miners to do the job.

Hard-rock and coal mining are two entirely different operations. Though there was a lot of activity -- the miners were certainly digging -- very little silver was obtained. No paying-grade ore ever came out of the Silver Belle.

Phineas Broucher, a professional surveyor, who was hired to survey the property around the mine, laughingly told later he was the only one who ever got any silver out of the Silver Belle. Whether the Millers actually found a rich vein of silver, or whether the whole thing was a scam from the beginning, will never be known, but the closing of the mine left a lot of unhappy -- but wiser -- investors grumbling about their losses. So ended the silver boom in Garrett County.

Whether or not there is gold in these mountains has been a mystery for more than a century. If any gold-bearing rock has ever been found, it's been a well-kept secret. However, around 1860 a local character named Augustine (Teen) Friend was arrested for counterfeiting gold coins. He was tried in federal court in Cumberland, but when his coins turned out to be of purer gold than those of the government, he was acquitted.

The question to this day is: Where did Teen get his gold? When asked, he said, "Muddy Creek." Muddy Creek is a mountain stream beginning in the placid overflow from Cranesville Swamp, growing wilder each mile, until it plunges down Muddy Creek Falls and into the Youghiogheny River.

Teen lived beside the Creek in what is now Swallow Falls State Park, hunting, fishing and maybe panning for gold. It is not known how many coins he had, but just a few would have represented quite a find. It had to be enough to justify his making, borrowing, buying -- or maybe stealing -- the molds which were confiscated by the court at his arrest. There was talk he had a gold mine on the mountain north of Swallow Falls, but the type of rocks there discounts that. Anyway, how could a back-woods hunter, with none of the necessary equipment, get gold from the ore?

There is another story concerning the source of Teen's gold. In his young days he had been with a carnival for a while, and he is supposed to have shown someone a bag of gold rings obtained while working there. From these it was said he had made his coins. How could he have gotten such a number of gold rings legally or illegally? Either way he would have been foolish to show them. Some think this may have been just a tale to discredit him. The court had Teen's molds, but the officials didn't know what to do with them. They thought they should be destroyed and yet

At that time the first bridge across Deep Creek, for the road which is now 219, was under construction. Folklore says the problem was solved by embedding Teen's molds in the piers for the bridge! Recently a new bridge was built to replace the old one. Was it possible that the molds would be found when the old piers were taken out? But when that time came, a blast of dynamite demolished the piers. Now they lie, scattered debris, on the bottom of Deep Creek Lake with -- or without -- Teen's molds.

Fire Marshal Concerned About Electrical Products

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele, has expressed his concern on reports being received from fire departments throughout the state regarding the selling, distribution, and use of unlisted electrical consumer products. Many of these products have been imported from other countries.

Gabriele said that Maryland commercial law states "a person may not sell or distribute an electrical consumer product which is intended ultimately for the personal use of a consumer in or around a permanent or temporary household or residence unless the product is clearly labeled, marked, or stamped with the symbol of an electrical testing laboratory which has been certified by the State Fire Marshal to test products to determine that they are safe for use."

Any person who willfully and knowingly violates the provision of the law is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction is subject to a fine of not more than $5,000.

In addition to Maryland's Commercial Law, the BOCA National Fire Prevention Code, which is incorporated by reference in the Maryland State Fire Prevention Code, states "electric appliances or fixtures shall not be made available for use or used unless the appliance or fixtures are listed by an approved agency."

Any person who knowingly violates any regulation promulgated by the State Fire Prevention Commission shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than 10 days or both. Each and every day during which any use continues after knowledge or official notice of the use is illegal, shall be deemed as a separate offense.

Reports received by the fire marshal indicate unlisted electrical products are being found in hobby shops, pet stores, shopping centers, and department stores.

Gabriele and other fire prevention authorities throughout the state are making inspections of these and other facilities handling electrical appliances to insure compliance with the law.

Thank You

To all Communities and Friends,
Words may seem little but they greatly mean a lot. Perhaps you did not know me well, but in some ways I have grown to know you while working with the Rescue Squad over the years.
Some of you have thanked me personally. Others have said kind words or dropped a thank you card.

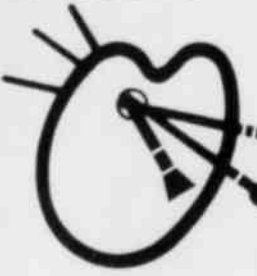

Either way, here is my way of saying thanks for my existence in the community for the last 18 years. I have enjoyed it and truly considered it my home.

Perhaps it is the family who usually writes this note, but I wanted to write this myself so you know how I felt and still feel for my existence in the community.

Much love and admiration to all that I have met.

With all my love,
Brenda Hawkins

The Lily

Although winter has yet to release its grasp, the lily springs through the snow. With a desire to bask in the sun and blossom for all to see.

It's been a year since the young girl planted a seed. In memory of her grandmother that spring who left our side in pain and misery.

And with her loss our tears rained down upon the earth. Like a river to nourish the barren landscape.

Spring is upon us once again, Life overcoming winter's dormant cloak. Bursting all around us, as though to remind us of their eternal souls.

Love has no seasons. It's timeless and forever young. Immortal, existing in our memories. Never to be forgotten.

Spring is upon us once again. The lily blossoms and basks in the sun. As I know you are, Mother, In the glory of God and within our souls.

In memory of my mother, Darlene Sisler

Caring Connection Submits Mid-Year Progress Report

The Caring Connection Program of Garrett Community College recently submitted its mid-year report for fiscal year 1994, completing five and one-half years of program operation at GCC. The Caring Connection Program provides special services to adolescent single parents and single pregnant teens, ages 14 to 19.

The program provided services during the first half of fiscal '94 to 16 individuals. Services included career counseling, skills identification, interest testing, personal development assistance, pre-employment skills training, vocational skills training in credit and non-credit courses, job awareness assistance, and service agency referrals.

Eight adolescents, or 50% of total program participants, still attending high school, participated in "Planning Life Directions" curriculum presented by The Caring Connection staff during the funding year at Southern High School.

Five adolescents, or 31.25% of total program participants, who have previously graduated from high school enrolled in credit classes at Garrett Community College. These five students received academic counseling from Caring Connection program staff and continue to receive assistance and support from the program. Three of the adolescents enrolled at GCC, or 18.75% of total program participants, received tuition assistance through Pell Grants and two adolescents, or 12.5% of total program participants, received tuition assistance through The Caring Connection program.

Survival Suits Are Donated To DNR Police

Several survival suits were donated to the Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) last week as a safeguard for officers patrolling Maryland waters who are subject to the severe elements of winter weather every day.

The sinking of the El Toro II and the frigid cold spells that have plagued the area this winter have increased public awareness of hypothermia. But the danger of hypothermia really hit home with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources this winter when Edwin Lewis, DNR employee, drowned as a result of hypothermia in a Garrett County pond while trying to rescue a loon from the ice.

"It was a tragic loss that really brought the issue of hypothermia home," said DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D. "Due to the nature of their jobs, DNR employees are out there, exposed to the elements, all year long -- particularly the Natural Resources Police who have to be out on the water every day enforcing the laws and assisting those who may find themselves in trouble."

Boating safety proponent and NRP supporter Al Simon learned about the recent tragedy at a meeting of the Boat Act Advisory Committee in December and also heard about the insulating abilities of survival suits.

A survival suit is a watertight suit that holds in body heat, thus preventing or reducing hypothermia -- the rapid loss of body heat in water. U.S. Coast Guard regulations require that Coast Guard personnel wear survival suits on board their vessels whenever the water temperature drops below a certain point. But Maryland has no such regulation and no funds to purchase the costly clothing. A top-quality survival suit can cost more than $1,000 each.

Simons, former president of the Boat Act Advisory Committee and a member of Boating Safety Advisory Council which advises the U.S. Coast Guard and the U.S. Department of Transportation on boating issues, decided to help.

He contacted several manufacturers and distributors of survival suits and coordinated the donation of six suits of various type and manufacture to the NRP from companies such as Sterns Manufacturing Company in St. Cloud, Minn., Parkway Fabricators in South Amboy, N.J., and Ocean Marketing in Annapolis.

"I hope to be able to get more suits for these officers who help to keep our waterways safe," Simon said. "They're out there all the time in all kinds of weather and they need to be protected."

"NRP officers are constantly reminding the public to be aware of water safety and the dangers of hypothermia," said NRP Superintendent Franklin I. Wood. "Until now, we've had no way of protecting ourselves from the same fate, other than the expert skills and professional abilities of the individual officers patrolling the waters."

"An accident could happen at any time," Col. Wood continued. "A tragedy such as the sinking of the El Toro II could require an officer to have to go into the water to rescue someone. Now, thanks to the efforts of Mr. Simon, we are on our way to protecting those officers and we are very grateful."

Lakers Win Region XX Crown To Qualify For National Tourney

Just one week after capturing the Maryland JUCO championship, the Garrett Community College Lakers won three more games in Hagerstown this past weekend to claim their first Region XX Division II championship and an opportunity to play for the National Division II NJCAA title.

The Lakers will be one of just eight teams, all regional winners, that will meet each other March 17-19 in Danville, Ind., to determine the national champion.

The Lakers, who went into the Region XX tourney as the number one seed and ranked ninth nationally, rallied to defeat eighth-seeded Charles CC, 73-58, on Friday, stopped fourth-seeded Potomac State College in another come-from-behind effort on Saturday, and then stopped second-ranked Prince George's CC in an overtime championship thriller on Sunday, 97-91.

The results gave the Lakers a 2-4 overall record, the best in the history of the school.

Wes Tubbs, who was ultimately named the Most Valuable Player of the tournament, poured in 27 points against Charles CC and grabbed nine rebounds to help his team overcome a cold start.

With just over seven minutes to play in the first half the Lakers were down by 10 points, 25-15, but then scored the next nine points to cut the lead to one. Tubbs scored seven of the nine points.

Charles was still on top by one at halftime, 32-31, and was up 48-47 with 10 and one-half minutes to play in the second half when a foul shot by Tubbs tied the score. Tubbs and Shane Scott then hit back-to-back jumpers to give the Lakers the lead for good. Jermaine Jones and Oliver Jones also finished in double figures for the Lakers with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Leading Charles CC's scoring were Peter Munsterleiger with 15 points, David Walker with 13, and Anthony Thomas with 11.

Saturday's win was the fourth victory of the year by the Lakers over the Catamounts of Potomac State College, with previous scores being 94-92, 109-85, and 103-86.

Jermaine Jones recorded one of his best efforts of the season, as he led the Lakers in scoring with 26 points, including a perfect 11-for-11 performance at the foul line.

George Hilton finished with 17 points, Tubbs recorded 13 points and a dozen rebounds, and Oliver Jones came off the bench to net 12 points.

The Lakers took a 6-2 lead in the opening moments of the game and were soon up by a 21-8 margin before the Catamounts responded with 11 unanswered points to cut the GCC lead to two. Potomac State tied the score at 23 and got its first lead, 26-25, on a three-point shot by Craig Kearney with 6:15 left in the first half.

The Lakers trailed by as many as five points (36-31) before scoring eight straight, as Oliver Jones converted a pair of steals into lay-ups to put Garrett up, 39-36.

the buzzer gave the Catamounts a 46-45 halftime lead.

Potomac State moved out to a 54-47 advantage early in the second half before the Lakers came back to take a 57-56 lead on back-to-back three-point buckets by Scott and Jermaine Jones. The Catamounts rallied again later with 11 straight points to go up 71-65 at the 9:27 mark, but the Lakers responded by scoring the next 11 points and taking the lead for good, 76-71, with six minutes remaining. They out-scored PSC 15-5 in the final three minutes.

Marcus Gaines and David Thompson led the Catamounts (16-8) in scoring with 21 and 20 points, respectively. Kearney added 13 points and Chris Teal recorded 11 points and 13 rebounds.

"It's really tough to beat any team four times in one season," stated Laker Coach Dennis Gibson, "especially a team that has as much talent at Potomac State. Fortunately we played well enough in the second half to get the win."

In the Region XX title game with Prince George's CC on Sunday the Lakers led from the early moments of the game until the 3:32 mark of the second half when Darren Dearing nailed a three-pointer to put the Owls on top the first time, 75-73.

The Lakers took a 15-6 lead early in the first half, with Jermaine Jones netting nine of those points for Garrett. They were up by 15 points, 33-19, at the 8:36 mark and ahead 42-28 with three minutes left in the half. But two long-range shots by Janial Homesley cut the Lakers lead to eight points. The score was 46-38 at halftime.

The Owls chipped away at the Laker lead and trailed by just two, 62-60, midway through the second half.

After Dearing's three-pointer that put PG up 75-73, Tubbs hit an inside jumper to tie the score. Dearing answered with another long-range bucket to make it 78-75 with three minutes remaining.

Then Garrett's Troy Sexton sunk a three-point shot and Kenny Gross followed with two free throws to give the Lakers an 80-78 lead.

Dearing nailed still another three pointer with 55 seconds remaining to put the Owls back up by one, 81-80, with 55 seconds remaining.

Dearing sent the contest into overtime when he fired a last second shot from 30 feet and banked it in for his fifth three-point bucket of the evening.

It was two three-point goals by Shane Scott in the overtime period that sealed the victory and championship for the Lakers, as the Owls were forced to foul and the Lakers cashed in on their opportunities. Oliver Jones recorded one free throw, while Jermaine Jones and Tubbs each sunk two.

PG's Romeo Roach scored the final points of the evening with a three-point goal with one second remaining. It was the 19th three-pointer of the evening, with the Owls recording 10 and the Lakers nine.

Oliver Jones led the Lakers' scoring with 22 points and also grabbed eight rebounds, while Tubbs finished with 20. Jermaine Jones netted 17, Scott scored 16, and Gross added 11 and was credited with nine assists.

Leading the Owls was Reggie Frisby with a game-high 27 points, while Dearing finished with 22 and Dwight Drake scored 12.

The Lakers, who had defeated the Owls in the regular season, 79-75, were out-rebounded by a 42-35 margin.

Prince George's earned a spot in the championship game by rolling over CCAC-South, 85-57. They finish with a 21-8 record overall.

Laker Women Fall In JUCO, Set For Region

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team was knocked out of the Maryland JUCO Tournament Friday evening at Dundalk by losing to Catonsville CC, 69-55, in first round action.

The loss did not end the Lakers' season yet, however, as they will take their 9-6 record into the Region XX Tournament this Friday.

The Lakers quickly found themselves behind, as Catonsville jumped out to a 10-1 advantage and never relinquished the lead. Garrett was down 39-28 at halftime and cut the margin to six points, 49-43, midway through the second half, but could get no closer.

Ebonie Richardson scored 22 points to lead Catonsville, while Sharon Ford and Amy Keuhl recorded 13 and 11 points, respectively.

Also scoring 22 points was Garrett's Michele Duling, with nine of them recorded on three-point buckets. Wanda Swartzwelder and Donna Friend each scored nine points. Dawn DeShong grabbed eight rebounds.

Coaching the Lakers were assistant coaches Jamie Workman and Marci DelBerry, while head coach Dennis Gibson had to be at the helm of the GCC men's team in the Region XX Tournament.

Rams Mash Frankfort; To Face Huskies In Playoffs

The Southern High boys' varsity concluded its regular season Friday night at home by rolling over visiting Frankfort, 75-57, and are now preparing to face arch rival Northern this evening in the West Region 1A playoffs.

The win over Frankfort gave Coach Tom Bosley's team a 14-7 mark for the year, and was the second defeat of the Falcons this season.

Mark Dawson led four Rams in double figures, as he finished with 18 points. Jeremy Sanders recorded 14 points, Mark Elliott added 12, and Brian Carlson contributed 11.

Elliott was also credited with seven steals, five of which were in the first half, and Carlson grabbed a team-high nine rebounds.

The Rams took the lead early in the game and never trailed, holding a 20-14 advantage after one period, a 45-29 lead at halftime, and a 55-39 edge at the end of the third quarter.

The Falcons (9-10) were led in scoring by John Long with 19 points, while Steve Abe and Aaron Stanmyre each finished with 10.

Coach Bosley credited his team's "pressure defense" with the win, adding, "We played a very good game this evening. We're anxious for the playoffs and we should be among the favorites. Westmar will be the team to beat, though."

The meeting with Northern this evening will be the fourth of the season, as the Huskies won the first contest back in December by one point, the Rams won the second in double overtime, and Southern also won the third by 11 points. The Rams are seeded second in the playoffs.

Because of their second place seeding in the playoffs, the Rams were awarded a first-round bye, while the Huskies played and easily defeated Hancock Tuesday night in a playoff opener (see separate story).

The Southern junior varsity concluded its second best season ever by winning Friday's preliminary game, 47-30, over the Frankfort Jayvees. Jim Pamepinto led the Rams with 11 points, while Jeremy Johnson and Scott Shahan each netted 10. Jim Patterson scored nine points to pace Frankfort.

Friend Scores 44 Points In Rams' Finale

Emily Friend poured in a career-high 44 points for the Southern High girls' varsity Friday evening, as the Rams defeated host Bishop Walsh, 63-54, in their regular season finale.

Friend recorded 17 field goals and 10 of 13 free throws for her total, leading the Rams to their 12th straight victory and setting them up for the Region 1 Class A playoffs that are currently underway. Coach Don Stemple's team, currently 14-3, was scheduled to play seventh-seeded Clear Spring last night, but the game was re-scheduled for this evening at 7 p.m. at Northern High School.

The Rams had to come from behind to defeat the 9-12 Spartans of Bishop Walsh, who led 14-7 at the end of the first quarter.

Southern came back to score 21 points in the second stanza and take a 28-27 lead, but the score was knotted at 42-42 after three periods. Another 21-point quarter for the Rams yielded the nine-point victory.

"We really started out slowly against them, but finally put it together in the fourth quarter," stated Coach Stemple. "Emily had just a super game for us."

The Rams will be a heavy favorite in tonight's contest against Clear Spring, especially since last year's Area Player of the Year, Carrie Newcomb, who has been sidelined with a knee injury is expected to play.

Newcomb, who is the area's leading average scorer, has a torn ligament in her knee. She has had the knee fitted with a brace and, according to Stemple, has been "about 60 percent" this week in practice. "We hope to have her at about 80 percent for Clear Spring," he said, adding that her physician reported that she cannot damage her knee any further by playing.

If the second-seeded Rams defeat Clear Spring, they will most likely face top-seeded Westmar for the regional title and an opportunity to go to the state

The Southern junior varsity girls also wrapped up a successful season Friday by winning the preliminary game over the Bishop Walsh Jayvees, 43-20. Miranda Marple led the Rams in scoring with 12 points, while Kerri Cannon and Kristi Stemple each finished with nine points. The Jayvees concluded their season with a 12-1 record, their only loss coming to the Westmar junior varsity on an evening when two key Southern players were not in the line-up because of illness.

Rams, Huskies To Wrestle In State Tourney

Five Northern High School wrestlers and four from Southern High School will be among those athletes competing for state honors in this weekend's Maryland State 1A/2A Wrestling Tournament at Western Maryland College, Westminster.

The local grapplers earned a spot in the state tourney by finishing among the top four in last weekend's Class 1A/2A West Region Tournament.

Placing second in the regional event were Northern's Tirrell Burdock, in the 112-pound division, and Dean Green, in the 140-pound division, along with Southern's Nathan Rickman, in the 119-pound division, and Pete Strawser, in the 145-pound division.

Finishing fourth in their respective weight classes were: Aaron Hordubay, 103, Lee Collins, 189, and Steve Savage, heavyweight, all of Northern, and Jason Burgess, 125, and Mike Liller, 130, of Southern.

In the team totals, the Huskies placed eighth with 60 points, while Southern finished ninth with 53 points. There were 15 teams in the tournament, with North Carroll winning first place with 160 points.

DNR Announces Proposed '94-95 Hunting Limits

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., announced this week proposals for the 1994-95 hunting and trapping season dates and bag limits for resident game species.

"Hunting has long been a tradition in Maryland and is both an important recreational activity and a vital natural resource management tool," Dr. Brown said. "We are always interested in receiving comments from all Marylanders on the management of the state's wildlife resources."

Proposed changes in the seasons from last year are as follows. In response to public requests, DNR will allow deer to be checked-in in a county adjacent to the county in which the deer was killed. The spring turkey season will be open statewide in 1995, after years of successfully trapping and transplanting the wild birds.

A comprehensive deer hunter preference survey conducted this past year showed widespread support for an early muzzleloader season. The proposed season is for three days, Oct. 20-22, with a bag limit of one deer. In the Western Maryland counties (Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett and Washington), permit, antlerless deer may only be taken during the last two days of the firearms season (Dec. 9 and 10). In the other western zones (Carroll, Frederick Zone 2 and Washington Zone 1), antlerless deer may only be taken during the last week of the firearms season (Dec. 5-10).

Management goals have been established for the antlered harvest in each of the western counties: Allegany - 2,500; Frederick - 2,000; Garrett - 2,600; and Washington - 2,100. Seasons will be structured so the kill will be within plus or minus 200 animals of these goals. These goals will be maintained through 1996 when they will be re-evaluated.

The area for the September Canada Goose season is being expanded to include Caroline (south of Rt. 404), Dorchester, Somerset, Talbot (east of Rt. 50), Wicomico, and Worcester counties. The purpose of this hunt is to slow the growth of the resident goose population in these areas in response to increased nuisance problems and agricultural depredation, while providing increased hunting opportunities. Other regulatory proposals include:

*the raccoon chasing season will be expanded statewide;

*the extension of the fox shooting season is being terminated;

*river otters will be relocated to Allegany County, so the season is being closed in this area;

*copper and copper-jacketed slugs will be allowed for hunting deer with shotgun;

*it will be required that muzzleloaders can only be loaded from the muzzle;

*allowing only shotgun - .22 caliber rim-fire rifles for shooting nutria.

"These proposals, along with the public information meetings, are a significant part of the ongoing dialogue between wildlife personnel and sportsmen," said Joshua L. Sandt, director of the DNR Wildlife Division.

The Wildlife Division invites interested persons to review the proposals and make comments or recommendations at the public information meetings or in writing. The 1994 public information meeting in Garrett County will be held Wednesday, March 23, at Northern High School, beginning at 7 p.m.

The deadline for written comments is March 31, 1994. These must be received before 4:30 p.m. Letters should be addressed to Joshua L. Sandt, Director, Wildlife Division, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Huskies Split A Pair Before Winning First Playoff Contest

The Northern High boys varsity wrapped up its regular season this week with an easy 90-53 win over visiting Mount Savage last Thursday evening and a 77-57 upset loss to host Beall on Friday, giving the Huskies a 16-5 record.

Then Coach Harv Speicher's squad entered the West Region 1A playoffs Tuesday night at home and cruised to an 84-59 victory over Hancock. The Huskies, seeded third in the regional standings, are scheduled to host the second-seeded Southern Rams this evening.

Rob Speicher recorded 22 points and six assists for the Huskies in their thrashing of Mount Savage last Thursday, while Alan Sebold added 12, and Speicher chipped in with 11.

Tim Hinebaugh and Sebold also grabbed 10 rebounds each and Jon Hinebaugh was credited with seven assists.

The Indians, 6-11, were paced in scoring by Mark Jewell with 22 points.

The Huskies moved out to a 23-13 lead in the first quarter, led 44-29 at halftime, and were up 67-41 after three periods.

The Northern junior varsity was defeated in the preliminary game, 39-31, as Josh Cook paced the Indians with 17 points. Dave Schofield scored 12 points to lead the Huskies.

The Husky offense that generated 90 points Thursday night was flat all evening the following evening against Beall, a team that the Huskies had defeated earlier in the season.

Phil Carter led the Mountaineers' offensive charge, as he pumped in 30 points, 26 of which were scored in the second half. Jason Teagley and Chris Young each finished with 12 points.

The contest was close until the fourth period, as the score was knotted at 13-13 after one quarter, the Huskies led by four at halftime, 30-26, and Beall held a 48-40 advantage at the end of the third period. But the Mountaineers, led by Carter's hot shooting, outscored the Huskies in the fourth stanza, 29-17, to secure the win. It was the ninth win in 21 games for Beall.

Speicher and Sebold again led Northern's scoring with 17 points each.

The Northern junior varsity concluded its season with a 49-46 victory over the Beall javees in the preliminary game. Andy Brenneman scored 12 points to pace Northern, while Tony Lesure netted a game-high 20 to lead the 10-8 Mounties.

Northern regained its offensive momentum in its regional playoff game with Hancock Tuesday night, with Tim Hinebaugh leading four Huskies who finished in double figures.

Hinebaugh scored 20 points, Jon Hinebaugh finished with 14, Sebold added 12, and Speicher chipped in with 11.

Tim Hinebaugh and Sebold also grabbed 10 rebounds each and Jon Hinebaugh was credited with seven assists.

Northern was never threatened in the game, holding quarter leads of 21-10, 40-17, and 60-24.

The Huskies will be looking to even the game score with the Rams this evening at 6 p.m., as in the three previous meetings this year, Southern won two. If they are successful, they will most likely meet top-seeded Westminster in the finals for the regional title and a shot at the state tournament.

Westmar must first get by fifth-seeded Williamsport in the second semi-final this evening.

Northern Girls Eliminated From Regional Tourney

The 1993-94 season has ended for the Northern High School girls' varsity, as the Huskies dropped their final regular season game of the season to the Southern Rams, 32-28, last Thursday in Oakland and then fell by just two points to Williamsport on Monday, 38-36, in the Region 1 Class A quarterfinals at Northern.

Despite the lost opportunity for continued post-season play, the Huskies enjoyed one of their most successful seasons ever, as they concluded with an overall mark of 15-6.

In the make-up game against Southern, the score remained tight throughout, as the defensive units of both teams kept the scoring low. The score was tied at 8-8 at the end of the first quarter, the Huskies led at halftime by four, 20-16, and the score was knotted again after three periods at 22-22.

A pair of free throws by Southern's Aaron Buser with 28 seconds left gave the Rams the lead for good.

Lisa Stephens led the Huskies in scoring with 14 points. Elida Schofield finished with eight.

Josey Covello paced the 14-3 Rams with 12 points. Buser scored seven and dished out six assists, and Angela Shafter netted seven points.

The Rams played again Friday night, when they defeated host Bishop Walsh, 63-54, and then won their Class A semi-final last night against Clear Spring (see separate story).

The Huskies went into the playoffs Monday night as the third seeded team, while Williamsport was seeded sixth. Once again, neither team was able to generate much scoring. Northern trailed by three at the end of the first quarter, 10-7, were down by one at halftime, 16-15, and were behind by three, 28-25, after three quarters. The Huskies were on top 35-33 in the closing moments, but Kim Reid's jump shot with 36 seconds left tied the score once again.

The Huskies missed on their opportunity to go ahead and, after a deflection out of bounds, Lea Andrews took the inbound pass and hit a jumper to win the game for Williamsport.

Stephens paced the Huskies with 12 points and was the only player to reach double figures. Amy Lowery and Becky Houser each scored seven points to pace was approached. It is an indescribably horrible feeling when you cannot afford to get even one present for your child to open, knowing that your child's face would not light up on Christmas morning.

When all looked hopeless, some very special people from the Oakland Rotary arrived at our home a few days before Christmas with more than we could ever imagine. They brought not only presents for the children, but also enough food for a great Christmas dinner, and gifts for my husband and me. To my children, they were Santa's helpers, but to me they were angels who brought back the hope that is sometimes lost and reminded us once again of the true meaning of Christmas.

This letter was written to let the Oakland Rotary Club members and the people who donated the items know that, although the holiday season of '93 has passed, I will remember their kindness and the light on my children's faces the rest of my life. Thank you.

Sincerely,
J.P. and family (#320)

To the Editor:

So many interesting things in the Republican and much tragedy! I too was saddened by the terrible tragedy in your official family and to our county in so many endless ways. I miss "The Mind Wanderers"

GARRETT COUNTY DISTINGUISHED SCHOLARS - Frostburg State University honored several high school seniors from Garrett County who were nominated by their guidance counselors based on academic talent. and all it entails.

I especially appreciated your editorial "Disturbing Trends." The home and family are so very important but sometimes influence from outside the home plays a tremendous part in lives as well. We, whoever and wherever, cannot say one thing and do another. Example speaks louder than words. Actions count! I have much argued with the "modern thing" accepted so widely in the last 20-30 years that I do this and so on the job, but what I do on my own time and in my own private life is my business and I do whatever I like. It is the philosophy I believe which has us where we are today. There is an "honor concept" which should prevail wherever you are and whatever you are doing!

What really stays with children from any experience is largely what they observe not what you say! Example was the great teacher long ago and I believe still should be!

John E. Hlinebaugh for filing the suit against the county administration should receive a badge of "valor." He has tried legitimately for so long to receive records, expenditures, and statistics, which as taxpayers we should have available to us and they have not been forthcoming; thus this particular suit! Mr. Hlinebaugh is a top expert in the field he is pursuing. Too bad someone of his caliber couldn't be at the head of our county government seeing to our finances!

Mr. Hlinebaugh is a super, real gentleman, with a brilliant mind. I wish him success.

I was grateful to read in the Feb. 24 issue (Republican) buried on page A13 under "Funding Cuts" that the "Mental Health" subject finally, after all these years was being "brought out" by Dr. Archer to the county commissioners in the open arena. It's about time the officials recognized the "call." They all have been "advised" for many years and chose to ignore mental illness and the mentally ill in Garrett County.

Several of us made our first journey concerning the case service agency (that Dr. Archer speaks of) to Cumberland in December 1990. Our programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

For more information or a program on insurance, please contact Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Cooperative Extension Service, 202 S. Third St., Oakland, MD 21550, or call at (301) 334-1190. Our programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

or more, but cannot live here since there is no "room at the inn," because no one has seen that we have gotten our fair share of the funding. Why?

Do we really care about our native born residents? We need some pleas and efforts expended on their behalf in the right places to end the long era of our "disfranchised citizens," our mentally ill!

Thanking you,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

To the Editor:

We want to say "thank you" to the people of our community for contributing to the Lutheran Brotherhood (a fraternal benefit society) Flood Assistance Fund.

Because of generous people like you, Lutheran Brotherhood was able to coordinate more than $2.8 million in relief to flood services in the Midwest. $1.6 million in donations was raised nationwide and another $1.2 million in combined funds raised by Lutheran Brotherhood branches and Lutheran Brotherhood's matching dollars. In addition 47,000 Lutheran Brotherhood volunteers and others donated nearly 103,000 hours of their time.

Because you cared, you made the difference. Thanks for caring!

Sincerely,
Betty Pastorius,

To the Editor:

An estimated 3,000 children begin smoking cigarettes each day, according to statistics recently released by the American Heart Association. Association president, James Moller, recently explained that "ultimately, these children may join the ranks of the 417,000 people who die each year of tobacco-related deaths."

Locally, the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition brings together representatives of the American Heart Association, as well as the American Lung Association, American Cancer Society, Cooperative Extension, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Garrett Community College, Garrett County Health Department and citizen advocates to work in our county on tobacco issues. Our Coalition works as a team to prioritize and meet our area's needs in tobacco prevention and cessation.

Projects that have been a part of our almost three year old Coalition's agenda have included spot-lighting local businesses that have gone smoke-free, distributing a Tobacco-Free newsletter as a newspaper insert for the community, and presenting tobacco-free

We have not ever received our fair share of the Tri-County Regional Funds for mental health, primarily because of the lack of advocacy. Now that the health department has been awakened perhaps we can awaken Garrett County to welcome our mentally ill back into the land of the living in Garrett County! They are our legal residents! Many have resided here 40 years enact stronger tobacco control laws to protect the public. This non-preemption legislation would aid tobacco reform on the local level, no longer allowing the preemption of city and county government legislation by the state laws.

Local public support of these specific pieces of tobacco legislation can be addressed by contacting our local Delegate George Edwards or Senator John Hafer at 1-800-492-7122.

More information on the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition can be obtained by contacting Natalie Messer, health educator at the Garrett County Health Department, at 334-8111.

To the Editor:

Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., Speaker of the House of Representatives, a position he secured for himself by showing his colleagues in Congress how to secure pay raises in contravention of the constitution, recently succeeded in having the State of Washington's voter approved Term Limitations Initiative declared unconstitutional, blocking its enactment.

Representative Foley, in keeping with his professional politician status, is at odds with this own constituents. They solidly back Term Limitations, and will contest the ruling.

He has been a congressman since 1964. Before his election he was an aide to the late Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington State. It is problematical that Speaker Foley ever in his entire life held a job in the "real world," or earned a dollar that didn't come out of taxpayers' pockets! To assess his understanding of the problems "real" people face, and those imposed on the business world by him and his colleagues, one need only recall his initial attitude, and subsequent mishandling of the House Bank and Post Office scandals.

He is a professional politician who has just demonstrated in a truly arrogant fashion, typical of "entrenched incumbents," what he really thinks of the will of the majority of the voters in his own home state.

What's the real problem here? You tell me. Here's what the preamble to Washington's initiative says: "...Entrenched incumbents have become indifferent to the conditions and concerns of the people; entrenched incumbents have an inordinate advantage in elections because of their control of campaign finance laws and gerrymandering of electoral districts; entrenched incumbency has discouraged qualified citizens from seeking office; have become preoccupied with their own re-election and devote more effort to campaigning than to making legislative decisions for the benefit of the people; have become closely aligned with special interest groups who provide contributions and support for their re-election campaigns... (who) give (them) special favors, and lobby office holders for special interest legislation to the detriment of the state, and may create corruption or the appearance of corruption."

You can do very little about Speaker Foley.

REDUCING THE COST OF YOUR HEALTH CARE

The proposed new health care program is discussed in newspapers and magazines. Most of us are concerned that the new program will not be up to the health care standards we are privileged to enjoy today. Most evaluators also do not see any dollar savings. What makes everyone worry though, is that the new health care program will be under the control of the government.

What can Americans do about it? For one, become informed, study reliable information. Second, become vocal. Make sure you have the correct information, band together in your community, find out where your representatives in the political arena stand and make contact with your congressman and senator. I often letters signed by the whole group are not bad, but a thoughtful letter from you stating your opinion, why you think that way and being clear on what you want your representative to do will receive a lot more attention.

Once you have done that, do not sit back and feel your job is done. Constant vigil, contact with interested people, community leaders and those in power, is necessary.

There are additional things you can do to reduce your health care costs. Take care of yourself. Eat right, get exercise and become aware of your families health. If two uncles and your father died of heart disease, you may have inherited this weak link. Much can be done today to avoid the same fate, and it starts with you. You are still your own best keeper.

Should you or a family member have to go to a hospital, tell your doctors that you want to record every significant procedure performed during the stay. Too many mistakes happen on hospital bills. The patient is probably not in a frame of mind to check everything and keep track of medicine and pills he/she receives. A friend or relative should do this. Write everything down and compare with the bill when you receive it. The hospital should be able to explain each item questioned. They keep a pharmacy log and know how many and what kind of pills were dispensed. Wrong codes may increase your costs as do double charges under different descriptions. Ask for an itemization on anything lumped under one heading.

Ask the hospital ombudsman to help you or find a patient representative. Most mistakes are the result of too much paperwork and overworked employees and can be cleared up. However, it is up to you to check your bill and ask questions. Turning, or letting the hospital turn over the bill to the insurance company without scrutinizing it still means that any overcharge will increase the cost of health care for everyone, including you.

For more information or a program on insurance, please contact Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Cooperative Extension Service, 202 S. Third St., Oakland, MD 21550, or call at (301) 334-1190. Our programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

Estrogen Use After Menopause: How Long?

How long should women take estrogen after menopause? That question was evaluated by researchers at Boston University Arthritis Center. Women who took estrogen were compared with women who did not. For women under age 75, estrogen appeared to make bones more dense and protect better against fractures. Many women over age 75 had stopped taking estrogen and their bones were not as dense. Researchers believe women may need to continue estrogen for a longer time.

In loving memory of my husband
for his birthday, March 7.

Memories
Sweet glimmer of yesterday
Lays softly on my mind;
Memories of what once was Never again to find.
Still silently searching
My heart as rushing waves
Yet, beating wildly
On melancholy days
I listen to the quietude
Throughout the whole of night,
Touch the love of yesterday
And strive to hold it tight.

Want to cook up a fast meal? Start by putting a pot of water on to boil, said the late, great cooking teacher, James Beard. You're likely to need it for something, he explained--if only a cup of tea.

If you like frozen yogurt, you'll love this pie. Soften vanilla frozen yogurt so you can spread it in a chocolate cookie crumb crust. Top with 2 Tbs. (or more, we're not watching) chocolate sauce and freeze. Repeat with coffee frozen yogurt and still more chocolate. Freeze.

Pita chips are super with dips, and low-fat, too. Split breads in half horizontally and cut into wedges. Brush with oil and bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes, or until crisp and golden.

Ratatouille, everyone's favorite vegetable dish, turns into a complete and healthful meal when you add a can of cooked cannellini beans and shredded cheddar or mozzarella cheese.

Out of semisweet chocolate? For one 6-ounce package, substitute 6 lbs. cocoa plus 7 Tbs. sugar plus ¼ cup vegetable shortening.

Summer Program Welcomes Students Who Are Seeking Health Careers

Junior and senior high school students who are interested in pursuing a health career after graduation are eligible to apply to the Health Career Enhancement Program (HCEP). This program selects 20 students to participate in a six-week summer experience which takes an in-depth look into health professions and a chance to live and attend classes on a college campus.

HCEP is the summer component of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center's (AHEC) Health Careers Opportunity Program.

There is no cost to apply and the program is free of charge to eligible participants. Applications are available at the AHEC, located in the Columbia Building at 11 Columbia Street, Cumberland. Deadline for applying is Tuesday, March 15, 1994.

According to an AHEC spokesman, the first week of the program is a hands-on learning opportunity designed for students to explore health careers. Students will participate in career shadowing experiences with individual health care professionals at Memorial Hospital and Medical Center, Inc., and Sacred Heart Hospital, both in Cumberland, and at private practice locations. Health professionals and representatives from Allegany Community College, Frostburg State University (FSU), and Potomac State College will discuss how to plan for health career training and how to access the higher education systems.

During the remaining five weeks of the program students will live and study at Frostburg State University. This component is designed to further aid students in preparing academically and personally for the rigors of health career training. Students will attend classes in English, biology, chemistry, mathematics, study skills, stress management, and physical exercise.

Additional off-campus activities include two overnight university and hospital tours to the University of Maryland at Baltimore and West Virginia University and a day trip to University of Pittsburgh.

According to Debbie Bradley, HCEP program coordinator, applicants are selected on the basis of their sincere interest in exploring several health careers, their average to above average grades, their interview to assess program commitment, their demonstrated effort toward improving current educational status, and their desire for personal development.

"The benefits to the 20 students selected to participate extend beyond the six-week summer program," said Bradley. "HCEP will offer support services to the participants for a full seven years after the completion of the summer program. Our staff will assist participants in college and course selection, and if necessary, we'll even advocate for resource support services."

All applicants will be notified by March 31, 1994, of their acceptance to the program. An orientation meeting and preliminary testing session for students who are accepted will be held at the AHEC in April. A parent and student orientation meeting will be held on the FSU campus in May.

For further information, persons may contact the AHEC at 301-777-9150 or 800-397-9150 and ask for the Health Careers Enhancement Program.

CRIME SOLVERS

This week's case for the Garrett County Crime Solvers program concerns the theft of several chainsaws from a local residence.

A breaking and entering occurred sometime between Dec. 3-20, 1993, at the residence of Larry D. Frazee, located on the White Rock Road, north of Friendsville. A tool shed was entered by the culprits after they apparently cut the lock, and seven Stihl chainsaws were stolen, as well as several other miscellaneous items. The loss in this case was estimated to be in excess of $12,000.

Any person with information about this or any other unsolved crime should contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Meese Receives Honor For Sales

David L. Meese, FIC, of Berlin, Pa., recently earned membership in Lutheran Brotherhood's 1993 President's Club. Meese is associated with the Society's Joseph A. Ruisi Agency in Johnstown, Pa. Meese's coverage area includes Garrett County.

The President's Club is one of Lutheran Brotherhood's most prestigious sales honors. Representatives qualify for membership in the club based on the sale of insurance and investment products to Lutherans.

Lutheran Brotherhood and its subsidiaries, which have more than one million members nationwide, offer life and health insurance, annuities and mutual funds to Lutherans. The Society has $36 billion of life insurance in force and $13 billion in assets under management, including investments in Lutheran Brotherhood mutual funds and variable insurance products.

A not-for-profit fraternal benefit society, Lutheran Brotherhood allocated $47.9 million to charitable and benevolent programs in support of its members, their communities and Lutheran institutions in 1993. These programs include educational scholarships, matching gifts for Lutheran congregations and schools, disaster-relief assistance, youth development, and support for 877 local branches (volunteer community service groups), among others. Over the last 10 years, the Society has contributed more than $300 million to its fraternal programs.

Centers Offer Programs For Gifted, Talented

State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick has announced that 12 centers offering special opportunities for gifted and talented students will be sponsored this summer by MSDE in partnership with a network of educational institutions, business groups, environmental groups, and government agencies. The network of centers will feature advanced level curricula in international studies, environmental sciences, mathematics, technology, social studies, and the arts.

These programs will enroll approximately 1,300 students entering grades 5-12. Eight of the 12 centers will be residential. All centers will have staff development components, enabling about 600 teachers to develop new skills for working with gifted and talented students.

Maryland's summer centers for the gifted and talented have traditionally been showcases for outstanding teaching methods, with techniques learned in these centers often finding their way into more traditional education settings. Dr. Grasmick praised the Maryland State Legislature and the members of the partnership network for their support of the summer centers. "These centers provide a rich educational experience for both young students and teachers. I am so pleased that our partners have joined again this year to offer fun and challenging summer programs for Maryland students," she said.

Brochures and application information about various center programs are now available in schools throughout Maryland.

Antiques

COLLECTIBLE CROSS FOR FEARLESS FELINE
Cats outell dogs two to one in the antique collectibles market. So it is not surprising that an English auction house received $34,650 for a very rare Victorian medal nicknamed the Animal V.C. (Victoria Cross), that was awarded to a cat.

As the communist and nationalist armies were fighting to the Yangtze River in China in 1949, the British sent ships to evacuate British citizens. Simon, a cat aboard the frigate Amethyst, protected the food supply by killing rats even after he was wounded and burned during a fight. Simon died in quarantine before he was awarded the medal for his wartime service.

The medal has been bought and sold several times in the past. The auction house estimate of under $7,500 suggested that it was worth much less than the "real" Victoria Cross, which has sold from $20,000 to $50,000. Cat lovers have battled for the precious memento. The new owner of Simon's medal is a film company that produces and distributes cartoons featuring animal heroes. It was a better choice than the underbidder who, it was said, was a manufacturer of cat food.

Q. Who is Joseph McHugh? I was just told that he made Mission-style furniture. I can't find any information in any books.

A. Joseph P. McHugh (1854-1916) claims to have originated the Mission style in America. He had a decorating furniture shop in New York which sold the newest lines from Liberty & Co. and other European firms. By the turn of the century, he was making three types of furniture called Colonial Collection, McHugh Willow and McHugh Mission. His pieces of willow (wicker) were the most interesting. He developed styles that were Mission in line, but made of woven wicker.

The influence and designs of McHugh were ignored until a recent exhibition at the Munson Williams-Proctor Institute in Utica, N.Y.

Are you over-insured? You may ask how that's possible but I can tell you. Nowadays, it seems there are insurance policies that cover just about everything imaginable.

While I would hesitate to call it fraud, I will tell you that the most useless insurances you can buy are the ones that pay off debts in the event of your death. These insurances pay off credit card debts, mortgages, car loans, whatever. While this may sound attractive, the truth is, you'll most likely never need this type of policy.

Statistics have borne out the fact that very few of those policies are actually paid up on. It's just another way of insurance companies getting money out of you for no particular reason. Don't fall for it.

Home Tips

VERSATILE SALT — I have another use for salt. When you bake a pie and it boils over in the oven but you can't stop the process because the pie isn't finished baking, pour salt over the spill thickly.

It will stop the bubbling and you can scoop out a large portion of the spill with a spatula.

Also, put something under the pie to catch further boil-overs. Cookie sheets or sheets of foil work great. Mindy H., Brattleboro, Vt.

"DISHING" WITH FRIENDS — I find a use for everything. I was washing dishes and a friend asked to see my dishcloth. She thought it was great. I made the cloth out of material scraps and then I sewed a piece of nylon net on the other side. You can wash dishes, and if you have a spot on your stove, just turn it over and you have your great nylon net. Renee K., Youngstown, Ohio

XMAS STORAGE — Most people wrap and store their Christmas ornaments in the attic or the basement where they can take on a musty odor. Here's a solution I have found.

I tape a thick plastic bag to the side of my dryer and throw all the used dryer sheets into it during the course of a year.

They still have a fragrance after being used, so I then use them to wrap my Christmas ornaments at the end of the season. They smell great when I unwrap them and this also provides a use for a typical throwaway item. Jeannie B., Washburn, Ill.

CLEAN SHOWER WALLS — Use your houseplant watering can to rinse your shower and tub walls after scrubbing. It's easy and saves water.

EASY SLIDE I have found when I try to put curtains on rods or the spring-type curtain holders, it's better to wrap the ends of the rod first with plastic wrap. The curtains slip right on without pulling or snagging. Patricia G., Tacoma, Wash.

Household Help
by John Amantea

Q. I have a three-year-old apartment building with a flat roof. It has 2"x10" ceiling joists with plywood on top and tar and gravel to form the roof. The ceiling is made up of R28 fiberglass insulation between the joists with vapor barrier and 1/2" drywall over the surface.

This winter, I had to remove the drywall ceilings from the two bathrooms which are back to back in the two upstairs, and found out that the plywood underneath the roof was wet. I also found out that it is spreading into the room next to the bathroom.

Do you have any suggestions to prevent this from happening? Could it be that the vapor barrier wasn't installed tightly enough?

A. There are several possible causes of your problem and we need to trace the steps of each of them. Your conclusion of an improperly installed vapor barrier is a probability but there are other factors involved that could cause this problem as well.

One important thing to keep in mind is that newer houses often have higher indoor humidity and moisture the first few years. This is a result of the usual moisture that exists in new building materials. Since you didn't mention anything about a ceiling fan or some kind of exhaust system, let's consider it. A lack of adequate ventilation will surely contribute to a moisture problem.

Another culprit that is often overlooked is the possibility of leaky pipes, if there are any, that exist above the ceiling. If your pipes are forming condensation on them, they will require foam insulation wrapped around them. This kind of condensation can spread to a room that adjoins your bathroom.

A final consideration is the possibility of a minor leak from your flat roof. Although the building is relatively new, you cannot rule this out. A good visual examination on the roof, above the problem area, is an important step to take. Sometimes the slightest flaw in someone's workmanship can cost you dearly.

I would strongly advise you to examine the aforementioned before you consult a professional. Also, if possible, keep the ceiling joists exposed until you fully remedy this problem.

TROOP 5025

In September 1993 newly formed Junior Girl Scout Troop 5025, of Grantsville, held registration. A total of 21 scouts and five adults joined the troop. Denise McFarland and Carol Resh are serving as troop leaders.

Activities the troop has attended include the American Legion World War II Memorial and flagpole dedication at the Grantsville Municipal Building on Oct. 24 and the Deep Creek service unit Investiture and Rededication ceremony on Oct. 26. During the ceremony the girls received their Girl Scout pins and became official members.

On Nov. 13th the troop visited New Germany State Park, where they earned the Wildlife Badge with the help of Rangers McDonald and Thomas. They also practiced fire building and outdoor cooking skills.

A troop Christmas party was held at the Star-Lite Roller Rink in LaVale. The girls had a gift exchange and shared pizza.

In conjunction with the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Center, the troop is presently earning the Senior Citizenship Badge. They have participated in two service projects, which included making favors for the patients' trays on Thanksgiving Day. In December the girls made and donated decorations for a Christmas tree at the home. The troop then went to the nursing center where they decorated several trees and held a social for the residents. Cookies and punch were served and carols were sung.

Hey Pizza is the troop sponsor. The Family Health Center donated supplies for a first aid kit.

and to attend a drug education program upon his release. Additional charges of possession of CDS with intent to manufacture, distribute, or dispense, were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney's office.

Warnick was arrested at Southern High School by Maryland State Police Officer Steven W. Vincent, on the strength of a warrant issued Jan. 26.

According to court records, Vincent was contacted by a confidential informant in April 1993 who said he she could purchase a quantity of marijuana from the defendant. The officer met with the informant, searched the vehicle to make sure it contained no CDS or money, and gave the informant $60 to purchase one quarter ounce of marijuana. During surveillance, the informant reportedly bought 4.9 grams of marijuana from Warnick and took it directly to the officer.

In May 1993, Tfc. Vincent made arrangements with the informant to again buy $60 worth of marijuana from the defendant, and again bought a quantity of the substance from Warnick, resulting in his arrest.

A DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) sentence imposed by Judge Burnett against Thomas J. Meyers, 21, Warren, Ohio, was revised to allow the defendant to work off his fine by providing community service for the Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry.

A first responders class for firefighters will begin Monday, March 7, 7 p.m. at the Bloomington fire hall.

dizziness, so the three were transported to the emergency room at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The gas company was contacted and a serviceman shut off the gas service to the house.

At the hospital, Mrs. Summerfield, Chad and Erica were found to have high levels of carbon monoxide in their systems. They were all placed on 100 percent oxygen for approximately four hours, and later released. Mr. Summerfield arrived at the hospital later, and was not treated.

Mrs. Summerfield reported the family is going to replace, rather than try to repair, its 30-year-old furnace. Since the carbon monoxide scare, the Summerfields have kept warm with one kerosene and two electric space heaters during the daytime hours only. "We just wrap up with extra blankets at night," she said.

Mrs. Summerfield said they always replaced filters on their furnace, but never thought about other things that could have gone wrong with heating systems. "I advise everyone to regularly check their furnaces," she said.

The Homemakers Corner
by Joan Schultz
Public Relations Chairperson

by Joan Schultz
Public Relations Chairperson

Hello, I'm Joan Schultz, the new Public Relations Chairperson for the Garrett County Extension Homemakers. This column will appear from time to time to report on the various county homemaker activities.

Today's column will cover two projects which were passed by the Homemakers County Council Board at a meeting on February 7.

The first was that each Homemakers club will be asked to purchase an article of warm clothing or pair of shoes which will be collected and sent to a Russian orphanage for blind children in Kharkov, Ukraine. Maryland Global Issues Coordinator Colleen Nelson, in cooperation with Mr. Walker, Maryland Secretary of Agriculture, and his wife, who is formerly from Russia, has given us this opportunity to help these underprivileged children living in an emerging democracy.

The second project is a

Homemakers Bazaar, for which a committee was appointed. The bazaar will take place at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident on Saturday, May 7, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. All homemakers clubs are urged to participate. Each club will sell its own handmade crafts, baked goods, and used items, such as would be sold at a flea market. Food and refreshments will be sold from the kitchen and the affair will be open to everyone.

The Garrett County Extension Homemakers is a non-profit, dues-paying organization that encourages homemakers of any age to reach for and achieve higher learning. We strive to enrich our members and those whom we may come in contact with on issues pertaining to family, health, community, environmental, civic and global matters. Anyone interested in becoming a member or desiring more information may call: Fannie at 746-8340, Loretta at 334-3837, or Irmgard at the Extension Office, 334-1990.

ROMAN CATHOLIC

St. Peter & the Apostle Catholic Church, Oakland, Rev. Martin E. Field, Pastor, Sat. Mass, 5:15 p.m., Sun. Masses, 8 and 10 a.m. Mass of Immaculate Conception,

Once upon a time a boy absentmindedly wandered deep into a woods. As the sun sank behind the tall trees, the boy panicked, having no sense of direction in the blackness, not knowing what waited ahead. Disheartened, he began to lose hope until suddenly he remembered...

It was there all the time...on his keychain...the small glowing compass his father had given him for such a time as this. As he had not used it, it was nearly forgotten. What a disaster that could have been!

Our Heavenly Father has given us the light of His word to guide us as we wander through the maze of our lives. Make it an unforgettable part of your life as you worship each Sabbath. God knows what lies ahead. He is ready to help us find our way. God has been there all the time.

There all the time

COVER STORY

Performers headline
PBS pledge week

BY JOHN CROOK

Judy Collins, Andy Williams, Carole King and Tommy Dorsey are among the popular musicians featured in performance as PBS kicks off its annual fund-raising drive with a top lineup of talent.

The March Pledge 1994 marks the 25th anniversary of PBS, whose corporate charter was signed in 1969. The communications cooperative of 346 affiliates reaches more than 96 million Americans in an average week.

Members are the largest single source of public TV's income (22 percent), and about two-thirds of all new members join during the on-air pledge drives.

Collins, whose "The Incomparable Judy Collins" concert special airs Tuesday, March 8, is an outspoken supporter of public television and its contribution to American life.

"I'm a great believer in public television," she says. "I watch a lot of public television when I do watch TV, because I am so taken with the range, from 'Mystery' to 'MacNeil-Lehrer' to wonderful music specials."

"We need to do as much as we can to support the public sector in our educational TV shows," adds Collins, who emphasizes that she herself is a member of her firm's affiliate in New York City. "It's a mass effort to support the kind of television that gives us an alternative to this junk, for kids, for all brains, I mean. I can't take it. I can't watch commercial television. I've already had my brain cells assaulted over the years. I'd rather stay as far away from it as possible. It's almost an ecological issue of keeping your mind free of so much clutter."

"Andy Williams in Concert at Branson," which airs nationally on Wednesday, March 9, is described by the singer himself as "a greatest hits album, my doing all the hit songs that I'm associated with, and with some production values like singers and dancers, choirs and things like that. I think it's a good special, for what it is." The setting is the Moon River Theatre in Branson, Mo. The program includes his signature tune, "Moon River."

Other music specials include: "The Tunes of Tommy Dorsey: A Sentimental Journey" (Monday, March 7), featuring the current incarnation of the Dorsey orchestra, conducted by Buddy Morrow. Shirley Jones is host.

"Dvorak Concert From Prague - A Celebration" with performers including Yo-Yo Ma, Itzhak Perlman, and Frederica von Stade (also on Monday).

"Carole King - A New Colour in the Tapestry" (Tuesday), in which she performs songs from the 1971 album "Tapestry" and her latest recording, "Colour of Your Dreams."

"Frank Sinatra: A Man and His Music" (Wednesday), a replay of the singer's vintage special from 1965.

"Judy Garland: The Concert Years," including concert footage and TV clips (Thursday, March 10).

"Vladimir Horowitz: A Reminiscence," a "Great Performances" entry airing Friday, March 11.

IN FOCUS

Singer-songwriter Carole King comes to PBS in a new special, "Carole King - A New Colour in the Tapestry," Tuesday, March 8 (check local listings).

King celebrates her 50-year music career in a soulful and spirited concert taped at historic Bushnell Memorial Hall in Hartford, Conn.

The singer is backed by a stand-out band and a gospel choir, and she is joined on stage by Guns N' Roses guitarist Slash for two numbers.

"Queen of the Elephants" turns British-born travel writer Mark Shand ("Travels With My Elephant") into a conservationist. The beautifully photographed two-hour film premieres Wednesday, March 9, on The Discovery Channel.

Shand joins Parbati Barua, the only female elephant trainer and driver in Asia, and elephants Lakhi Mara and Kan-chen Mara on a 300-mile trek across ancient pachyderm migratory routes in northeast India between Nepal and Bangladesh.

Barua is the daughter of an Indian prince who, until his recent death, was the foremost expert on the Asian elephant. Diffident at first, Barua finally shares with Shand her lifelong love and respect for the animals, whose place in Indian society is changing from god to adversary as the nation's burgeoning population demands ever more room and resources.

Viewers may be interested to know that, though Shand has spent much of his adult life sleeping in tents from Australia to New Guinea, his sister's claim to fame is altogether different. She is Camilla Parker-Bowles, countess of Prince Charles.

International Women's Day is Tuesday, March 8, and American Movie Classics is celebrating with an airing of "This Is Your Life: Ida Lupino," along with a selection of movies made by the actress-writer-director. Lifetime uses the day to kick off its Picture What Women Do campaign, which will culminate in 24 hours of photographs by and of women, on Tuesday, May 17.

The 11th annual "Music City News Country Songwriters' Awards" airs Wednesday on The Nashville Network. Viewers can enjoy performances of the top 10 songs of 1993, as picked by Music City News readers, while nervous songwriters wait for one of the times to be named Song of the Year. Five of this year's nominees are credited to past winners Alan Jackson and Vince Gill.

On a different note, The Disney Channel presents "The Who's Tommy: The Amazing Journey," an overview of the resilient rock opera, on Sunday, March 6. Wednesday, MTV plays "24 Hours in Rock and Roll," a music documentary, and Disney offers "Elvis in Hollywood."

The rhythm of the rails signals a journey through America's past in "Locomotion," Sunday on A&E.

For children, Showtime offers the debut of "The Buss World of Richard Scarry," featuring Lowly Worm. Wednesday

with MTV's '24 Hours'

BY JEFF PLASS

Popular music, rock and roll in particular, means many things to many people. From the overplayed to the obscure, music is both personal and universal. Back when Chuck Berry and Bill Haley were first noodling out the chord progressions that would change the face of music forever, little did they know the impact this new form of music would have on American culture.

Wednesday, March 9, MTV's "24 Hours in Rock and Roll" goes into the carphones, basements, concert halls and karaoke clubs of America to investigate the myriad meanings and implications music has on everyday life in our society.

"We wanted to take a survey of what the rock and roll 'scene' was on any given day in America," says the program's producer, Lauren Lazin. "From the perspective of stars, industry types and the fans."

"24 Hours" takes viewers to locations around the nation, spotlighting the qualities that make music so vital to the people involved. The show contains a wide variety of clips. Choreographer Tina Landon and her dancers rehearse for the upcoming Janet Jackson world tour. A man who collects rubbish of the stars and a self-proclaimed "karaoke addict" are just some of the featured items.

"Basically," says Lazin, "we wanted anyone who has a passion about rock and roll."

For example, we show a neurosurgeon who operates while listening to music on a pair of headphones. It gives him energy, fuel, momentum to do incredibly significant work."

The binding factor in all of the segments is a sincere appreciation for what Lazin describes as "the soundtrack of our daily lives."

A dance rehearsal for Janet Jackson's upcoming tour is one of the segments highlighted in MTV's "24 Hours in Rock and Roll," airing Wednesday, March 9.

Kimberlin Brown
takes on new role

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Creating one of the most manipulative and evil women on daytime television was not an easy task for actress Kimberlin Brown, who portrays Sheila on "The Bold and the Beautiful."

But now Brown is taking on a new real life role that has a much longer contract than those on soap operas. Brown and her husband, Gary, are parents of a new baby girl, Alexis Marie.

The baby was born Jan. 31 and is the first child for both Brown and her husband. In a recent interview Brown said that she hadn't had much time to worry about being a mother, but it was something she was definitely looking forward to.

"I have been so busy with work that I haven't had a lot of time to think about being a first time parent. I have read a few things, and we finally did some shopping for the baby, which was really fun," says Brown. "I think our approach to child care is to just take each day as it comes. We know the basics, and the rest will come along in time."

Brown and her husband recently relocated to a home in Las Vegas for both business and personal reasons. The couple is opening a boating business on Lake Mead, and they also thought Las Vegas would be a great place to raise their child.

"The area where our home is located is wonderful," says Brown. "It will actually be a much easier commute for me to work. We were living in San Diego, and it took me nearly two hours to get home. It was also very expensive to fly. It is a 45 minute commute from Vegas, and the airfare is really cheap."

Kimberlin Brown

Brown, who was once interested in architecture, practically designed their new home, and she says she is quite happy with the outcome. "It is a dream home, and it has everything I ever wanted," Brown says.

Though Brown portrays one of the meanest women on daytime TV, the actress is also one of the most popular among fans. But Brown was a little nervous when she had to tell her bosses that she was pregnant.

"I was really worried that they might fire me when they found out," says Brown. "But they have been wonderful. I could not ask for a better job. I feel very lucky."

'Deep Red' infests
Sci-Fi Channel

BY TED KUSIO

It's "The Fugitive" with a happy batch of "The Andromeda Strain." Only it's too bad these aliens don't cure chills.

Michael Biehn plays a tired private detective out to unravel the mystery in the Sci-Fi Channel's "Deep Red," premiering Saturday, March 12. Joanna Pacula and John de Lancie (Q from "Star Trek: The Next Generation") co-star.

Fury red aliens crash land into the hand of a little girl. Instead of a hostile invasion, these "reds" rejuvenate her and her parents. But bad guys want the extraterrestrial fountains of youth for themselves, especially the queen alien, Deep Red, so Biehn is hired for protection.

The basic premise of this film is pretty sharp, but it's dulled with clichés. The alien idea, with its numerous unique possibilities, takes a back seat to Biehn's bellyaching about a past mistake. The idea of fugitive aliens inhabiting and benefiting humans could have been a springboard for all sorts of new material. Instead the producers of this film merely settle for the same old thing.

Other films this week include Kirstie Alley as a woman struggling to raise her autistic son in "David's Mother," Sunday, March 6, on CBS. Meredith Baxter tries to climb "One More Mountain" on ABC. Martin Short and Danny Glover try to solve a case with "Pure Luck" on NBC. For the cow-abusing crowd, Showtime premieres "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles III."

Fred Dryer tackles an old nemesis in the Burmese jungle as NBC presents "The Wisdom

Michael Biehn

Keeper" on Monday, March 7. Timothy Dalton's James Bond shakes his opponent to stirs his "Licence to Kill" on Fox. TNT features the first two parts of the six part "Shogun" miniseries, which continues on Tuesday, March 8, and concludes on Wednesday, March 9.

And the cowboy goes to Vietnam as John Wayne stars in "The Green Berets" on PBS.

The USA Network begins Sylvester Stallone's "John Rambo" trilogy with "First Blood" on Thursday, March 10.

NBC rebroadcasts "Marked for Murder" with Powers Boothe and Billy Dee Williams on Friday, March 11. A grand daddy of stop motion animation, 1963's "Jason and the Argonauts" airs on TNT.

Michael Douglas got a crew cut to play a man who can't take it anymore in "Falling Down," making its HBO premiere on Saturday, March 12. PBS offers more James Bond with Sean Connery in "Goldfinger" and "Diamonds Are Forever." Nobody does it better.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Did I read somewhere that Tom Selleck and Sam Elliott are somehow related? -R.L. from Nebraska.

A: The two actors played brothers in "The Sacketts" and "The Shadow Riders," but they are otherwise not related to one another.

Q: A few years ago my husband (the man who never cried) called me at work after watching "The Juggler of Notre Dame" to tell me it was the best movie he ever saw and that it brought tears to his eyes. It's been two years since I've seen it. Is it available on tape? Will it ever air again? -Maureen Severino, Wickliffe, Ohio.

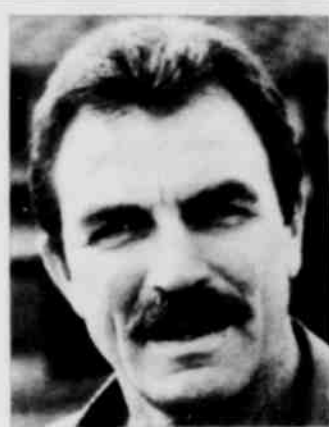

A: That 1984 special starring Patrick Collins, Melinda Dillon and Merlin Olsen still is widely shown in syndication around the holidays, so your best bet would be to write one or more of your local channels as next Christmas approaches and ask them to consider it. Meanwhile, it is available on tape from Buena Vista Home Video, 500 S. Buena Vista St., Burbank, Calif. 91521.

Q: Where can I write to James Earl Jones? I just heard him on the radio show "Fresh Air," talking about his childhood stuttering problem. -S. Starkwell, Columbia, S.C.

A: Write Jones' C/O Bauman, Hiller and Associates, 5750 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 512, Los Angeles, Calif. 90036.

Q: Are "A Wing and a Prayer," "The Dolly Sisters" and "Dawn of the Dead" on video? Where can I write Robert L. Rich? We share a birthday. -Ms. W.D. McCullough, Auburn, Calif.

A: "Dolly Sisters" isn't currently available. "Wing" is on FoxVideo at 2121 Avenue of the Stars, 25th Floor, Los Angeles, Calif. 90067. "Dawn" is available from HBO Home Video, 1114 Sixth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10036. Write Rich: C/O CBS Inc., 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90036.

Q: In the '70s there was a comedy duo who opened for the Carpenters. Who were they and where are they now? Also, how and when did Peter Allen die? -Debra Layman, Napa, Calif.

A: I'm going to assume you are referring to the act that opened for Karen and Richard Carpenter on their TV show "Make Your Own Kind of Music" (1971). They were Tom Patchett and Jay Tarses. Both later moved primarily into comedy writing and producing, where they remain active today. Tarses, in particular, has a reputation for creating wildly original programs such as "Buffalo Bill," "The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd" and "Black Tie Affair." Peter Allen died two years ago from complications related to AIDS.

Bowling Bo knows the
Johnny Petraglia Open

BY JEFF PLASS

For ABC Sports' bowling commentator Nelson (Bo) Burton Jr., the Johnny Petraglia Open holds a special spot in his heart.

The tournament airs on ABC, Saturday, March 12. Petraglia, a member of the Professional Bowlers Association Hall of Fame, describes the event's inception.

"Well, about five years ago," he says, "Lee Livingston, the proprietor of Crolier Lanes in New Brunswick, N.J., accepted the PBA event there, but he wanted to have a different name on it. I've been here for there for 20 years and it was mainly his idea, because of the charities that were involved within the area."

Lee felt that with me being involved in the New Jersey Tournament of Champions (a statewide contest for the physically disabled) for all these years, because of the 25 years that I had been on tour and with my being in the Hall of Fame, that I deserved it."

The tournament's namesake, who has bowled 21 perfect games over the course of his career, provides a rundown of some of the bigger names viewers can expect to see in this year's contest.

"Parker Bohn III has made the All America team the last three years," Petraglia says. "I would say currently he's one of the top five bowlers on the tour and he's certainly the best bowler in the state."

Popularity wise," he continues, "Mark Roth, who's also

from New Jersey, is maybe the best of all time. The defending champion is Ricky Ward. With Walter Ray Williams Jr., being named Bowler of the Year, he bowled a great game on the show, everybody will be watching him too."

Burton, who enters his 19th season as the expert commentator on ABC's "Professional Bowlers Tour" series, has also been one of the top money-winners on the PBA circuit.

He recently returned to pro bowling on a part-time basis, following a three year hiatus. What goes through Burton's mind when he is a competitor on an ABC telecast rather than a commentator?

"When I made the finals during my early years of broadcast casting," Burton says, "I was apprehensive of making mistakes. As a commentator, I have criticized others, so I know that makes me more vulnerable to criticism myself."

I have gotten over that now. I have enough built in confidence now that I am not self-conscious about my bowling."

Once upon a time a boy absentmindedly wandered deep into a woods. As the sun sank behind the tall trees, the boy panicked, having no sense of direction in the blackness, not knowing what waited ahead. Disheartened, he began to lose hope until suddenly he remembered...

It was there all the time...on his keychain... the small glowing compass his father had given him for such a time as this. As he had not used it, it was nearly forgotten. What a disaster that could have been!

Our Heavenly Father has given us the light of His word to guide us as we wander through the maze of our lives. Make it an unforgettable part of your life as you worship each Sabbath. God knows what lies ahead. He is ready to help us find our way. God has been there all the time.

There all the time

COVER STORY

Performers headline

BY JOHN CROOK

Judy Collins, Andy Williams, Carole King and Tommy Dorsey are among the popular musicians featured in performance as PBS kicks off its annual fund-raising drive with a top lineup of talent.

The March Pledge 1994 marks the 25th anniversary of PBS, whose corporate charter was signed in 1969. The communications cooperative of 346 affiliates reaches more than 96 million Americans in an average week.

Members are the largest single source of public TV's income (22 percent), and about two-thirds of all new members join during the on-air pledge drives.

Collins, whose "The Incomparable Judy Collins" concert special airs Tuesday, March 8, is an outspoken supporter of public television and its contribution to American life.

"I'm a great believer in public television," she says. "I watch a lot of public television when I do watch TV, because I am so taken with the range, from 'Mystery' to 'MacNeil-Lehrer' to wonderful music specials."

"We need to do as much as we can to support the public sector in our educational TV shows," adds Collins, who emphasizes that she herself is a member of her PBS affiliate in New York City. "It's a mass effort to support the kind of television that gives us an alternative to this junk, for kids, for all brains. I mean, I can't take it. I can't watch commercial television. I've already had my brain cells assaulted over the years. I'd rather stay as far away from it as possible. It's almost an ecological issue of keeping your mind free of so much clutter."

"Andy Williams in Concert at Branson," which airs nationally on Wednesday, March 9, is described by the singer himself as "a greatest hits album, my doing all the hit songs that I'm associated with, and with some production values like singers and dancers, choirs and things like that. I think it's a good special, for what it is." The setting is the Moon River Theatre in Branson, Mo. The program includes his signature tune, "Moon River."

Other music specials include: "The Tunes of Tommy Dorsey: A Sentimental Journey" (Monday, March 7), featuring the current incarnation of the Dorsey orchestra, conducted by Buddy Morrow. Shirley Jones is host.

"Dvorak Concert: From Prague: A Celebration" with performers including Yo-Yo Ma, Itzhak Perlman, and Frederica von Stade (also on Monday).

"Carole King: A New Colour in the Tapestry" (Tuesday), in which she performs songs from the 1971 album "Tapestry" and her latest recording, "Colour of Your Dreams."

"Frank Sinatra: A Man and His Music" (Wednesday), a replay of the singer's vintage special from 1965.

"Judy Garland: The Concert Years," including concert footage and TV clips (Thursday, March 10).

"Vladimir Horowitz: A Remembrance," a "Great Performances" entry airing Friday, March 11.

BY JEFF PLASS

Popular music, rock and roll in particular, means many things to many people. From the overplayed to the obscure, music is both personal and universal. Back when Chuck Berry and Bill Haley were first noodling out the chord progressions that would change the face of music forever, little did they know the impact this new form of music would have on American culture.

Wednesday, March 9, MTV's "24 Hours in Rock and Roll" goes into the earphones, basements, concert halls and karaoke clubs of America to investigate the myriad meanings and implications music has on everyday life in our society.

"We wanted to take a survey of what the rock and roll scene was on any given day in America," says the program's producer, Lauren Lazin, "from the perspective of stars, industry types and the fans."

"24 Hours" takes viewers to locations around the nation, spotlighting the qualities that make music so vital to the people involved. The show contains a wide variety of clips. Choreographer Tina Landon and her dancers rehearse for the upcoming Janet Jackson world tour. A man who collects rubbish of the stars and a self-proclaimed "karaoke addict" are just some of the featured items.

"Basically," says Lazin, "we wanted anyone who has a passion about rock and roll."

"For example, we show a neurosurgeon who operates while listening to music on a pair of headphones. It gives him energy, fuel, momentum to do incredibly significant work."

The binding factor in all of the segments is a sincere appreciation for what Lazin describes as "the soundtrack of our daily lives."

A dance rehearsal for Janet Jackson's upcoming tour is one of the segments highlighted in MTV's "24 Hours in Rock and Roll," airing Wednesday, March 9.

"Andy Williams in Concert at Branson," airing Wednesday, features many of the singer's greatest hits (check local listings). It airs as part of PBS' 1994 pledge drive.

When Jenny finds out that Matt has given her a sexually transmitted disease, which, if left untreated, could leave her infertile, she feels betrayed and frightened.

'Deep Red' infests
Sci-Fi Channel

BY TED KUSIO

It's "The Fugitive" with a happy batch of "The Andromeda Strain." Only it's too bad these aliens don't cure clichés.

Michael Biehn plays a tired private detective out to unravel the mystery in the Sci-Fi Channel's "Deep Red," premiering Saturday, March 12. Joanna Pacula and John de Lancie (Q from "Star Trek: The Next Generation") co-star.

Tiny red aliens crash land into the hand of a little girl. Instead of a hostile invasion, these "reds" rejuvenate her and her parents. But bad guys want the extraterrestrial fountains of youth for themselves, especially the queen alien, Deep Red, so Biehn is hired for protection.

The basic premise of this film is pretty sharp, but it's dulled with clichés. The alien deal, with its numerous unique possibilities, takes a back seat to Biehn's belly-aching about a past mistake. The idea of fugitive aliens inhabiting and benefiting humans could have been a springboard for all sorts of new material. Instead the producers of this film merely settle for the same old thing.

Other films this week include Kirstie Alley as a woman struggling to raise her autistic son in "David's Mother," Sunday, March 6, on CBS. Meredith Baxter tries to climb "One More Mountain" on ABC. Martin Short and Danny Glover try to solve a case with "Pure Luck" on NBC. For the cow-abunga crowd, Showtime premieres "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles III."

Fred Dwyer tackles an old nemesis in the Burmese jungle as NBC presents "The Wisdom

Michael Biehn

Keeper" on Monday, March 7. Timothy Dalton's James Bond shakes (as opposed to stirs) his "Licence to Kill" on Fox. TNT features the first two parts of the six-part "Shogun" mini-series, which continues on Tuesday, March 8, and concludes on Wednesday, March 9. And the cowboy goes to Vietnam as John Wayne stars in "The Green Berets" on PBS.

The USA Network begins Sylvester Stallone's John Rambo trilogy with "First Blood" on Thursday, March 10. NBC rebroadcasts "Marked for Murder" with Powers Boothe and Billy Dee Williams on Friday, March 11. A grand daddy of stop motion animation, "The Last of the Mohicans" and "The Argonauts" airs on TNT.

Michael Douglas got a crew cut to play a man who can't take it anymore in "Falling Down," making its HBO premiere on Saturday, March 12. TBS offers more James Bond with Sean Connery in "Goldfinger" and "Diamonds Are Forever." Nobody does it better.

TV-PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Did I read somewhere that Tom Selleck and Sam Elliott are somehow related? -R.L., from Nebraska.

A: The two actors played brothers in "The Sacketts" and "The Shadow Riders," but they are otherwise not related to one another.

Q: A few years ago my husband (the man who never cried) called me at work after watching "The Juggler of Notre Dame" to tell me it was the best movie he ever saw and that it brought tears to his eyes. It's been two years since I've seen it. Is it available on tape? Will it ever air again? -Maureen Severino, Wickliffe, Ohio.

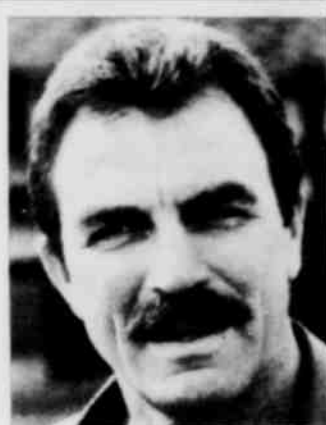

A: That 1984 special starring Patrick Collins, Melinda Dillon and Merlin Olsen still is widely shown in syndication around the holidays, so your best bet would be to write one of more of your local channels as next Christmas approaches and ask them to consider it. Meanwhile, it is available on tape from Buena Vista Home Video, 500 S. Buena Vista St., Burbank, Calif. 91521.

Q: In the '70s there was a comedy duo who opened for the Carpenters. Who were they and where are they now? Also, how and when did Peter Allen die? -Debra Layman, Napa, Calif.

A: I'm going to assume you are referring to the act that opened for Karen and Richard Carpenter on their TV show "Make Your Own Kind of Music" (1971). They were Tom Patchett and Jay Tarses. Both later moved primarily into comedy writing and producing, where they remain active today. Tarses, in particular, has a reputation for creating wildly original programs such as "Bullalo Bill," "The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd," and "Black Tie Affair." Peter Allen died two years ago from complications related to AIDS.

"Queen of the Elephants" turns British-born travel writer Mark Shand ("Travels With My Elephant") into a conservationist. The beautifully photographed two-hour film premieres Wednesday, March 9, on The Discovery Channel.

Shand joins Parbati Barua, the only female elephant trainer and driver in Asia, and elephants Lakhi Mara and Kan-chen Mara on a 300-mile trek across ancient pachyderm migratory routes in northeast India between Nepal and Bangladesh.

Barua is the daughter of an Indian prince who, until his recent death, was the foremost expert on the Asian elephant. Diffident at first, Barua finally shares with Shand her lifelong love and respect for the animals, whose place in Indian society is changing from god to adversary as the nation's burgeoning population demands ever more room and resources.

Viewers may be interested to know that, though Shand has spent much of his adult life sleeping in tents from Australia to New Guinea, his sister's claim to fame is altogether different. She is Camilla Parker Bowles, confidante of Prince Charles.

International Women's Day is Tuesday, March 8, and American Movie Classics is celebrating with an airing of "This Is Your Life: Ida Lupino," along with a selection of movies made by the actress-writer-director. Lifetime uses the day to kick off its Picture What Women Do campaign, which will culminate in 24 hours of photographs by and of women, on Tuesday, May 17.

The 11th annual "Music City News Country Songwriters' Awards" airs Wednesday on The Nashville Network. Viewers can enjoy performances of the top 10 songs of 1993, as picked by Music City News readers, while nervous songwriters wait for one of the tunes to be named Song of the Year. Five of this year's nominees are credited to past winners Alan Jackson and Vince Gill.

On a different note, The Disney Channel presents "The Who's Tommy: The Amazing Journey," an overview of the resilient rock opera, on Sunday, March 6. Wednesday, MTV plays "24 Hours in Rock and Roll," a music documentary, and Disney offers "Elvis in Hollywood."

SOAP TALK

takes on new role

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Creating one of the most manipulative and evil women on daytime television was not an easy task for actress Kimberlin Brown, who portrays Sheila on "The Bold and the Beautiful."

But now Brown is taking on a new real life role that has a much longer contract than those on soap operas. Brown and her husband, Gary, are parents of a new baby girl, Alexis Marie.

The baby was born Jan. 31 and is the first child for both Brown and her husband. In a recent interview Brown said that she hadn't had much time to worry about being a mother, but it was something she was definitely looking forward to.

I have been so busy with work that I haven't had a lot of time to think about being a first-time parent. I have read a few things, and we finally did some shopping for the baby, which was really fun," says Brown. "I think our approach to child care is to just take each day as it comes. We know the basics, and the rest will come along in time."

Brown and her husband recently relocated to a home in Las Vegas for both business and personal reasons. The couple is opening a boating business on Lake Mead, and they also thought Las Vegas would be a great place to raise their child.

The new where our home is located is wonderful," says Brown. "It will actually be a much easier commute for me to work. We were living in San Diego, and it took me nearly two hours to get home. It was also very expensive to fly. It is a 45 minute commute from Vegas, and the airline is really cheap."

Kimberlin Brown

Brown, who was once interested in architecture, practically designed their new home, and she says she is quite happy with the outcome. "It is a dream home, and it has everything I ever wanted," Brown says.

Though Brown portrays one of the meanest women on daytime TV, the actress is also one of the most popular among fans. But Brown was a little nervous when she had to tell her bosses that she was pregnant.

"I was really worried that they might fire me when they found out," says Brown. "But they have been wonderful. I could not ask for a better job. I feel very lucky."

Kimberlin Brown is featured in Candace Havens' Soap Talk Features Dept., TV Data Technologies, Northwest Plaza, Queensbury, N.Y. 12904.

TIME OUT

Bowling Bo knows the
Johnny Petraglia Open

BY JEFF PLASS

For ABC Sports' bowling commentator Nelson Burton Jr., the Johnny Petraglia Open holds a special spot in his heart.

"Johnny Petraglia is one of my best friends," Burton says.

The tournament airs on ABC, Saturday, March 12. Petraglia, a member of the Professional Bowlers Association Hall of Fame, describes the event's inception.

"Well, about five years ago," he says, "Lee Livingston, the proprietor of Carolan Lanes in New Brunswick, N.J., accepted the PBA's event there, but he wanted to have a different name on it. I've been house pro there for 20 years and it was mainly his idea, because of the charities that were involved within the area."

"Lee felt that with me being involved in the New Jersey Tournament of Champions (a statewide contest for the physically disabled) for all these years, because of the 25 years that I had been on tour and with my being in the Hall of Fame, that I deserved it."

The tournament's namesake, who has bowled 21 perfect games over the course of his career, provides a rundown of some of the bigger names viewers can expect to see in this year's contest.

Parker Bohn III has made the All-America team the last three years. Petraglia says, "I would say, currently, he's one of the top five bowlers on the tour and he's certainly one of the best bowlers in the state."

"Popularity wise," he continues, "Mark Roth, who's also

from New Jersey, is maybe the best of all time. The defending champion is Ricky Ward. With Walter Ray Williams Jr., being named Bowler of the Year, he bowled a great game on the show, everybody will be watching him too."

Burton, who enters his 19th season as the expert commentator on ABC's "Professional Bowlers Tour" series, has also been one of the top money-winners on the PBA circuit.

He recently returned to pro bowling on a part-time basis, following a three-year hiatus. What goes through Burton's mind when he is a competitor on an ABC telecast rather than a commentator?

"When I made the finals during my early years of broad casting," Burton says, "I was apprehensive of making mistakes. As a commentator, I have criticized others, so I know that makes me more vulnerable to criticism myself."

"I have gotten over that now. I have enough built in confidence now that I am not self-conscious about my bowling."

Outdoor Wood Stoves Pose Some Hazards

Many complaints regarding outdoor wood burning stoves or furnaces have been heard recently by the Maryland Department of the Environment, Air, and Radiation Management Administration, according to a spokesperson from the Garrett County Health Department. The odor and dense smoke caused by these furnaces apparently creates a nuisance in residential areas. Persons who use the heating furnaces are advised to note some problems generated by the stoves.

The use of outdoor wood-burners has apparently become popular in the recent years as an alternative for home heating. The stoves, installed outside of the home, are designed to heat water which is then pumped into the house to heat it and to provide the family with hot water.

Persons who plan to install such a system are advised to consult with neighbors first and to also check with the furnace manufacturer about air pollution control systems for the unit. Most wood stoves and furnaces can be fitted with low-cost catalytic combustor damper which can increase heat output while reducing creosote and pollutants by as much as 80%. State policy requires these devices be installed in new furnaces and in existing units that are currently creating a nuisance smoke problem.

The local health department does not recommend the use of these units in high density residential areas, nor in areas with nearby adjacent residences where smoke could create a nuisance, particularly to sensitive individuals with respiratory conditions.

Any person considering the installation of an outdoor wood-burning stove should plan to install a high smoke stack and a catalytic combustor. Only seasoned, good quality hardwood should be used for fuel.

For more information on pollution control devices and manufacturers in this area, persons may contact the Dept. of Environment, Air, and Radiation Management at 301-777-2370, or Environmental Health Services of the local health department at 334-8980.

What makes food enticing? Taste, certainly. Eye appeal and presentation are also key. But smell can set our taste buds watering before we ever see or taste a dish.

One of the most appetizing aromas to waft out of a kitchen is fresh bread baking in the oven. According to a survey conducted by ICR Survey Research Group, one third of Americans call the smell of fresh bread "the scent of seduction." Over 80 percent associate the aroma of baking bread with "the thought of a good home-cooked meal."

As much as we love the smell and taste of home-baked bread, very few Americans have the time to bake from scratch, let alone enjoy the luxury of a home-cooked meal. But there is a way for busy cooks to add the "scent of seduction" to meals.

The special formulation of Bread du Jour® breads and rolls enables the cook to finish the baking process at home in about 10 minutes. The loaves and rolls are a leap beyond traditional brown and serve products. The result is the rich aroma and crusty texture of bread baked from scratch.

Bread is a natural accompaniment to any dish, but it can also be the basis of entrees, appetizers, breakfasts and, of course, sandwiches. And because baking time is so short, these recipes make adding home-baked bread to every meal a snap.

Ahh! Smell That Home Cooking

The most important element of a good home-cooked meal, according to 95 percent of Americans, is that "the meal smells good as well as tastes good." According to a national survey commissioned by Bread du Jour breads and rolls, other important elements are:

- all foods be served at proper temperature (91%)
- friends and family share the meal (85%)
- there be ample food for extra helpings (71%)
- the meal features bread (64%)

Why bread?

Because Americans have strong associations to the smell of bread baking in the oven. It gives them:

- a feeling of warmth (74%)
- a feeling of hearth and home (69%)
- childhood memories (58%)
- a sense of relaxation (55%)
- a feeling of love (49%)

Registration For Kindergarten Set For April, May

The Garrett County Board of Education announces that the comprehensive pre-school registration program which began 16 years ago as a joint venture with the Garrett County Health Department will be held again this year. This program is for all children entering kindergarten or first grade for the first time in September.

According to Wilda Massi, director of pupil services, this registration program, which will be held in all elementary schools during April and May, has been developed to help identify strengths and needs of children and to identify early any problems that may interfere with a successful start in school.

Because of a change in state regulations, parents must register any child who will be five years old before January 1, 1995. This new law allows exemptions to the school attendance requirements as follows:

- *permits compliance through the home school instruction regulation;
- *grants a one-year immaturity waiver if the parent or guardian makes a written request to the local school system.

*allows 5-year-olds to be enrolled in one of three alternative program settings -- a full-time licensed child care center, a full-time registered family day care home, or part-time in Head Start 5-year-old program.

Parents of children who meet the above qualifications are asked to fill out the registration blank that is in this issue of The Republican and mail it to the designated address. All parents registering children for school will receive a registration appointment. However, parents who choose to use one of the exemptions from the required 5-year-old attendance must request the appropriate exemption form from the Department of Public Services at 334-8939.

Parents are requested to bring their child's birth certificate, an official immunization record, and social security number, and to provide important information for the school's records during the registration. In addition, each child registering for school will receive a general health assessment, dental screening, and a vision/hearing screening. Immunization for students at no cost to parents will be available at registration.

upon request. Parents should be aware that a booster immunization for MMR (measles, mumps and rubella) is required for kindergarten first grade registrants.

National School Breakfast Week To Be Observed

The Garrett County Board of Education, Food Service Department, will be observing the National School Breakfast Week March 7-11. "This is a good opportunity to focus students and parents attention on the relationship between nutrition, health, and fitness," stated Richard Buckingham, director of food services for the Board of Education.

Parents who have youngsters attending school in Garrett County are invited to have breakfast with their children any day during this National School Breakfast Week. The Food Service Department requests that each parent intending to participate notify the school office of the day you plan to visit. The charge for adults is $1.40. Children will be charged the same amount as students.

Persons with questions may call the school office.

"Property Owners Bill Of Rights" Introduced In House

Rep. Billy Tauzin (D-La.) last week unveiled the Private Property Owners Bill of Rights. The legislation (H.R. 3875) is co-sponsored by Rep. Charles Taylor (R-N.C.) and 19 other House members, and is strongly supported by Farm Bureau.

Tauzin said the measure is a bipartisan effort aimed at striking a balance between environmental concerns in the United States and the rights of private property owners.

"When you lose your job because of an owl or you lose your shrimp boat because of a turtle, the cost of environmental protection hits home," Tauzin said. "Things are coming to a head now, because there are train wrecks all across the country between environmental protection and property rights."

Tauzin said he supports the goals of the Endangered Species Act, which is up for re-authorization, but that "America must have a law that not only protects our plants and animals but also allows economic growth and respects private property rights."

Last year the House adopted, 217-212, a Tauzin amendment to the National Biological Survey Act, assuring that only federal employees or contract employees could participate in a coast-to-coast search for endangered species and plants. "Only good science should be used to conduct the survey," Tauzin said.

Property questions are expected to be raised this year in debates over environmental bills, including renewal of the Clean Water Act. Tauzin's bill of rights ties all of those property questions together in a single piece of legislation. It would:

- * Require federal agencies to comply with applicable state and tribal laws relating to private property rights and privacy.

- * Prohibit federal agencies from entering private property to gather information without written consent from the owner.

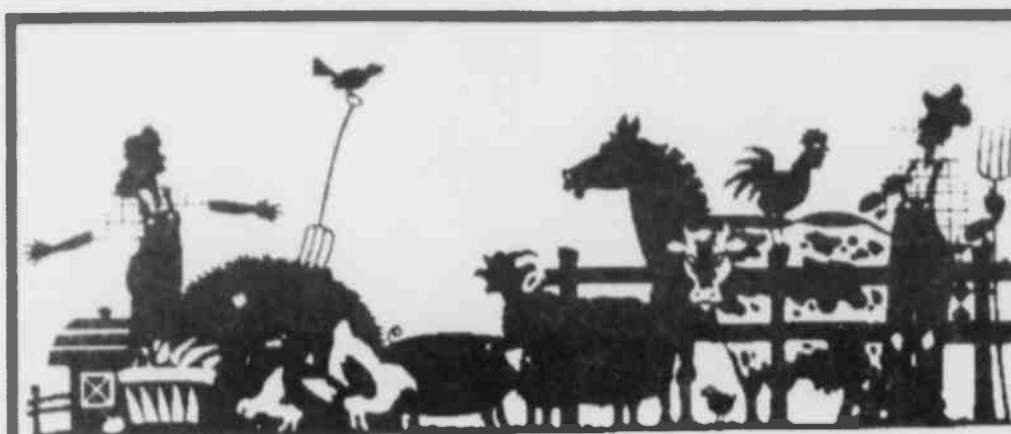

- * Prohibit use of information gathered on private property unless the owner has been given access to that information.

- * Set up an administrative appeals process for property owners confronted by adverse Endangered Species Act and wetlands rulings.

- * Require compensation to owners who are substantially deprived of the fair market value of, or the economically viable use of, their property.

Tauzin said his bill of rights was prompted by a growing number of oppressive federal regulations. The cost of obeying those regulations also is growing. According to a recent study by economist William Laffer, Americans pay anywhere from $8,300 to $17,000 per household every year for regulations at the federal, state and local levels. Such regulation affects "not only property owners across this country, but all other Americans as well," said Tauzin.

American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner applauded Tauzin and Taylor for their efforts. He said their bill reflects the lawmakers' growing concern about federal regulations that hurt rather than help their constituents.

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

"People back home are saying 'wait, slow down, it's gone too far,'" Kleckner said. "All over the country, government regulations have become a threat to the constitutional property rights of individual landowners. It's time to put some balanced back into the land use and environmental goals of this nation."

A companion bill to the measure is expected to be introduced in the Senate soon.

Maryland Sheep Inventory The Same

The number of sheep in Maryland on January 1 totaled 33,000; no change from the previous two years. Farmers had more rams and wethers on hand, the same number of ewes, and fewer lambs. The 1993 lamb crop numbered 25,000 which was an increase of 1,000 from 1992. The value of sheep was estimated at $110 per head, a decline of $10 per head from a year earlier and the same value as two years ago. Twelve hundred Maryland farming operations had sheep during 1993, the same as in 1992 and 200 more than in 1991. The number of sheep and lambs in the United States on January 1 totaled 9.08 million head, down nine percent from a year earlier and a new record low. The 1993 lamb crop of 6.31 million head was down 13 percent from 1992. This compares with the lowest previous lamb crop of 7.21 million head set in 1988.

Clean Water Act Draws Concern As Bill Moves On Hill

Farm Bureau told the primary author of a Clean Water Act re-authorization bill that some provisions of his legislation meet the organization's concerns, while other aspects of the proposal fall far short of doing so.

In a letter to Senate Environment and Public Works Committee Chairman Max Baucus (D-Mont.), American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner praised the senator for his hard work in rewriting the bill (S. 1114) and bringing together "competing political interests." The bill was reported out of the Environment and Public Works Committee last week. Floor action is possible by late March or April.

"Although we have many fundamental objections to current provisions of S. 1114, we believe the emphasis on the watershed as the appropriate level for finding further real environmental improvement is a step in the right direction," Kleckner said. "Some improvements were made in the committee markup, but further changes are needed. Our aim is to ensure that efforts are directed toward the right solutions."

He said the fact that the legislation acknowledges that 70 percent of the nation's waters are not impaired is an encouraging sign of the progress that has been made.

However, Kleckner said while Farm Bureau is pleased with certain aspects of the bill, the organization could not support passage of the legislation unless more of its concerns are met.

"The potential impact of this legislation on the daily lives of farmers and ranchers is real and substantial," Kleckner continued. "We feel strongly that these impacts must be substantially reduced before we will consider supporting S. 1114."

Under provisions of the bill, private property rights are given less than thorough protection and examination. Farm Bureau contends that the language of S. 1114 merely restates the already binding provisions of the Fifth Amendment and goes no further in protecting property rights or addressing compensation.

"We favor a bill that requires compensation for losing property value resulting from regulation," Kleckner said. "If use of property is to be restricted for the public good, it is only fair that the property owner be compensated by the public for his loss."

Although point source pollution is known to be easily traced to its source, non-point source pollution—for which agriculture gets the primary blame—is an altogether different story. Provisions of the Baucus bill address non point source pollution in a manner that Farm Bureau feels is unfair.

"Requiring scientific research before costly regulations are adopted is absolutely necessary in order to have an effective non point source pollution policy that does not unfairly or adversely inflict costly burdens on farmers and ranchers," Kleckner said. "Without sound scientific data, non point management mandates become arbitrary requirements with no guarantee of any positive effect on water quality."

Farm Bureau cited a study by Dr. George Hallberg of the Iowa Department of Natural Resources in its comments to Baucus. Hallberg said even if all known best management practices for water quality control could be implemented, it would be at least a decade before any change-es in water quality would be seen.

Kleckner noted the organization's concerns about the bill's implementation and follow-up periods. He said compared to previous plans for point source, non-point source and conservation compliance programs, this bill does not allow for schedules to be met in a realistic setting.

"We are very concerned that the time-lines established in the bill for both design and implementation of plans, as well as the subsequent evaluation, are too short," Kleckner said. "It is a huge task that will require a commitment of significant public and private sector resources as well as flexibility in federal and state agency time-lines. We must be realistic in our expectations and avoid setting ourselves up for failure."

Balanced Budget Amendment Debate Begins

The Senate began floor debate last week on the Farm Bureau-supported balanced budget amendment (S.J. Res. 41) to the U.S. Constitution, with a vote expected early this week. The amendment would require a three-fifths vote of the members of both houses of Congress to raise the nation's debt limit.

Farm Bureau views S.J. Res. 41 as a prime opportunity to bring out-of-control federal spending back in line, without relying on critical agricultural programs to do so.

The resolution, which has been heavily promoted by Sen. Paul Simon (D-Ill.), chairman of the Subcommittee on the Constitution, must be passed by the Senate with 67 votes, by the House with 290 votes and ratified by 38 state legislatures.

An alternative balanced budget amendment has been offered by Sen. Harry Reid (D-Nev.), which, according to Farm Bureau, would not lead to a balanced budget.

"The intent of the Reid amendment is to provide the political cover necessary for senators who do not vote for the more effective S.J. Res. 41," said Grace Ellen Rice, deputy executive director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's Washington, D.C., office.

Both proposals will be voted on by the full Senate March 1. The Reid amendment will be first in the voting order, with S.J. Res. 41 to be voted on in the evening.

AFBF President Dean Kleckner, in his support of S.J. Res. 41, echoed the sentiments of American farmers—that agriculture should not be forced to bear the full brunt of federal belt tightening.

"The balanced budget amendment would force Congress to tackle in earnest its chronic institutional deficit spending problem by controlling the growth of mandatory spending," Kleckner said. "This approach would prevent Congress from balancing the budget on the backs of farmers."

Since 1982, the federal deficit has increased from around $1 trillion to more than $4 trillion, while more than $53 billion has been cut from production agriculture programs. Kleckner said agriculture has suffered unjustly, while spending on entitlement and discretionary non-defense programs has flourished. He said the amendment would put agriculture programs on a more level playing field.

"If there is anything that threatens the long-term stability of production agriculture, it is Congress' failure to make the type of spending reform the balanced budget amendment would require," Kleckner said.

Simon said the balanced budget amendment is best for the nation as a whole. He said the battle over the amendment will be tough, but in the long run it will benefit the American people.

"Clearly, a majority of the people in this country favor this amendment more than anything that we have ever done, in terms of a constitutional amendment," said Simon.

Leading the opposition to S.J. Res. 41, Sen. Robert Byrd, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, contends that a balanced budget amendment would put a stranglehold on the federal government by requiring a "super-majority" vote for an increase in the federal deficit.

Simon summed up the position and feelings of many American farmers, "What we are saying with this amendment is we have to have pay-as-you-go government."

Milk Production Down In State

Maryland dairy farmers produced 1.404 billion pounds of milk during 1993, a decline of almost three percent from 1992. Fewer milk cows were on hand during the 1993 calendar year compared with the average number on hand during 1992. The milk produced per cow also fell to 14,237 pounds per cow during 1993 compared with 14,586 pounds per cow in 1992. This works out to a decline of 259 pounds per cow (two percent). During 1993 Maryland was home to 1,300 dairy operations which was 100 fewer than the year earlier. More than half of the milk produced in Maryland comes from operations with 100 or more head of milk cows; 88 percent of the milk produced is from farms with 50 or more head. Conversely farms with fewer than 50 cows produce only 12 percent of the milk

Pest Fighter Being Tested

USDA scientists say a new parasitic worm can wipe out 90 percent of three destructive types of moth larvae--corn earworms, fall armyworms and pink bollworms. The worms, called Steinernema riobravus nematodes, could be available commercially in three years. They currently are being tested against moth larvae pests in corn, cotton and citrus crops in Texas, Arizona, Georgia, Florida and Mexico. Approximately $1.3 billion in crop losses

Meat Irradiation Being Investigated

USDA Secretary Mike Espy said the Agriculture Department will seek approval to give low-dose radiation treatment to beef and other red meat to kill harmful bacteria. Espy told a House Appropriations panel that USDA will ask the Food and Drug Administration to review the safety of the irradiation treatments. Such a review would take at least a year or 18 months.

Moorhead To Run For Comptroller

Rockville resident Jim Moorhead has announced this week that he has filed as a Democratic candidate for the office of State Comptroller of Maryland.

A former principal in the Rockville law firm of Miller, Miller & Canby, Moorhead graduated from Harvard College in 1976 and from Columbia Law School in 1981. Following a clerkship with federal judge Herbert F. Murray in Baltimore, he joined the law firm headed by the late Edward Bennett Williams. He then returned to Baltimore to become an Assistant U.S. Attorney from 1983 to 1986, where he specialized in prosecuting political corruption cases.

Moorhead served with J.P. Morgan and as an investment banker at Goldman Sachs from 1987 to 1990.

Having recently completed a two-year membership on the advisory committee to the Governor's Commission of Efficiency and Economy in Government, he helped develop the commission's goals, visited state facilities, interviewed cabinet secretaries and other state employees, and examined department budgets.

The commission made numerous recommendations to streamline state government, many of which were included in the legislative package sent to the General Assembly by the governor.

Moorhead's active role in community affairs includes work as a Habitat for Humanity volunteer in Baltimore, a board member of a Silver Spring theatre group, an organizer of efforts to save a Kensington children's library through a public-private partnership, a member of an environmental clean-up group, and a church volunteer. He has also volunteered to help with numerous Democratic state and local political campaigns.

He resides with his wife Gillian and their two children, Leony and William.

Federal Stewardship Incentive Program Deadline Nearing

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced that Maryland landowners have until March 25 to sign up for the Stewardship Incentive Program (SIP). This federally funded national tree-planting initiative is administered in Maryland through DNR's Forest Service, and approximately $60,000 is currently available statewide.

"The goal of the Stewardship Incentive Program is to enhance management on private lands through a long-term commitment to stewardship," Dr. Brown said. "Available to rural, non-industrial private landowners, SIP seeks to protect, manage, and enhance all forest resources in a manner consistent with the landowner's objectives."

Eligible landowners who have an approved Forest Stewardship plan can qualify for a cost-share allowance on approved activities like stewardship plan development, tree planting, timber stand improvement, windbreak and hedgerow establishment, soil and water improvement, riparian and wetland improvement, fisheries habitat enhancement, wildlife habitat enhancement, and recreation enhancement. A 10-year commitment to the program maintains and protects SIP-funded practices.

DNR's Forest Service offers Marylanders a regionally based network of forestry professionals who will assist landowners in managing their forest resources. Citizens who wish to learn more about the Stewardship Incentive Program may contact their local DNR Forest Service office or the headquarters in Annapolis at (410) 974-3776.

According to a ministerial spokesperson, the Lenten series deals with famous Christian leaders and unusual events in their lives, which stand out in the memory of the various speakers.

Henry Nicols AIDS Program Slated At FSU

Frostburg State University's Campus Activities Board is sponsoring the lecture, "Living With AIDS," by the brother/sister team of Henry and Jennifer Nicols on Tuesday, March 8, at 8 p.m. in the multi-use room of the Lane Center. This event is free and open to the public.

Henry Nicols was diagnosed as being HIV positive in 1985 after receiving a blood transfusion. He and his family were frightened by the hysteria and discrimination other children with AIDS and HIV around the country had faced and decided to keep this life-threatening disease to themselves. It was not until November of 1990 that Henry came down with an opportunistic infection in his esophagus that changed his diagnosis to full-blown AIDS.

Henry and Jennifer have met with President Bush and President and Mrs. Clinton to discuss issues affecting people living with AIDS. They have testified before the United States Congress about the impact of AIDS-related legislation concerning people with HIV. They have delivered a keynote address at the Health and Human Services National Conference on AIDS in 1992, and lectured at the National FBI Headquarters.

In March of 1991, Henry started a campaign with the help of his sister, Jennifer, to educate others about AIDS.

"I can't change the fact that I have AIDS. I can choose how I live with the disease. I'm going to live my life the best way I can. I'm not going to let AIDS beat me," Henry said.

Henry and Jennifer provide a program that is a mixture of statistics about the disease, warnings about the need to practice safe sex, and reflections of his own case. George Bush has said, "Henry's achievement serves as a shining example for all those who must overcome great odds in realizing their goals."

For more information, persons may call the Lane Center Information desk at (301) 689-4411.

Nutrition Month To Be Observed At Lighthouse

The Maryland State Department of Education has distributed educational materials on healthy eating habits in recognition of National Nutrition Month and the Garrett County Lighthouse, Inc., will focus its activities around that information during the month of March.

Some of the topics to be discussed include: eating a variety of foods, maintaining healthy weight, choosing a low-fat diet, eating plenty of vegetables, fruits, and grain products, and using salt and sugar in moderation.

Part of our job as a nutritional site is to educate our consumers on eating healthy," said Executive Director Debbie Adams-Norosi.

Also scheduled for this month at Lighthouse will be blood pressure screenings and a class on preparing healthy snacks conducted by the Garrett County Health Department Outreach Team.

HOW MUCH LONGER? The winter drags on, as more snow fell this week to add to the over 130 inches total so far this year. As picturesque as this scene may be, most Garrett Countians - even snow enthusiasts - are showing varying levels of weariness with the seemingly endless wintry climate. Deep Creek Lake did freeze solidly enough to support those interested in ice fishing, as shown here, but recent changing temps have probably rendered the lake unsafe. More residents dealt with power outages last night, as icy rain fell into a cold lower atmosphere, weighing electric lines down until they gave way in some areas. Although one may be hesitant to believe it, spring is truly on its way, and is showing itself already as daffodils and crocuses begin to break ground. Temperatures are to rise slightly over the weekend, so perhaps the air will finally hint the true breath of spring.

Artists From Russia, Europe, Asia Slated To Perform At Penn Alps

After a successful first season last summer, Music At Penn Alps has planned a 1994 season filled with musical programs performed by musicians from both near and far.

According to Dr. Jon Bauman, series coordinator, several of the performances will be by international performers. "It's really exciting to bring artists of this calibre to rural western Maryland. It's exciting for them to visit our region and a thrill for us to have them," he said.

The summer-long series presents performances of classical and lighter music every Saturday at 7 p.m. during the month of June, July and August. All performances are held at the Great Hall of Penn Alps or in the Spruce Forest Artisan Village, both in Grantsville.

Pianist Silvia Cordes will make her Penn Alps premiere on June 7. She will travel from her home in Germany and plans other performances during her American tour.

Russia sends its youth folk orchestra, Korobeyniki, for a July 2 appearance. The 20-plus members, in historic costume, perform Russian folk songs on such traditional instruments as the domio, accordion, flute, clarinet, and balalaika.

Swiss baritone Sergio Bellez will sing on July 23. A resident of Lausanne, he is noted for his performances in Bucharest, Athens, Vienna, and other European capitals.

August 6 promises a performance by the Manchester String Quartet. Hyun-Woo Kim and Lei Hui, violin; Daniel Foster, viola; and Glenn Garlick, cello, are all members of the National Symphony Orchestra and, in addition to their performance, will be holding a two-week seminar for string players at Penn Alps.

The Music at Penn Alps line-up also includes: June 4, Allan Emerick, tenor, and Julie Emerick, soprano; June 18, the colonial Consort, harpsichord, voice/recorder, and cello; July 9, Charles Grab, trumpet; July 16, Men of Accord, barbershop quartet; July 30, Lynne Barnes, cello; August 13 string seminar student quartet; August 20, Greg Latta, hammered dulcimer and guitar; and August 27, the Penn Alps Chamber Orchestra, John Bauman, conductor.

Individual and season tickets are available. For more information, persons may call Esther Yoder at Spruce Forest Artisan Village at 301-895-3332.

Ohio Man Found Cooking Turkey In Summer Home

An Ohio man was arrested by officers of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Maryland State Police Saturday after he was discovered inside a summer home by the caretaker. George L. Fortner, 35, Toledo, Ohio, had apparently entered the summer residence, owned by Thomas L. Dodds, Gaithersburg, and had set up housekeeping for an undetermined length of time.

William H. Lee, Mtn. Lake Park, is the caretaker of the home and was apparently checking on the residence Saturday. Lee told police he was surprised to feel heat coming from the inside of the house as he opened the door, and was far more surprised to see Fortner sitting in the kitchen, apparently preparing a turkey in the oven.

Fortner left the residence on foot, according to the report, and Lee contacted the sheriff's office. Dep. J. Sowers and Sgt. Glime responded to the scene, and tracked the suspect's footprints to a trailer approximately 400 yards from the summer home. Fortner was found in the trailer and was arrested without incident.

The defendant was charged with breaking and entering, "rogue and vagabond," malicious destruction of property, and breaking and entering with intent to steal.

In other sheriff's office news, an Oakland man was charged with DWI (driving while intoxicated) Friday. Joseph E. Fink, 21, was

G.C. Commissioners Briefed On Tributary Strategies Initiative

Representatives of various state departments this week provided an overview of the "Tributary Strategies Initiative" to the Garrett County Commissioners in an effort to inform them of the goals being pursued by the program and steps that will be taken to achieve those goals.

According to Garrett County Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson, who serves as the local contact for the group, the program came about as part of the Chesapeake Bay Agreement that would provide for a 40% reduction in the amount of nutrient pollution of the bay.

"The idea is to develop recommendations of how to accomplish that goal and to report those recommendations back to the 10 separate watershed districts," said Nelson, who explained that Garrett County is part of the Upper Potomac Watershed District, which includes Montgomery County and all counties west of that.

The series of strategies being touted by the group include point and non-point strategies for achieving the goal of the initiative. Point sources of pollution include sewage plants that eventually empty into the Chesapeake Bay. In Garrett County, sewage plants in Kitzmiller, Bloomington, and Gorman qualify, said

DNR Rescue Team Assists NCRS In Moving Patient

The Department of Natural Resources Rescue Team was called to assist the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad last Saturday morning when the squad personnel was unable to reach the home of a woman in need of assistance.

Ida Hetz, 87, was reportedly experiencing breathing difficulties and had contacted the rescue squad for help. The squad members were unable to reach her home, however, because of the driveway of her Green Lantern Road farmhouse was drifted in with hard packed snow.

Garrett Central Alarm then contacted the DNR State Forest and Park Service Rescue Team, and Rangers John Frank and Harold MacDonald, with employees Terry Garlitz and Mark Beal, responded with the "Track Truck" vehicle and a rescue sled.

Garlitz and Frank reached the victim's home and transported her out to the main roadway, from where the rescue squad then took her on to Frostburg Hospital, where she was treated.

Md. State Parks Seek Assistance From Businesses

Recent reports indicate that Maryland's state forests and parks are increasingly soliciting businesses for financial support because of the decreasing availability of state funds for such things as park maintenance, special programs, and publicity.

In doing so, Maryland is following a national trend among park administrators, who are reporting the successful utilization of adopt-a-park programs and interest among various businesses in tapping into the formidable numbers representing park visitors on an annual basis.

The state is particularly interested in preserving such programs as Junior Rangers and Scales and Tales -- both aimed at educating children in the natural setting -- through the establishment of an endowment fund.

Park officials in Garrett County see the trend as advantageous to the parks and to its numerous visitors, and have responded to any skepticism with assurances that the move to solicit corporate money would not translate into corporate ownership of the parks.

"We are not going to let any in-park advertising intrude on the natural beauty of the park," said Patty Manown, Maryland Department of Natural Resources spokesperson for the public communications office, who also noted that any exchange between the parks and businesses would not allow the businesses to have any say in park policy or philosophy.

Manown added that, locally, corporate solicitation occurs on a much smaller scale than at the state or national level. "Mostly, we use in-kind services from skilled volunteers or exchange having brochures printed for advertising," she said.

That advertising usually takes the form of coupon books being handed out at entrance gates or a piece of donated equipment displaying an "unobtrusive" acknowledgment to the benefactor.

School Board Opts For Longer Year For Snow Days, Votes In 4-Period Day

Students in Garrett County will be in school at least through June 17 this year, as the Garrett County Education Board voted Tuesday to lengthen the school year in order to make up the numerous days missed this winter. The total of days canceled thus far is 14, and 14 school days have been delayed by two hours. By state mandate, Maryland students must complete 180 days of school each year. Several remedies were studied by the board before the members came to their decision at the regular monthly meeting, held Tuesday.

Other topics covered at the board meeting included the proposal of a four-period day at Southern High School, which the board voted to approve on a pilot basis, beginning this fall. Also discussed was the date for commencement exercises for the county's high school graduates.

Snow Days

The issue of making up snow days kept the board members in discussion for over an hour as several options were submitted. Albert Coviello, assistant superintendent, presented the board with the option of lengthening the school day by one hour, with 30 minutes in the morning and 30 minutes in the afternoon. Another suggestion was to simply ask the state to waive the last two or three days, and a third option discussed was the idea of lengthening the school year until June 17 and then, in light of more days, petitioning the state to allow the students to attend school on Easter Monday and, if needed, Memorial Day.

The lengthening of the school day was proposed to begin on March 14 and continue through April 26. This would recapture five instructional days, Coviello explained, and the school year could end on June 10.

After much discussion, Coviello's suggestion was turned down. Board members expressed concern over how early some children would have to get on their school buses, which in some cases would be 6:15 a.m. Another concern, highlighted by Superintendent Jerome Ryscavage, centered on the loss for the school lunch program. If five days are "lost" through the lengthening proposal, the lunch program would lose approximately $55,000 in revenue. There would be further loss in the salaries for food service workers, who would have to be compensated for the lost five days of work. Ryscavage said that figure would be approximately $16,200. He also noted that the school breakfast program has already suffered a $7,400 loss because of the delayed school openings.

Tom Shaffer, a spokesperson for the Garrett County Teachers' Association, advised school board members that the association would consider the lengthening of days as a last resort, and suggested that the board simply ask for a state waiver of three of the

Sen. Gramm To Speak At GOP Lincoln Dinner

U.S. Senator Phil Gramm of Texas will be the speaker at the Garrett County Republican Central Committee's annual Lincoln Day Dinner to be held Saturday, May 7, at the Wisp McHenry House in McHenry. A social hour will be held from 6-7 p.m., with dinner to be served at 7 p.m.

Senator Gramm was elected to Congress as a Democrat in 1978, and was re-elected in 1980 and 1982. When he was stripped of his House Budget Committee seat, in 1983, in retaliation for co-authoring the Reagan economic program, he resigned from Congress and then won re-election on Lincoln's birthday in 1983 as the first Republican Congressman in the history of the Sixth Congressional District in Texas.

In 1990, Gramm won re-election with a record 60% of the vote, the highest percentage vote received by any Senate candidate in a general election in over 30 years.

The Senator is the author of three pieces of landmark economic legislation: the Gramm-Latta Budget, the Gramm-Latta Reconciliation Act, and the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget bill.

A member of the Budget, Appropriations, and Banking committees, he was elected by his fellow senators as chairperson of the National Republican Senatorial Committee to lead the campaign effort on behalf of Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate.

He is the author of several books, including The Role of Government in a Free Society and The Economics of Mineral Extraction. Gramm is married to Dr. Wendy Lee Gramm, and they have two sons, Marshall and Jeff.

Tickets for the Lincoln Day Dinner are available from all elected Republican officials, district chairpersons, and committee members. They may also be purchased by calling 334-9200, 387-6125, or 689-8204. All tickets must be purchased by April 23. No tickets will be sold at the door.

More information may be obtained by calling H. Wayne Whit, chairperson, at 334-9200.

materials on healthy eating habits in recognition of National Nutrition Month and the Garrett County Lighthouse, Inc., will focus its activities around that information during the month of March.

Some of the topics to be discussed include: eating a variety of foods, maintaining healthy weight, choosing a low-fat diet, eating plenty of vegetables, fruits, and grain products, and using salt and sugar in moderation.

Md. State Parks Seek Assistance From Businesses

Recent reports indicate that Maryland's state forests and parks are increasingly soliciting businesses for financial support because of the decreasing availability of state funds for such things as park maintenance, special programs, and publicity.

In doing so, Maryland is following a national trend among park administrators, who are reporting the successful utilization of adopt-a-park programs and interest among various businesses in tapping into the formidable numbers representing park visitors on an annual basis.

The state is particularly interested in preserving such programs as Junior Rangers and Scales and Tales -- both aimed at educating children in the natural setting -- through the establishment of an endowment fund.

Park officials in Garrett County see the trend as advantageous to the parks and to its numerous visitors, and have responded to any skepticism with assurances that the move to solicit corporate money would not translate into corporate ownership of the parks.

"We are not going to let any in-park advertising intrude on the natural beauty of the park," said Patty Manown, Maryland Department of Natural Resources spokesperson for the public communications office, who also noted that any exchange between the parks and businesses would not allow the businesses to have any say in park policy or philosophy.

Manown added that, locally, corporate solicitation occurs on a much smaller scale than at the state or national level. "Mostly, we use in-kind services from skilled volunteers or exchange having brochures printed for advertising," she said.

That advertising usually takes the form of coupon books being handed out at entrance gates or a piece of donated equipment displaying an "unobtrusive" acknowledgment to the benefactor.

School Board Opts For Longer Year For Snow Days, Votes In 4-Period Day

Students in Garrett County will be in school at least through June 17 this year, as the Garrett County Education Board voted Tuesday to lengthen the school year in order to make up the numerous days missed this winter. The total of days canceled thus far is 14, and 14 school days have been delayed by two hours. By state mandate, Maryland students must complete 180 days of school each year. Several remedies were studied by the board before the members came to their decision at the regular monthly meeting, held Tuesday.

Other topics covered at the board meeting included the proposal of a four-period day at Southern High School, which the board voted to approve on a pilot basis, beginning this fall. Also discussed was the date for commencement exercises for the county's high school graduates.

Snow Days

The issue of making up snow days kept the board members in discussion for over an hour as several options were submitted. Albert Coviello, assistant superintendent, presented the board with the option of lengthening the school day by one hour, with 30 minutes in the morning and 30 minutes in the afternoon. Another suggestion was to simply ask the state to waive the last two or three days, and a third option discussed was the idea of lengthening the school year until June 17 and then, in light of more days, petitioning the state to allow the students to attend school on Easter Monday and, if needed, Memorial Day.

The lengthening of the school day was proposed to begin on March 14 and continue through April 26. This would recapture five instructional days, Coviello explained, and the school year could end on June 10.

After much discussion, Coviello's suggestion was turned down. Board members expressed concern over how early some children would have to get on their school buses, which in some cases would be 6:15 a.m. Another concern, highlighted by Superintendent Jerome Ryscavage, centered on the losses for the school lunch program. If five days are "lost" through the lengthening proposal, the lunch program would lose approximately $35,700 in revenue. There would be further loss in the salaries for food service workers, who would have to be compensated for the lost five days of work. Ryscavage said that figure would be approximately $16,200. He also noted that the school breakfast program has already suffered a $7,400 loss because of the delayed school openings.

Tom Shaffer, a spokesperson for the Garrett County Teachers' Association, advised school board members that the association would consider the lengthening of days as a last resort, and suggested that the board simply ask for a state waiver of three of the

U.S. Senator Phil Gramm of Texas will be the speaker at the Garrett County Republican Central Committee's annual Lincoln Day Dinner to be held Saturday, May 7, at the Wisp McHenry House in McHenry. A social hour will be held from 6-7 p.m., with dinner to be served at 7 p.m.

Senator Gramm was elected to Congress as a Democrat in 1978, and was re-elected in 1980 and 1982. When he was stripped of his House Budget Committee seat, in 1983, in retaliation for co-authoring the Reagan economic program, he resigned from Congress and then won re-election on Lincoln's birthday in 1983 as the first Republican Congressman in the history of the Sixth Congressional District in Texas.

In 1990, Gramm won re-election with a record 60% of the vote, the highest percentage vote received by any Senate candidate in a general election in over 30 years.

The Senator is the author of three pieces of landmark economic legislation: the Gramm-Leahy Budget, the Gramm-Leahy Reconciliation Act, and the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget bill.

A member of the Budget, Appropriations, and Banking committees, he was elected by his fellow senators as chairperson of the National Republican Senatorial Committee to lead the campaign effort on behalf of Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate.

He is the author of several books, including The Role of Government in a Free Society and The Economics of Mineral Extraction. Gramm is married to Dr. Wendy Lee Gramm, and they have two sons, Marshall and Jeff.

Tickets for the Lincoln Day Dinner are available from all elected Republican officials, district chairpersons, and committee members. They may also be purchased by calling 334-9200, 387-6125, or 689-8204. All tickets must be purchased by April 23. No tickets will be sold at the door.

More information may be obtained by calling H. Wayne Wilt, chairperson, at 334-9200.

HOW MUCH LONGER? The winter drags on, as more snow fell this week to add to the over 130 inches total so far this year. As picturesque as this scene may be, most Garrett Countians - even snow enthusiasts - are showing varying levels of weariness with the seemingly endless wintry climate. Deep Creek Lake did freeze solidly enough to support those interested in ice fishing, as shown here, but recent changing temps have probably rendered the lake unsafe. More residents dealt with power outages last night, as icy rain fell into a cold lower atmosphere, weighing electric lines down until they gave way in some areas. Although one may be hesitant to believe it, spring is truly on its way, and is showing itself already as daffodils and crocuses begin to break ground. Temperatures are to rise slightly over the weekend, so perhaps the air will finally hint the true breath of spring.

Artists From Russia, Europe, Asia Slated To Perform At Penn Alps

After a successful first season last summer, Music At Penn Alps has planned a 1994 season filled with musical programs performed by musicians from both near and far.

According to Dr. Jon Bauman, series coordinator, several of the performances will be by international performers. "It's really exciting to bring artists of this calibre to rural western Maryland. It's exciting for them to visit our region and a thrill for us to have them," he said.

The summer-long series presents performances of classical and lighter music every Saturday at 7 p.m. during the month of June, July and August. All performances are held at the Great Hall of Penn Alps or in the Spruce Forest Artisan Village, both in Grantsville.

Pianist Silvia Cordes will make her Penn Alps premiere on June 7. She will travel from her home in Germany and plans other performances during her American tour.

Russia sends its youth folk orchestra, Korobeyniki, for a July 2 appearance. The 20-plus members, in historic costume, perform Russian folk songs on such traditional instruments as the domio, accordion, flute, clarinet, and balalaika.

Swiss baritone Sergio Bellez will sing on July 23. A resident of Lausanne, he is noted for his performances in Bucharest, Athens, Vienna, and other European capitals.

August 6 promises a performance by the Manchester String Quartet. Hyun-Woo Kim and Lei Hou, violin; Daniel Foster, viola; and Glenn Garlick, cello, are all members of the National Symphony Orchestra and, in addition to their performance, will be holding a two-week seminar for string players at Penn Alps.

The Music at Penn Alps line-up also includes: June 4, Allan Emerick, tenor, and Julie Emerick, soprano; June 18, the colonial Consort, harpsichord, voice/recorder, and cello; July 9, Charles Grab, trumpet; July 16, Men of Accord, barbershop quartet; July 30, Lynne Barnes, cello harp; August 13 string seminar student quartet; August 20, Greg Latta, hammered dulcimer and guitar; and August 27, the Penn Alps Chamber Orchestra, John Bauman, conductor.

Ohio Man Found Cooking Turkey In Summer Home

An Ohio man was arrested by officers of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Maryland State Police Saturday after he was discovered inside a summer home by the caretaker, George L. Fortner, 35, Toledo, Ohio, had apparently entered the summer residence, owned by Thomas L. Dodds, Gaithersburg, and had set up housekeeping for an undetermined length of time.

William H. Lee, Mtn. Lake Park, is the caretaker of the home and was apparently checking on the residence Saturday. Lee told police he was surprised to feel heat coming from the inside of the house as he opened the door, and was far more surprised to see Fortner sitting in the kitchen, apparently preparing a turkey in the oven.

Fortner left the residence on foot, according to the report, and Lee contacted the sheriff's office. Dep. J. Sowers and Sgt. Glime responded to the scene, and tracked the suspect's footprints to a trailer approximately 400 yards from the summer home. Fortner was found in the trailer and was arrested without incident.

The defendant was charged with breaking and entering, "rogue and vagabond," malicious destruction of property, and breaking and entering with intent to steal.

G.C. Commissioners Briefed On Tributary Strategies Initiative

Representatives of various state departments this week provided an overview of the "Tributary Strategies Initiative" to the Garrett County Commissioners in an effort to inform them of the goals being pursued by the program and steps that will be taken to achieve those goals.

According to Garrett County Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson, who serves as the local contact for the group, the program came about as part of the Chesapeake Bay Agreement that would provide for a 40% reduction in the amount of nutrient pollution of the bay.

"The idea is to develop recommendations of how to accomplish that goal and to report those recommendations back to the 10 separate watershed districts," said Nelson, who explained that Garrett County is part of what is known as the Upper Potomac Watershed District, which includes Montgomery County and all counties west of that.

The series of strategies being touted by the group include point and non-point strategies for achieving the goal of the initiative. Point sources of pollution include sewage plants that eventually empty into the Chesapeake Bay. In Garrett County, sewage plants in Kitzmiller, Bloomington, and Gorman qualify, said

The Department of Natural Resources Rescue Team was called to assist the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad last Saturday morning when the squad personnel was unable to reach the home of a woman in need of assistance.

Ida Hietz, 87, was reportedly experiencing breathing difficulties and had contacted the rescue squad for help. The squad members were unable to reach her home, however, because of the driveway of her Green Lantern Road farmhouse was drifted in with hard packed snow.

Garrett Central Alarm then contacted the DNR State Forest and Park Service Rescue Team, and Rangers John Frank and Harold MacDonald, with employees Terry Garlitz and Mark Beal, responded with the "Track Truck" vehicle and a rescue sled.

Garlitz and Frank reached the victim's home and transported her out to the main roadway, from where the rescue squad then took her on to Frostburg Hospital, where she was treated.

Theft Of Kayak Being Probed By Sheriff's Office

A McHenry resident contacted the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week to report the apparent theft of a kayak. Robert A. Dobson told officers that the fiberglass "Rocker" kayak was in his yard and was last seen there on Feb. 7.

The boat had apparently been covered with snow, and Dobson did not discover that it had been taken from the yard until March 2. The kayak deck is blue metal-flake with a white hull and a black seam in between. The words "New Wave" are printed in silver letters to the rear of the cockpit frame. The kayak is approximately 10 feet long and two to three feet wide.

The value of the kayak has been set at $1,000. An investigation into the apparent theft is continuing.

Oakland Man Escapes Serious Injury In Mishap

A young Oakland man sustained minor injuries in a car accident last week in which an unattended vehicle drifted onto the roadway.

According to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, William D. Teter, Deer Park, had left his 1977 Chevrolet truck parked in his driveway, as the battery in the vehicle was dead. Teter apparently left to make arrangements to have the battery recharged, and later told police that he had set the emergency brake before leaving the premises.

However, the truck drifted across Rt. 560, according to the report, and into the path of Jeremy Bosley, 19, who was operating a 1986 Ford Ranger southbound. Bosley struck the driver's side of the truck, which caused his vehicle to spin to the right and overturn.

Bosley was transported by private vehicle to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for minor injuries and released, according to the sheriff's office report.

Teter was cited by police for leaving a motor vehicle improperly attended.

Driver Charged With DWI After One-Car Mishap

A Mt. Airy man was charged with DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) following a one-vehicle mishap Monday afternoon on I-68 west of Keyser's Ridge.

George R. McGarvey, 19, and his passenger, Keith A. Klinedinst, 21, Frederick, were both transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. A hospital spokesperson noted that Klinedinst was treated and released, while McGarvey was admitted. He was initially listed in serious condition, but has since been up-graded to good.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry, the 2:56 p.m. accident occurred when McGarvey, operating a 1986 Chevrolet Nova westbound near the Pig's Ear Road overpass, lost control of the vehicle on a slight curve and

Thomas Callis Sr., Mtn. Lake Park, headed northbound on D Street in a Chevrolet van, was stopped at a stop sign at the intersection of Old Rt. 135 (Oakland Drive). SAVED BY THE BELT certificates were presented recently by Maryland State Police. Barrack W. McHenry, to two local teachers who avoided serious injuries in an auto accident because they were wearing seat belts. Pictured above, from left to right, are Lt. Charles Hinnant, Sandra Lynn Wilson, Tfc. Scott Anderson, Suzanne Mitchell, and Sgt. William M. Gilme. Wilson and Mitchell were involved in an accident on Aug. 28, 1992, on U.S. Rt. 219, near the Glendale Road. The vehicle they were traveling in was hit head on. Although they were injured, Wilson emphasized, "The decision to buckle up saved our lives." "I hope that everyone will protect themselves and choose to buckle up," added Mitchell. Since the program's inception in 1987, more than 4,700 survivors have been identified by Maryland law enforcement agencies. At the time of a vehicle crash, responding officers identify individuals whose lives are saved, or injuries significantly reduced, because they were wearing a safety belt or were properly restrained in an infant or child safety seat. The "Saved By The Belt" program is sponsored by the Maryland Committee for Safety Belt Use.

Frederick Man Convicted On Battery Charge

Among the cases heard by Judge Ralph Burnett in Garrett County District Court last week, was one involving a Frederick man who was found guilty of battery.

Harry W. Mayle Sr., 57, was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail, with all of the sentence suspended except 150 days, and was placed on one year of supervised probation upon his release. Additional charges of resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, and disobeying a police officer, were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney's office.

Mayle had been arrested by Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy J.D. Sowers, after he received a call from Twila Cooper, who stated Mayle was acting in a disorderly manner in her home. When the deputy arrived at Cooper's home in Oakland, he detected a strong odor of alcohol on Mayle and instructed him to leave.

After being escorted outside, Mayle reportedly became belligerent with the officer and attempted to walk back to the house. When advised a second time to leave, Mayle again became belligerent and shoved Sowers, who then placed him under arrest.

A guilty verdict was handed to Robert L. Wilt, 28, Swanton, for possession of CDS (controlled dangerous substance) paraphernalia with intent to use. The judge imposed a $450 fine and sentenced Wilt to one year of supervised probation for the offense. He was also ordered to submit to drug evaluation, testing and treatment. A charge of CDS possession was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the state's attorney's office.

According to court records, sheriff's deputies had gone to Wilt's home on Dec. 12, 1993, to "serve papers." At that time, they reportedly detected the odor of burning marijuana. Following a subsequent search of the house, the deputies found a bag of marijuana, four packs of cigarette rolling papers, a bag of marijuana cigarette ends and a suspected marijuana pipe and clip, and placed Wilt under arrest.

Brian K. Griffin, 22, McHenry, was convicted on a CDS possession charge by Judge Burnett, who sentenced him to 30 days in jail, with all being suspended except 48 hours. Griffin was granted 12 hours' credit for time already served, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to attend an addiction counseling center. He was also fined $350, which he will pay by performing community service. A charge of possession of CDS paraphernalia with intent to use was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the state's attorney's office.

On Nov. 13, 1993, sheriff's deputies responded to Broadford Road for a reported disturbance. Upon their arrival, they observed a 1983 Buick sitting partially in a ditch. Jerry L. Michaels, a passenger in the Buick, told the officers Griffin had been operating the vehicle and had "just walked off."

According to court records, the deputies observed a brass pipe in the vehicle, containing suspected marijuana. Griffin reportedly returned to the scene while the deputies were waiting for a tow truck to arrive. He admitted to owning the pipe, and was arrested on the CDS charge.

In other district court news, Ricky C. Stewart, 26, Oakland, pleaded not guilty, and was found not guilty, to charges of malicious destruction of property and breaking and entering.

On Oct. 2, 1993, Earl W. Riley, Oakland, reported his house had been broken into and ransacked, but apparently nothing was missing. Stewart admitted to being at the Riley home, but said he saw two individuals run from the house. As they fled, they knocked him down. He was, however, unable to identify them.

Fourth Community Lenten Service Set At Bethel Church

The fourth in a series of Wednesday evening Lenten services, sponsored by the Mt. Top Ministerial Association and Oakland area clergymen, will be at Bethel United Methodist Church, Mtn. Lake Park, March 16, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker for the service will be the Rev. William "Chip" Lee, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, and vicar of St. John's Episcopal Church. This year's theme is "Following Christian Footsteps." According to a ministerial spokesperson, the Lenten series deals with famous Christian leaders and unusual events in their lives, which stand out in the memories of the various speakers.

The final service of the Lenten series will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 23, at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland. Guest speaker for this service will be the Rev. Mark Hickman, pastor of Bethel United Methodist Church.

Holy Week and Easter activities for the ministerial group will include a Good Friday service at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland, and an Easter sunrise service at Garrett Memorial Gardens, Oakland.

Daffodil Days Are Next Week

The Garrett County Unit of the American Cancer Society is again participating in the Society's annual Daffodil Days, slated for March 17-18.

Businesses and individuals are invited to purchase daffodils that will arrive in the county for Daffodil Days. Daffodils may be picked up at Jan Florists, Oakland, The Flower Loft, Grantsville, and Accident Floral and Gifts. They will be available in bunches of 10 for $5. Volunteers will deliver orders of 50 or more flowers.

According to Constance Margison, Daffodil Days chairperson, the daffodil is the first flower of spring and is known as the flower of hope.

"Since there is virtually no person in Garrett County who has not been touched by cancer in some way, the daffodil is a symbol to each of us that there is hope for cancer victims and hope that a cure will be found," Margison said.

Last year the local unit of the ACS assisted 30 cancer patients and provided education about the disease to over 6,000 youth and over 5,000 adults.

Persons wishing to order daffodils or obtain more information may contact Margison at Marvin's Men's Wear, 334-9211.

A Congressional Disgrace...

It happens every time there is a disaster. Some unscrupulous individuals see an opportunity to take advantage of the situation and make a killing at the expense of the very victims of the tragedy.

Just after Hurricane Andrew ripped coastal homes to pieces in Florida, the cost of plywood and other building materials skyrocketed. Others moved into the area with truckloads of generators and sold them for two or three times the regular cost.

Indignation and contempt are among the feelings directed toward such leaches in our society, however, the members of our Congress, the people we have elected to high office and entrusted to lead this nation, routinely behave in similar fashion.

We refer specifically to the California earthquake relief bill that was recently passed by Congress, a bill that had some $33 million worth of pork project amendments attached to it that had absolutely nothing to do with earthquake relief. The largest chunk of that was by West Virginia Senator Robert Byrd, who added $20 million to hire 500 more employees at the new FBI facility in his state. There was another $10 million addition to design a post office in New York City, a $1.3 million grant for Hawaiian sugar mill communities, and an extra $1.5 million to secure a commercial ship in South Carolina and convert it to a museum. These funds were unauthorized by Congress and the amendments were not even discussed on the Senate floor when the bill was proposed. In fact, the members of Congress were assured that the bill was "clean" and purely of an emergency nature.

We are pleased that our representative in Congress, Sixth District Representative Roscoe Bartlett, has co-sponsored subsequent legislation that would remove these projects from the relief bill (see story on page B-7). Bartlett called this action by his fellow Congressmen "a disgrace, a farce, and an insult to the American taxpayer." We heartily agree.

Congress has done this sort of thing for years and it is way past time that such actions be made illegal. It not, then, at least the executive branch of our government should be granted the line-item veto authority which has been sought by the past several presidents.

Of course, such changes can be made only through this same governing body that is guilty of such outrageous, unethical, disgraceful behavior; so the chances that change is forthcoming are slim at best.

To the Editor:

Having noticed in Cum-berland Times News of March 2, 1994, "Garrett Commission Responds to Civil Suit," quoting from the article that appeared in the paper. A county taxpayer requested public information concerning the purchase of county roads equipment in the amount of $1.3 million. According to the paper, this request in writing was to the Board of County Commissioners, as well as their clerk.

This was a perfectly legal request made in December of 1993 and this is March 1994. Any taxpayer has a perfect right to know how their tax money is being handled by the commissioners in a prudent and legal way. Now, was this a biding procedure or was it a purchase of John Deere Equipment Company?

I talked to Commissioner Butcher on the phone after I noticed this response in the Times News. I asked her why the delay in response to the request of the taxpayer. She indicated the same as the paper, that this may have occurred in the transition of the commissioners' attorneys.

However, this seemed to be a weak alibi, as the request was made to the commissioners and their operating his vehicle east-bound on Rt. 59 near Oakland when an officer noticed the vehicle had no working tail lights, according to the report. Link was stopped for the equipment violation and was subsequently charged with DWI.

A Mtn. Lake Park woman was arrested on the strength of a warrant issued from Anne Arundel County. Amy King, 29, is accused of taking part in a theft incident in Severn in July 1993. The charge against King is breaking and entering a storehouse, according to the police report.

Ferald W. Hadley, 22, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to appear in court on March 1. His initial charge was theft under $300, according to the report.

clerk, who is employed by the commissioners. As elected officials, I believe they should exercise at least a degree of restraint in their handling of taxpayers money in funding various departments and in salaries they pay their employees.

I was informed by Commissioner Butcher on the phone that their clerk, Mr. Fousek's salary was $52,000 plus $11,000 salary as County Roads Administrator. I believe the Clerk to County Commissioners should be a full time position. Now the two salaries combined would equal $63,000. There is no doubt in my mind that there are qualified persons within the county that would serve as Clerk to the Commissioners for one half of this dollar figure.

Each year when I receive my tax bill on or about July 1, both the assessable base and the tax bill is somewhat higher. I am not complaining as I presume other taxpayers receive the same treatment. I do consider it a privilege to pay taxes.

When I was a member of the Board of County Commissioners, it was my desire to be more careful with my fellowman's tax money than my own money. I served in 1966-1970 along with Mr. Allan Paugh (now deceased) and Mr. John Ross Sines.

In closing, if I have mis-stated in anyway in this letter, I invite the Commissioner or Commissioners to correct me. However, I believe this is election year. Voters and taxpayers, beware! Vote for and support the candidate you believe you can trust and live with the next four years. I do believe a complete house cleaning is in order.

Respectfully,

To the Editor:

As director of the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging (AAA) and an advocate for the elderly, I am writing to share the Agency's concern regarding long-term care in health care reform.

It has come to our attention that legislators are not hearing from their constituents that long-term care, including home and community based care, should be part of the health care reform. Unfortunately, a lack of support could very likely mean these services

Senior Citizens' Menus

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week.

The menu for the week of March 14-18 is as follows:

Day 1 - tossed salad, hot roast beef sand w/

whipped pot. gravy, carrots, fruit cocktail, raisin bar.

Day 2 - cranberry salad, turkey w/dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, broccoli, hot roll, pumpkin cake.

will not be available for those requiring them now or in the future.

Perhaps, as often happens, people do not fully understand what long-term care and specifically home and community based care is. Therefore, I would like to provide a brief explanation. Home and community based care is an array of services made available to individuals with disabilities, regardless of age, needing assistance with activities of daily living enabling them to remain in their homes rather than requiring institutionalization. These services may include home health care, home-maker/chose assistance, case management, respite services, adult day care, home delivered meals, etc. The services may be delivered in an individual's home, in various community residential settings or outside the home, but not in a hospital, nursing or institutional setting.

Senior citizens have repeatedly expressed their desire to remain in their own homes for as long as possible, regardless of their frailties. In many cases, frail elderly who have family with whom they could reside fear they will become a burden. On the other hand, many families who would like to care for their elderly cannot due to several circumstances: two-worker households, lack of support services and affordability of needed support services.

I would like to emphasize that home and community based services would benefit not only frail elderly but all individuals with severe mental or cognitive impairments, severe or profound mental retardation and children with severe disability or chronic medical condition. Obviously, age is not a factor in determining need or provision of services.

The AAA would like to urge Garrett Countyans who want to see these important services included in health care reform to write their representatives now... time is of the essence. Any one of us, or a family member, could require home and community based care at some point in time. Let's assure its availability if and when needed.

The names and addresses of Maryland's representatives are listed below for readers' convenience. Although particular attention should be paid to Senator Barbara Mikulski and Representative Benjamin Cardin, who serve on separate committees reviewing health care reform bills, the AAA encourages letters to all representatives listed. Letters need not be lengthy to be productive. Simply express your desire to have any health care bill include a long-term care benefit which emphasizes the following: home and community based care; availability for all ages, incomes and types of disabilities and also provides consumer choice.

As a final note, I would like to assure your readers that the AAA is not recommending any specific legislation on health care reform.

Thank you,
Adina Brode

TECHNOLOGY EDUCATION

written by Kenneth Bittinger, Supervisor of Career & Technology Education and Robin Kessler, Southern High School teacher

The State of Maryland has recently mandated that every student entering high school take a course called Technology Education as a requirement for graduation. This became effective with the 1993-94 ninth grade class.

Many people have little or no idea what this course is because the term "Technology Education" is used to mean many things. In this case, however, it means a course that has updated and replaced what was formerly known as industrial arts.

Technology Education approaches learning from a hands-on integrated perspective. It involves five areas of technology: communication, transportation, manufacturing, biotechnology, and construction. Using science and math concepts, students put these concepts or theories to the test by trying them out in a laboratory.

As an illustration, students recently completed a unit in construction where they learned what makes buildings stand up. They learned about loads that affect structures and how structures must be designed in order to remain standing. They looked at technologies that have been developed to withstand high winds, earthquakes, as well as the usual weight of roofing materials and snow, for example.

After learning the concepts, students are given a design problem they must solve. The problem in the assignment was to construct a tower that was just so tall, made out of a certain sized wood, and could hold the most weight. Prior to this unit, students learned how to approach a problem using a problem solving method.

The first step was to understand the question. Next the students looked at their notes to gather information about how to solve the problem. Step three involved brainstorming as many designs as possible without being critical of any ideas. At this stage, students rough-sketches the designs. When they had finished brainstorming, students narrowed their choices to one tower design. They then constructed it, destructive-tested it, and used a mathematical formula to determine its efficiency. Finally, students analyzed weaknesses and strengths of the design and made changes and adjustments as needed.

This whole process enables students to try out ideas based on what they learn and bring with them. This is a typical process used in Technology Education. Students are given some ideas and techniques on material handling, including a problem-solving method, and must think the problem through to a constructed solution and beyond to evaluating that solution.

Whether it is constructing an efficient tower in construction technology or a communication technology activity, or learning about simple electrical circuits and then actually constructing a flashlight which incorporates a simple circuit, students are challenged to think. It is one thing to see a circuit on the chalkboard, and quite another to construct a working circuit.

Students seem to be enthusiastic about the program. They meet with a great deal of success as individuals, but they also learn how to work in teams. They become familiar with the various fields of engineering, the role technology has played historically, and they receive career information.

The state also mandates that we offer courses that will provide two advanced Technology Education credits for those students who elect to take them as part of their graduation requirements. These courses are not in existence now, but will be in the near future.

THE LAST SNOW

Primed for summer by a warm spell, the weather report said that it was unlikely to last, even though February had run its course. Up the eastern coast was a stream of moisture, and out of the west was a swirl of frigid air.

As predicted, the two fronts collided and produced an unusual storm. The wind blew, some lightning flew, it spattered a little rain, and then settled in for steady snow during the night.

It wasn't a violent storm but rather a petulant storm that drifted through to close the schools. It left behind a sense of calm, not too cold and great for play. The sun was well hidden behind the clouds, but being March, the angle and hour made it seem bright. One knew that winter was on the run.

Preparing to shovel this latest bout in the series of "nintyfour," my last ounce of endurance was on the line. As I progressed, there was a pleasant surprise. The snow was soft, compliant, light, and very uniform in texture. It came apart as if fibrous instead of crystalline. Pulverized cotton had a greater resemblance except for the interesting translucence. The fresh-smelling stuff had no flaws. Each shoveled cube had this pristine appearance.

This particular snow, I gave a different regard. As I shoveled, it continued to gain my interest if not respect. I was quite tired for the season, but this snow entertained me with its exceptional features, the last of which was "color." The color of snow is not something I often dwell upon, except to concur that it is usually white sometimes tainted with shades of gray.

This snow was not exactly white. Its whiteness was imbued with a tinge of greenish-blue. Such a shade was not predominate or conspicuous but caught with a careful gaze. It was not emanating from any surface but originating from deep within. I would like to have captured it with a jar for others to see, but it was there more to transport than to be transported. It resisted being a commodity beyond its immediate place. As it was, I did not meet another person with whom I could share the allure. I could not expose the ephemeral. Like a rainbow or aurora, it was there but for the short while and then it disappeared.

As minor as a shoveled spot of snow is to observe, the event refuses to dispense of itself within me. There is a lingering recall of its exceptional features. I can only generalize it as a "beauty" or "promise," maybe they are one of the same. The vacated components are reminiscent of a lost friend. It taught me that integrity of structure might be a first appeal, but for beauty, it also needs light from deep within.

The snow that day was a reassuring arrangement. It was nothing I thought possible from a cold and benign mass. It simply blew in, and I almost shoveled it away.

Dear Residents of Baltimore or maybe Washington, D.C.:

I hear that you just purchased a new pet - a big, beautiful black dog. You've had him since the middle of November and I'll bet you think the world of him by now. He's only a year old, so the two of you can have many years together. He's a Black Labrador Retriever, one of the most popular dogs in the world, and he's very smart, friendly and loving. I'm sure he was worth every penny you paid for him, even though he has no registration papers. I wish you luck with him, and I hope you will really love him and treat him well because once he was my dog, and I loved him very much.

More and more dogs are disappearing from our area, good dogs, pedigreed dogs, the kind that make good pets and are in demand. My personal conclusion is that our dogs are being stolen and taken to the city. There they are sold to families looking for a nice pet. Who knows what kind of story these new owners are being told about the dog's past, and why the price for that kind of dog is maybe $200 instead of $500 or $600 like they'd pay in a big city pet store or kennel.

Here at The Republican Newspaper, we receive approximately four ads each month from distraught pet owners who are trying to find their missing dogs. Becky Mellinger at Oakland's Tropical World says she receives about the same number of calls from people looking for their missing dogs. A spokesperson at the Garrett County Animal Shelter said they receive five or six calls a month, and the Garrett County Humane Society says there is a "rash of disappearing animals" in the county.

The Humane Society has a clue; a white pickup with Maryland license plates and a light blue and white Chevrolet pickup with a club cab has been seen in areas where pets have been reported as missing to them.

Sheriff Van Evans says dog owners should report missing animals to law enforcement officials, either the Garrett County Sheriff's Office or the Maryland State Police. These are the agencies that can take some kind of action. He says only a few missing dogs have been reported to his office, maybe because people are usually unsure whether their dog has been taken or has just run away.

We need to work with these officials. If your dog disappears, call either the Sheriff's Office or the State Police, then call the Animal Shelter. They will post your dog's description for one month and if your dog is picked up or turned in to them, they will call you. Also call the Humane Society to see if they have seen your dog. Watch for suspicious vehicles where your pets are and keep your dog tied if possible.

If you've lost your dog, I wish you luck finding it. I know what you're going through, and I wish it could be avoided. Let's try to find out who is taking these dogs and put a stop to it.

We would like to express our gratitude and overwhelming thanks to the efforts put forth when our smoke alarm became activated at 6 a.m., January 23, 1994, at Hill Top Delite in Grantsville.

Fortunately, the alarm was a false one. We felt that the quick response and degree of concern expressed by the Grantsville Fire Department, the Salisbury Fire Department, and the Maryland State Police was a characteristic that no other one could match. Everyone assisted us in our extreme degree of panic. They made sure our business was safe and secure before leaving the scene. Their professionalism and true caring for the community is a quality which deserves much praise.

Once again, thanks to everyone involved for seeing us through this stressful situation.

Southern High School just lost a heart-breaker to Williamsport in the Northern gym. They played a heads-up game the first half and built the largest lead of the night (21-12) at half-time.

Then the Williamsport coach, who should have had a pair of basketball shorts on because he was the sixth member of the Williamsport team and he received not one foul, but came up with a plan that Coach Bosley did not see through. I know to his regret now, but it's very easy to second guess

MARCH 10, 1994

Coach Bosley is the finest coach we have had in years, and who am I to say he did not know what was what?

Also, Southern had three of their top players sidelined with injuries and this was strike three against Coach Bosley.

I never will understand why the forced play rule is no longer in the books. "Weird and wacky," said their Coach Murphy; how true!

We are all proud of Southern and showed that by the large turnout of people for the Rams.

Better luck next year, Coach Bosley. You will go all the way. God bless and yay Southern!

Edwards Backs Milk Comm. Bill

District I-A Delegate George C. Edwards, along with delegates from Frederick, Carroll, and Harford counties, has co-sponsored a bill that would establish a Maryland Milk Commission for the purpose of, among other things, setting minimum retail and wholesale prices to be paid to milk producers in the state.

"This bill would ensure that milk producers from areas outside the state would not be able to undercut the price of milk in Maryland," said Edwards. "It would level the playing field."

House Bill 1411, titled, "Maryland Milk Commission," stems from a recommendation by the Maryland Dairy Task Force.

Under current law, milk may be transported into the state at a lower price than is paid to Maryland dairy producers and, according to reports, the consumer prices would not be increased under the new policy.

Included in the bill is the make-up of the commission, which would include six governor-appointed members, two of whom would be dairy producers, one a representative of the processing industry, and three who would represent the consumer faction. An administrators would also be appointed by the governor. The commission would investigate matters pertaining to the procession, storage, transportation, distribution, and sale of milk in the state, and would have the authority to examine the records of milk producers and distributors.

The bill has been assigned to the House Appropriations Committee.

Family Violence Bill Approved

The Senate unanimously approved a bill this week that proposes major changes in the way police and courts deal with domestic violence. Titled "The Domestic Violence Act of 1994," the measure was crafted by a coalition of women's groups.

The bill would require police to make arrests if they feel a court protective order has been violated. Currently, police have more discretion in dealing with violence in the home.

Proponents of the measure have argued that domestic violence cases are not pursued as aggressively as are other crimes. Therefore, offenders tend to ignore the court orders.

The bill now goes to the House of Delegates.

has also signed on as a co-sponsor of House Bill 1398, which would eliminate subsequent welfare assistance payments to an individual currently receiving welfare payments in the event of the birth of another child during the period of eligibility.

Edwards explained that the bill is less comprehensive than the package sent to legislators by the Schaefer Administration. That package places further restrictions on welfare eligibility.

Delegates Vote For Pay Raise

The House of Delegates this week voted to accept a $1,700 per year pay raise for the next four years, defeating a motion that would have brought the proposal to the floor. Without a vote, the increase would have taken place automatically.

The action will result in delegates' salaries being raised from $28,000 to $29,700 a year. The proposal came from an independent panel established to study salaries and make recommendations. Those recommendations automatically take effect unless lawmakers object.

Reports indicate, however, that opponents of the bill will either filibuster the issue or load it with amendments. Although legislators are saying that the vote will be too close to call, Governor Schaefer is reportedly claiming a victory after similar attempts to ban assault weapons have repeatedly failed over the past few years.

Lawmakers attribute the passage of the bill by the committee to strong voter support of gun control and

Food For Thought

Chef Francesco Pisano
McClives Restaurant

Elegant no-bake dessert starts with a purchased angel-food cake, raspberry sherbet, raspberry pourable fruit and fresh berries. Prepare and freeze seven or eight little scoops of sherbet and pack the rest into the center hole of the cake. Freeze.

At serving time, drizzle half the pourable fruit over the cake, place sherbet scoops on top and drizzle on the rest. Sprinkle fresh raspberries on top and serve with pride.

Something exotic: braised chicken with seafood over couscous or rice. About 8 to 10 minutes before chicken is done, add scrubbed clams and mussels to the pot. Cook until shells open.

Fork tines won't stick when you press them into rounds of cookie dough if you dip them in cinnamon or ginger first.

Splurge: There's no real substitute for certain foods like top-quality parmesan or sharp cheddar cheese, extra-virgin olive oil, real vanilla and the like. Use the best, even if you have to use less of it.

ADV Weight Loss Baffles Scientist!

WASHINGTON — A scientist at National Dietary Research was baffled at how successful a natural food tablet had become in helping overweight people lose weight. Dr. William Morris was baffled because the original chewable tablet formula was developed to help feed the world's undernourished people.

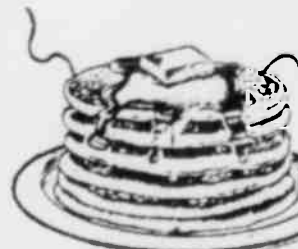

Why the original food formula helped some people lose weight is still a mystery. However, the formula has since been improved, and the new formula's weight loss potential is not a mystery. The fortified formula, called Food Source II (FS-II), is not a low calorie food but a powerful appetite blocker that can actually decrease calorie consumption while supplying essential nutrients.

So how can people lose weight with FS-II? Lots of weight! According to Dr. Morris it is the revolutionary FS-II diet plan that allows you to lose weight without giving up your favorite foods. With the FS-II Plan there are no forbidden foods and the special appetite control ingredient is one of the most effective available without a prescription.

Berkley-Brown Labs has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS-II. FS-II is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals.

Southern Girls Win Region Crown, To Compete For State 1A Title

By virtue of winning the Class 1A West Region girls basketball championship Saturday afternoon, the Southern High School varsity will make a return trip to the Class 1A Maryland State Tournament this weekend in Baltimore.

Coach Don Stemple's Rams coasted to a 72-47 win over Clear Spring in a regional semi-final game on Friday and then topped Westmar on Saturday, 52-39. The games were played at Northern High School, with the Rams going into the tournament as the top-seeded team.

The victories were the 16th and 17th of the season for the Rams, who now have a winning streak of 14 games.

The appearance in the state tournament will be the third for the Rams, as Coach Stemple's 1984 and 1985 teams, which featured former WVU star and professional player Jenny Hillen, won the regional title. Both of those teams lost in the state semi-finals.

While Emily Friend led the scoring in Friday's win over Clear Spring, the Rams received a special boost with the return of Carrie Newcomb, last season's Player of the Year who had been sidelined most of the season with injuries. Friend scored 20 points and grabbed a game-high 17 rebounds, while Newcomb came off the bench and hit 10 points.

Josey Coviello, Staci Kiser, and Alisa Rugg each finished with eight points.

The Rams controlled the contest from the early moments, moving out to an 18-10 lead by the end of the first period and stretching their advantage to 37-25 by halftime. They led 52-38 after three periods.

Clear Spring's Heather Alshire was the game's top scorer with 27 points, but Stemple was pleased with the defensive effort Coviello did against Alshire. "Josey forced a lot of turnovers from her, and even though she scored 27 points, that was significantly less than the 44 she scored against Beall," Stemple said.

Also reaching double figures for the Blazers was Tracy Bishop with 14 points.

Friend and Newcomb again paced the Rams on Saturday against second-seeded Westmar, as Friend pumped in 19 points and Newcomb recorded 13 points and 13 rebounds.

It was the rubber match between the Rams and Wildcats, as the two teams split their regular season meetings. The loss was only the fourth in 23 games for Westmar.

Superior defensive play and rebounding were the keys to the Rams' victory, according to Stemple, who was pleased with the way his team handled the area's leading scorer, Jill McGowan. McGowan was averaging over 18 points per contest and finished with 14, but she was held to just two baskets in the first half.

Canu Cutter scored 10 for the Wildcats, while Michelle Andrews, who scored 20 points in Westmar's win over Williamsport the previous day, was held to just one point.

Friend, a 5-9 sophomore, scored 13 of her 19 points in the first half and finished with a seven-for-11 effort from the floor. She had trouble at the foul line, as did all of the players, and converted only five of 11 shots. She also pulled down a dozen rebounds.

The Rams took their first lead of the game at the 2:50 mark of the first quarter when Friend hit an inside shot. They held a similar lead, 12-10, at the end of the period.

Friend and Newcomb hit back-to-back lay-ups to start the second quarter, giving the Rams a 16-10 advantage. Angela Shafer's jumper with 18 seconds left in the period gave Southern a 25-17 halftime lead.

Southern was on top 35-26 at the end of the third period. Westmar cut the margin to six points (39-33) with a pair of follow-ups by McGowan with just under five minutes remaining, but Friend answered with another shot underneath to give Southern another eight-point advantage.

The Rams biggest lead was in the closing moments of the game, as lay-ups by Newcomb and Coviello made it 52-37.

"I really had another great game for us, and Carrie's presence on the floor really gives our team confidence," Stemple said. "But this was a total team effort. Everyone contributed."

The Rams will leave for Baltimore this afternoon, but practice for a few hours on the Allegany Community College floor before heading east. They will spend tonight in Catonsville and stay near BWI Airport Friday night.

They will play Joppatown in the state semifinals at 7 p.m. Friday. If they are victorious, they will then meet the winner of the Easton-Catoctin contest in the state title game at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Like the Rams, Joppatown has a 17-3 record and is led by 6-0 center Brandy Barnes and their two starting guards, the three of whom are averaging a combined 52 points.

Emily Friend 7-11 5-11 19, Carrie Newcomb 5-13 3-9 13, Josey Coviello 3-8 1-3 7, Angela Shafer 8-0-0 6, Aaron Buser 1-23-6 5, Alisa Rugg 1-4-0-2, Staci Kiser 0-0-0 1, 0. Totals: 20-46 12-30 52.

Westmar (39): Jill McGowan 7-17-0-14, Cami Cutter 3-11 4-8 10, Cory Lapey 2-8 2-6, Evie Morris 2-4 2-2 6, Brianne Nicol 1-1 0-0 2, Michelle Andrews 0-11-3 1, Totals: 15-52 9-19 39.

Three-point goals: none. Total fouls: Southern 21, Westmar 26. Fouled out: Friend (Southern), McGowan, Lapey, Morris (Westmar). Rebounds: Southern 46 (Newcomb 13, Friend 12), Westmar 34 (McGowan 11). Turnovers: Southern 20, Westmar 22.

RAMS GUNNING FOR STATE TITLE - The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team, coached by Don Stemple, will be among four teams vying this weekend in Baltimore for the Maryland State 1A Championship. The Rams earned a spot in the state semifinals this past week by defeating Clear Spring and Westmar to capture the bin 40 points per game. "Joppatown's players are bigger than ours and their team quickness is about the same as ours," Stemple said. "One advantage we believe we have is our bench strength. They don't have much depth."

"I really think this will be our toughest game," he said. "If we can get by Joppatown, then I think we have a real shot at the state title."

Stemple said that he saw Catoctin play this year and saw Easton in a game last

Garrett Women Eliminated From Tourney By Catamounts

An opportunity for the Garrett Community College women's basketball team to match the GCC men's team's capturing of the Region XX Division II crown was dashed Saturday afternoon when the Lakers dropped a 62-46 decision to Potomac State College in the tournament semi-finals.

Coach Dennis Gibson's team earned a spot in the semi-finals by defeating Anne Arundel CC on Friday, 73-66. The tournament was played at Frederick Community College.

Former Southern High standout Michele Duling led the Lakers in their win over Anne Arundel, as she scored 25 points.

The Lakers took control of the game early, as they moved out to a 16-4 lead in the first six minutes. Duling accounted for seven of those points, while Dawna Friend netted five.

Anne Arundel chipped away at GCC's lead, however.

Garrett CC (73): Keisha Slayton 3-0-0 6, Sue Schoonover 2-1-3 5, Wanda Swartzwelder 4-2-2 10, Dawn DeShong 2-0-4, Care Wachter 1-0-0 2, Dawna Friend 5-0-0 11, Macey LaRue 1-7-8 10, Michelle Duling 8-6-25. Totals: 26-16-19 73.

NEWS RELEASE

Researcher says: Not all aminophylline creams are alike.

The story has been on all the networks and made headlines in virtually all American newspapers. Almost everyone has read or heard about the amazing discovery of Aminophylline cream applied to the thighs. But just adding aminophylline to any cream will not guarantee thinner looking thighs.

Doctor's Cellulite Cream with Aminophylline is a unique formulation that smooths the appearance of dimpled skin, just by rubbing it on the thighs or other areas of the body.

Doctor's Cellulite Cream is the result of researchers bringing together various skills. Doctor's Cellulite Cream improves the appearance of skin to give it a smoother, more youthful look. It revitalizes the skin by means of contractile tension and contains an ingredient so rare it must be made to order and kept under refrigeration until being formulated into the cream. Doctor's Cellulite Cream is the standard by which all other aminophylline thigh creams will be judged.

MSA Schedules Soccer Camp For August 1-6

The Mountaintop Soccer Association has contracted with North American Soccer Camps, Inc., to hold a camp this summer in Garrett County.

The camp will operate the week of August 1 through 5. This date was selected in the hope that it will give local players a head start on their fall season preparation. Assuming sufficient enrollment, camps will be held in both the southern and northern regions of the county. Specific locations have not yet been finalized.

The camp will run for three hours daily with an hour and a half closing session scheduled for the morning of the final day. Depending upon enrollment, it may be possible to conduct both a morning and an evening session to accommodate different schedules. The cost will be $88 per camper with a $5 discount for the first sibling and a $10 discount for each additional child from the same family. The price also includes a camp shirt and a hand stitched soccer ball.

MSA President Carole Ann Lovett stated, "I am very excited about the prospects of what this camp will offer to our area and regional soccer players."

NASC conducts more than 500 camps annually throughout the U.S. Last year more than 30,000 children participate in the week-long program. The company was founded in 1969 and provides A and B level licensed coaches flown in each summer from England to serve as instructors. Children between the ages of 4 and 18 may participate. Martin Banc, regional manager, recently gave a presentation to the MSA which was entertaining and well received by the group, according to Mrs. Lovett.

Anyone interested in registering for the camp or receiving more information should contact Karen Spirk, camp coordinator, at 387-8039.

Boat Registrations, Fishing Licenses Now Available

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., advises that it is time to renew boat registrations and fishing licenses.

"Avoid the long lines that can develop later in the spring and renew your boat registration early," Dr. Brown suggests.

Boating registrations can be obtained by mailing or taking renewal application to one of the DNR Regional Service Centers, which are located in Annapolis, Bel Air, Centerville, Cumberland, Prince Frederick and Salisbury. DNR staff at these locations can help with inquiries during regular working hours, from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Brown also suggests citizens contact one of the many sport license agents across the state where 1994 fishing licenses can now be purchased.

MORE TROPHIES have been earned by members of the Southern Mat Club, who traveled to Smithsfield, Pa., Feb. 26 to participate in the Tri-Valley Junior Wrestling Tournament, an event which involved over 400 youth wrestlers. The Southern Mat Club placed second as a team and brought home six individual first place trophies, one second place, and one fourth place. Rams Lose Bid For Maryland Title In Williamsport Slowdown

An opportunity to play for the Maryland State 1A boys' basketball championship was lost by the Southern High School Rams in an unusual regional title game Saturday against Williamsport.

The Rams, who earned a spot in the West Region championship contest by edging cross-county foe Northern Friday evening, Northern (52) Rob Speicher 5 04 12, Jon Hinebaugh 7 0-14, Chris Wright 11-2 3, Tim Hinebaugh 4 1-4 9, Alan Sebold 4 24 10, Billy Youkin 2 0-4. Totals: 23 49 52.

Brian Reams 5 1-6 11, Mark Elliott 6 44 17, Joe Tuomisto 10-12, Brian Carlson 33-69, Jeremy Sanders 37-9 13, Doug Copeland 10-02. Totals: 18 15-26 54.

Three point goals: Southern 1 (Elliott), Northern 2 (Speicher, 2). Total fouls: Southern 13, Northern 20. Fouled out: Sebold, Youkin (Northern). Northern 4 22 37 52 Southern 13 17 37 54

54-52, were on the short end of a 32-27 slowdown game with the Williamsport Wildcats. The loss concluded the season for Coach Tom Bosley and the Rams, who finished with an overall mark of 15-8.

The semi-final game with the Northern Huskies, played at Fort Hill High School in Cumberland, was the fourth contest between the two teams this season, and was the third of those games that came right down to the wire and could have gone either way.

The Huskies won the first game between the two Garrett teams back in December by a one-point margin and the Rams won the next two, one in double overtime and the other by 11 points. The fourth contest could have gone to the Huskies at the buzzer, but Jon Hinebaugh's three-point shot rattled out of the hoop and the Huskies' winning season (16-6) came to an end.

The win was a costly one for the Rams, however, as guard Brian Reams left the contest with an injured hand. Already out of the line-up was starting forward Mark Dawson, the team's leading scorer and rebounder, who sprained an ankle Thursday afternoon, and reserve Rich Skipper. None of the three was able to play in the title game against Williamsport.

In the first quarter it appeared that the Rams might have an easy evening, as they moved out to a 13-4 lead behind a nine-point effort by Mark Elliott. The Huskies had trouble finding the mark, hitting just two of 11 shots from the floor.

But then the Rams' shooting went cold in the second period, as they managed to convert just one of 11 attempts, and the Huskies responded with a 16-2 run to give Northern a 22-17 halftime lead. Hinebaugh and Alan Sebold combined for 14 of those points for the Huskies.

The Rams regained the momentum in the third period and surged for 13 points while the Huskies recorded only four. Jeremy Sanders scored seven of his 13 points during that stretch to give the Rams a 30-26 lead with about five minutes remaining in the period. The Huskies came back again, however, and the score was knotted at 37-37 when the period ended.

The Rams opened the fourth quarter with a 12-2 run behind three lay-ups by Reams. Then the Huskies responded with a 13-5 spurt, setting the stage for Hinebaugh's final shot.

Elliott paced the Rams in scoring with 17 points, while Sanders finished with 13 and Elliott netted 11.

Hinebaugh pumped in 14 points to lead the Huskies, while senior point guard Rob Speicher, who spearheaded the fourth quarter surge by scoring the Huskies' last eight points, finished with 12 points. Sebold chipped in with 10 points.

"As usual, Northern played us very tough," stated Tom Bosley. "We were just glad to come out of there with a win."

"I'm very proud of how our team played tonight," said Northern Coach Harv Speicher. "We played extremely hard and it was one of the few times that we haven't been able to pull out a tight game at the end."

With three key players out of the line-up, Bosley decided that the only realistic chance his team had against Williamsport in Saturday's final was turning the game into a defensive contest, and the strategy nearly worked against the bigger, stronger Wildcats.

The Rams played an outstanding first half and held leads of 9-4 and 21-12 at the end of the first and second quarters. The nine-point edge at halftime was the largest lead of the evening for the Rams, as a 15-foot jumper at the buzzer by Sanders concluded the first half.

The Rams hit 10 of 18 from the floor in the first half, with a six-for-eight effort in the second quarter, and also out-rebounded the taller Wildcats, 12-8.

Meanwhile, Williamsport connected on only six of 21 shots in the first half, but more aggressive defense in the third period forced seven costly turnovers by the Rams and helped the Williamsport (32)

STATE CHAMPS RECEIVE BANNER - The Southern High School boys' cross country team was presented with a banner - at long last - to commemorate the team's victory this past fall in the Maryland State 1-A Cross-Country Championships. The banner proclaiming the team's accomplishment was presented by the Garrett County Board of Education on Tuesday. This win for the runners was historic, as no other team of any kind at Southern has ever won a state championship. Coach Carl Booth said the secret to the team's success was the bond between all the members. "In my 33 years of experience, I have never worked with such a close group of kids," Booth said. "They pulled for each other every step of the way." The coach said he is hopeful for another successful season this year, as only 17 of the 22-member team will graduate this

NASTAR Open Set Saturday At Wisp Area

WISP Ski Area will be a part of the fourth annual Coca Cola Jr. NASTAR (National Standard Race) Open, according to NASTAR Commissioner Bob Beattie. The Jr. NASTAR Open, a program which grants young ski racers an opportunity to showcase their talent for the U.S. Ski Team, will take place at 30 ski areas nationwide. WISP will host its race this Saturday, March 12.

A joint venture between the U.S. Ski Team's development office and Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR, the Jr. NASTAR Open allows junior racers across the country to have their best ski racing times sent to the U.S. Ski Team for review. Skiers under 21 years of age are invited to take part in the Jr. NASTAR Open. All participants will receive a certificate of achievement signed by Beattie and Paul Major, head coach and director of the U.S. Ski Team's alpine programs.

"All Jr. NASTAR racers are given the opportunity to audition in a sense," says Beattie, a former coach of the Olympic and U.S. Ski Teams. "Kids with outstanding results may be asked to take part in U.S. Ski Association sanctioned events," he said.

Race results will be calculated using the NASTAR handicapping system, which compares a racer's time to that of the fastest member of the U.S. Ski Team. A handicap is the percentage difference between the two times.

LOCAL SKIERS EARN TROPHIES - Two Garrett County skiers fared well in a three-day racing derby hosted by the Pennsylvania Racing Association Feb. 25-27 at Seven Springs Resort. Skiers from a five-state area participated. Beau Gibson (left), 12-year-old son of Jim and Kathy Gibson, Deep Creek Lake, won first place in the Junior IV Division, which entitled him to a spot on the regional team which will attend a Future Stars camp at Lake Placid, N.Y. David Ehringer, 14, son of George and Chris Ehringer, Moon Township, Pa., and Deep Creek Lake, placed second in the Junior III Division, which placed him on a seven-member team that will attend the 1994 Junior Olympics at Hunter Mountain, N.Y., this weekend. Both racers train at the Wisp Ski Area.

good job of protecting the ball, as they committed only six turnovers, with just one in the second half.

Williamsport's John Hall was the only player who did reach the double-figure plateau, as he scored 14 points. Fuss finished with eight points.

The Rams led in rebounding, 19-16, with Copeland pulling down seven. Hall grabbed seven for the Wildcats. Carlson had three of Southern's four blocked shots.

This was the third regional title for the Wildcats in the last four years.

Southern High School Welcomes 15 Students In French Exchange

For the fourth time since 1988, Southern Garrett High School and the local community have welcomed a visiting student group from the Lycée Alain René Lesage (a high school) in Vannes, France. This exchange program, approved by the local education board and organized through the School Partners Abroad Program of the Council on International Education Exchange in New York, has enabled over 60 French students and over 30 American students to experience daily life in the partner communities and countries.

Madame Janine Busson, an English teacher of the Lycée Lesage, and Lowell Leitzel, French teacher at Southern High, have been the school coordinators and group leaders for each of these four exchanges. Madame Busson is also visiting the county. All the visitors are being housed by local families for the length of their nearly three-week stay.

After a wearisome trip from southern Brittany, which Leitzel said added up to nearly 30 hours of travel time, the students and Madame Busson arrived in Oakland in the early hours of Thursday, Feb. 24. After a day of rest, the students experienced life in Garrett County first-hand with a two-hour delay on their first day of school.

The host families organized a welcome banquet for the group on Sunday, Feb. 27. The guests at the event included Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Jerome Ryscavage, Garrett County Education Board President Beverly Murphy, Garrett County Commissioner Brenda Butcher, Southern Principal Arthur Refosco, Southern Student Council President Tatum Shomo, and Mary Lou Stemple, administrative assistant to Delegate George Edwards.

After being introduced and presented with welcoming gifts, the French group and others in attendance were entertained by local magician Ben Sincell.

Other activities planned for the visitors during their stay in Oakland have included visits to other county schools, a day-long trip to Washington, D.C., skiing at the Wisp, line dancing at Brenda's Body Shop, and a visit to the Amish community in Pleasant Valley. A farewell party is scheduled to take place at the Blakeslee community building.

When asked about their impressions of the United States, some of the responses were as follows:

"The American accent and certain vocabulary words are difficult to understand," (Leitzel explained that students in France learn English with a British accent and British vocabulary.)

"Classes in the American schools are cool and relaxed - less stressful than in France."

"Americans are very patriotic and religious, in general."

"Americans are very hospitable, welcoming their guests with open arms, doing the maximum to allow their guests to feel at ease."

"The American schools are kept clean."

"The excursions during our stay have been interesting; the stay in Garrett County has been very well organized."

A few local American students commented on the exchange experience, mostly noting that communicating with natural-speaking French people is much more difficult than speaking it in class.

"Sometimes when I am in a group of them, they are very difficult to understand. When that happens, I just

"These past two weeks have been very educational and exciting," said Julie Eiswert, tenth grader. "I thought I understood French pretty well, but I find that when the French students speak to each other, it's like they are speaking gibberish. . . . I believe I will remember this experience for years to come."

Tenth-grader Jennifer Shillingburg said she has learned a lot about French culture and language, but that the "best part" is the many friendships she has made during the exchange experience.

Local hosts for the visitors include Julie Bruckey, Jennifer Berkeridge, Julie Eiswert, Kelly Avona, Natalie Wolf, Josh Teets, Jaime Jacoby, Kerri Vanderbilt, Sarah Paugh, Jennifer Wilson, Jason Miller, Jenny Finkel, Abby Nichols, Avery Johnson, Jennifer Shillingburg, and Ms. Charlotte Bock.

The group will depart for their return trip to France on March 15. From March 31 until April 21, eight students from Northern and Southern will participate in the second half of the exchange program in France, accompanied by Leitzel. Those taking part in the trip will include Jennifer Berkeridge, Julie Bruckey, Jaime Jacoby, Teresa Knox, Jason Miller, Jennifer Panther, Christina Peck, and Jennifer Wilson.

The local group will spend the three weeks with host families in Vannes. They will attend classes at the Lycée Lesage and will visit the surrounding area, and the final three days of their stay will be spent in Paris.

To the Editor: As president of AAUW (American Association University Women)-Garrett Branch, I would like to commend our schools for adding teachers assigned to teach mathematics to first through fifth graders. This is fabulous support for our future engineers, scientists, forensic policemen, medical doctors, dentists, veterinarians, business mathematicians, statisticians, epidemiologists, and all who use many math skills in their professions. It will help our kids to learn so many more applications of mathematics—one of the 3 R's—Rithmetic. It will help our kids learn how to be better consumers—such as answering quickly questions like, "What is 20, 30, 40 percent off a particular item they might like to buy in the store." It will help our kids be better workers in our businesses when they get to the working age.

Mathematics is one of the basic foundations in education. Congratulations for supporting and encouraging its deeper development in the grades that are the building blocks of middle school and high school.

Sincerely,
Janet K. Archer, President
AAUW-Garrett Branch
To the Editor:
The Civic Club of Oakland would like to invite everyone to our second celebration of Garrett County, which will be held on Saturday, May 14, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Garrett Community College. The day-long program called "Enjoy Yesterday - A Heritage Festival" will feature a variety of art, music, dance, educational, culinary and historical exhibits, demonstrations, and classes. Craft activities for children will also be provided so that the entire family can take part in the celebration. Ten organizations and many Garrett County residents are working with the Civic Club in the planning and presentation of this event. We still need additional memorabilia and request that persons who have old educational materials, school programs or report cards, old photographs, postcards, and other similar items call our Civic Club president, Martha Jachowski, at 387-6659 if they would be willing to loan them for exhibition.

We hope to see everyone on Saturday, May 14, and will provide more information in weeks to come.

Northern Middle Students "Go For The Gold" In Olympic Style

Seventh graders at Northern Middle School are currently participating in the "Going for the Gold" Olympic unit which entails a combination of effort among all subject area teachers who are providing "cross-curricular" Olympic activities. The students are working on projects that cover all areas of Olympic competition, history, and notable persons, as well as learning the scientific properties and formulas that play a large part in such activities.

Students researched former Olympic stars and presented oral reports about them in language arts classes. The reports, given in Nancy Frank's class, were done in "talk-show" style and were video-taped.

The math classes incorporated a statistics unit while conducting daily Olympic events. Teacher Bonnie Langan has refereed such events as the left-handed sponge squeeze, penny hockey, paperball basket throw, egg grab, cottonball throw, and the biggest foot contest.

Students in Doris Cooper's class participated in language and math activities involving the Olympics. The most popular class activities involved becoming 1994 "Olympic" stars and writing to students in Vingar School in Norway.

Students also staged their own mini-Olympics which included biathlon, bobsled, and cross country events.

Scores were recorded and from that data students determined the mean, median, and mode of the races. Students also did three types of graphing with the data. The gold medal male winner in these events was Chad Platter, and the female gold medalist was Laryna Wilkens.

Northern High School students Brad Williams and Chris Wright helped out with the mini-Olympics.

Students studied the geography of Norway and the culture of its people in Ed Andrew's social studies class. In Linda Mosser's science class, students studied the human muscular and skeletal systems as they related to participants in the Olympic Games. The culminating student activity was the production of a training manual for a specific Olympian, with the goal of understanding the underlying science.

Many of the activities were "open-ended" and involved problem-solving skills in which students had to apply what they have learned to new situations.

OLYMPIC ACTIVITIES AT NMS - Students at Northern Middle School have been combining research of Olympic history with the application of new skills to other Olympic activities in a "cross-curricular" program called "Go for the Gold." Pictured above are students Angie Klotz, Jared Wilhelm, Jonathan Garlitz, and Hilarie Wampler as they present a "talk show" with several "Olympic stars" as part of a language arts project. Pictured below, left to right, are Scott MacLane, Misty Funk, and Brian Savage. They are shown as they work on projects involving the study of the human skeletal and muscular system. This project was in conjunction with the study of Olympic achievers and the physical shape in which they must remain to be winners. Several related activities and projects have been underway at Northern Middle. See story.

G.C. Forestry Board Meets

The Garrett County Forestry Board met March 7, at 6 p.m. in the D.N.R. office at Mt. Nebo. The Board opened its meeting with a report on the 1994 winter meeting of the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards in Annapolis. Karin Miller, a Garrett County Forestry Board member, and Wade Dorsey, project forester, attended the meeting in Annapolis on February 26.

She represented Garrett County in several sessions which included membership recruitment, strategic planning, and a forest legislation review. Eric Schwaab, Director of the Maryland Forest Service gave a presentation on the goals of the MD Forest Service. The keynote speaker was Keith Argow, President of the National Woodland Owners Association, whose talk dealt with the effects of regulation on the private woodland owner. Miller reported the Association discussed membership recruitment, strategic planning, and a forest legislation review.

Jon Chapman, D.N.R. forest planner, and western region coordinator for the Forest Conservation Act, spoke to the Forestry Board members on the Forest Conservation Act, and how it will effect Garrett County.

The Forest Conservation Act of 1991 was enacted to protect the forests of Maryland, maximizing the benefits of forest land to development. Garrett and Allegany counties were exempted from the Forest Conservation Act because the forest land in these counties exceeds the 200,000-acre level. The Forest Conservation Act of 1991 will only affect projects in Garrett County on state land or where state funding is used.

The Forestry Board discussed plans for Arbor Day and decided that all Arbor Day activities will be held in the middle of the month because of the heavy snow cover still on the ground.

Plans are also underway for the 1994 School Reforestation Project also. All schools that participated in the program last year were sent information on this year's program.

Hospice To Hold Smoke-Free Bingo

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., has announced it will hold the first "smoke-free" bingo in Oakland.

Wayne Johnson, president of the Hospice Board of Directors, explained, "We have had requests to hold a smoke-free bingo, and because a large number of our terminally ill patients have cancer, we have decided to take the lead and hold the first one in Oakland."

The Knights of Columbus, Council #1771, will sponsor the Bingo at St. Peter's Catholic Church Social Hall on Wednesday, March 23. Doors open at 5 p.m., with early bird at 6:30 p.m. There will be a admission fee and five cards will cost $1. Refreshments will be available. All proceeds will go to Hospice of Garrett County.

Dr. Margaret Kaiser, medical director for Hospice, stated, "Because we care about your health, this event will be smoke-free."

snow days.

"It's not like Garrett County is the only one this year," Shaffer said. "Every county in the state is dealing with this issue, and the state board knows that."

However, Ryscavage and Coviello said they were not in favor of waiving days because they both felt that the 180-day requirement is important for students.

"I seriously question simply wiping three days off the slate," Coviello said.

"We have to decide what is best - instructionally - for our students," the superintendent said. "And I have to admit that I am looking at dollar bills, too."

Ryscavage then recommended that the school year be set to end on June 17, and in light of any further canceled days (one of which occurred Wednesday), the board would seek a waiver on the Easter Monday holiday. If any more days are missed, then the board would look at Memorial Day as a possibility. The board voted unanimously in favor of the recommendation.

The lack of air conditioning in most of the county's schools was one concern voiced by a parent at the meeting, but while board members expressed their understanding of the situation, they also maintained that the chosen option was the most favorable.

Four-Period Day

A new daily schedule will be tested at Southern High School next school year as the education board voted to accept on a pilot basis a four-period day for that school. In a recent poll, about 72% of the school faculty was in favor of the change, and the students have also expressed interest in the innovation.

The arrangement for the four-period day schedule will be similar to college semesters wherein in the students will complete a class in one semester. For example, students will now be able to take French I in the fall semester, and then French II in the spring semester. The four class periods will last 90 minutes each, as opposed to the current seven 50-minute sessions. Students will, in one year, have eight completed courses instead of the current seven. This will leave room for more electives, and the lengthened

On Dean's List

Jessica Christine Teets, daughter of Charlie and Sharon Teets, Oakland, was among those students at the University of Maryland, College Park, named to the dean's list for the fall 1993 semester, according to Irwin L. Goldstein, dean of the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences.

Miss Teets, a freshman and a 1993 graduate of Southern High School, is a pre-law student, majoring in government and politics.

In order to be included on the dean's list at the University of Maryland, a student must achieve a grade point average of at least 3.5 on a 4.0 scale.

Parks Seek

Manown explained that funds for public programs originate from the state general fund, where most of the deepest cuts have taken place over the past few years. "Programming has become very big at the Deep Creek Lake State Park, with an aggressive and energetic naturalist on duty, and family-oriented programs that benefit local citizens."

Deep Creek Lake Manager Paul Durham reported that local parks have been participating in the corporate sponsorship trend for about a year, and cited several examples of local business support of the parks in exchange for advertising, such as the printing of lake brochures by Johnny's Bait House; hiking trail brochures by High Mountain Sports; and the donation of a wave runner by All Seasons Sports for use in personal watercraft safety classes and the park's annual "Sun Splash" event for graduating seniors. He added that several marinas have donated or discounted boats for use in lake ecology tours.

"I don't see it as commercialism," he said. "It's a partnership that allows us to expand recreational programs which we might not be able to afford otherwise."

Regionally, Rocky Gap State Park was able to waive admission fees to the park last year (and will likely do so again this year) because of money from businesses and the non-profit Rocky Gap Foundation. That reportedly resulted in the park seeing an increase of 200,000 visitors last summer.

OAKLAND POLICE JOINS TASK FORCE - The Oakland mayor and town council recently voted unanimously to enter an agreement with the Maryland State Police that would allow the Oakland City Police Department to become an integral part of a drug task force. The agreement is designed to combine the powers and resources of the two law enforcement agencies, thereby providing a higher quality of service for Oakland residents and those living in the surrounding area. The drug task force unit will focus energies toward detecting violations of the Maryland Controlled Dangerous Substance Act. Pictured above seated is Mayor McCain as he signs the agreement. Standing, left to right, are Lieutenant C. Thomas Bowers, Maryland State Police Bureau of Drug Enforcement, and John K. Sines, Oakland City Police Chief.

class period will allow students more time to apply learned skills. This arrangement will enhance the school's Technology Education program, which will be in progress next year.

Over the course of their high school careers, students will earn 32 credits as opposed to 28 earned now. The school will apparently also offer for the first time advanced placement courses, which can be counted as college credit.

The change will be disruptive in a few areas. Attendance policies will have to be reviewed, Ryscavage said, because one missed school day will in essence be far more costly, as the class time will be nearly doubled. This will also interfere with the school's foreign exchange program, as students traditionally leave for two to three weeks, which would - in the four-period set-up - equal out to four to six weeks.

However, Lowell Iritzel, French teacher at Southern, attended the board meeting and said he still supported the plan because other arrangements could be looked into for the program.

The new schedule will be closely monitored, Ryscavage said.

"I expect a lot of bumps in the first year," he commented.

The proposal passed 4-0, with Charlotte Schold choosing not to vote.

Graduation Date

Garrett County high school seniors will graduate on June 12 by vote of the education board. The date had historically been set months before March, but because of concerns about snow days and other issues, the board voted some months ago to wait until this month to make the decision.

In past years, the date would be set early, and no matter how many days the seniors had missed because of weather, the date would stand. Last year, seniors graduated nearly two weeks before the end of the school year. The issue was brought to the board's attention last fall, and the decision was made at that time to wait for the scheduling.

Ryscavage recommended to the board that graduation take place on June 19. Board members were not agreeable to this idea, however, because school would be out and the principals of the high schools, who must prepare for the exercises, would be without the full custodial staff and perhaps faculty. Hannah Sincell then made the motion that commencement be June 12, and the board members voted in favor of the date.

Senior Service Line

IS AGING A DISEASE? Of course, not. It's no more a disease than childbirth. Yet, for generations, the medical community has viewed these conditions as something that is somehow out of synch with what they considered good health.

Women have been largely successful in getting doctors to see childbirth as a normal, natural aspect of living. But so far, seniors have been less successful in persuading the medical community that getting older is not a disease but rather, a normal, natural part of the total experience of life.

While some doctors are beginning to shift their focus, many people believe that there is still a great deal of work to be done to convert the medical profession from seeing aging as something to be fought as if it were a plague.

The fact is, many of the diseases usually associated with getting older also occur in younger people, and that includes various cancers, cardiovascular problems, mental problems, etc. As a matter of fact, many seniors who have adapted healthier lifestyles in recent years, often turn out to have healthier bodies and minds than many younger folks.

As for changing the attitudes of the medical community about aging, I like what Betty Friedan, author of "The Feminine Mystique" and her more recent book, "The Fountain of Age," has to say. The essential question, Ms. Friedan points out, "should not be how to diagnose and cure the elderly, but how to maximize human function so that people stay in control of their lives."

WHOM CAN WE TRUST? Apparently, one of the country's largest and most respected insurance companies showed itself unable to police its agents in what is turning out to be a shocking example of consumer exploitation. It seems this company's agents were able to get away with providing misleading or, at times, incomplete information to persuade people to buy life insurance as retirement plans and investments without describing the potential pitfalls of such investments.

While the company itself was not directly involved, failing to oversee their agents in such situations has alarmed many state insurance regulators who are concerned that such improper sales practices could lead to a call for a federal insurance regulator.

Home Tips

LONG HAIR — My 8-year-old daughter has very long hair. As a result, every morning it was a battle to brush the knots out of her hair. I have found a great solution for this. Every night after her shower, we comb out her hair and braid it. There are no knots to comb out in the morning.

Because her hair is straight, one large braid will give her hair a lot of body when it dries. If she wants a kinky look, I will put it up in several braids. This has saved both of us a lot of headaches! Maria Y., Sandwich, Mass.

CREATE YOUR OWN SCENES — For those people who collect those lighted Christmas villages, here are some ideas to help complete a town scene.

Batting makes a nice base of "snow." A book or box can be used under it to make a hill, and you can sprinkle glitter over the batting so it will sparkle.

A mirror can be a frozen pond. Place a few stones at the edges to complete the look. Also, pebbles can make walkways.

Small sticks can be glued together with white household glue (it dries clear) to make a stack of firewood for the outside one of the houses. Vicki T., Cairo, Ill.

WICKER CARE — Wicker furniture and baskets don't wear out as fast as they dry out. Give them a good wetting with the garden hose every year or so and they will last longer. Kelliann M., Ft. Myers, Fla.

Q. My light blue pottery mixing bowl has geometric decorations around the wide rim. The top and bottom of the rim are unglazed. It is 10 1/2 inches across. How was it used? Why the unglazed parts? When was it made?

A. Pottery mixing bowls have had little change in shape through the years. Early bowls were made by hand using a clay that was not as white as the one used for dinnerware. These bowls were dipped in a glaze, and if they were decorated, they had just an added stripe or a sponged design.

The wide protruding rim that looks like an extra piece added to the bowl was a popular idea by the 1920s. The thick rim made the bowl stronger and not as easy to chip. The bowls were made in molds and not hand thrown. Bowls of decreasing sizes were made to nest inside each other, with each rim resting on an unglazed part of the next bowl.

A recent mail-order catalog ad suggests that the rough unglazed pottery was used to sharpen knives. However, that was not the original purpose of the bowls, which had many uses in the days of cooking from scratch. A 10 1/2-inch bowl might have held bread dough while it was rising near the stove. All of the bowls were used for chopping, mixing and storing.

Q. Many years ago, we were given a Coca-Cola door handle. A plastic Coca-Cola bottle forms the handle, which is suspended from a red metal mounting with the white letters, "Have a Coke!" It is eight inches overall; the bottle is six inches. It is marked "Milton Strum & Co., Chicago 10, Illinois." Value? Age?

A. Your door pull dates back to the 1940s or 1950s. It is worth about $75.

Q. My old greenish-blue fruit jar has a glass cover that Grandma sealed with wax. The barrel-shaped jar has raised letters on the bottom that say "Glass Mfg. Co. 3 Cohansey Pat. MCH-20-77." A. The Cohansey Glass Manufacturing Co. of Philadelphia made many fruit jars in the late 19th century. Yours is a rare type worth $100 to $125 in bluish green.

Q. I inherited a pewter communion flagon that is stamped on the bottom with the name R. Dunham. How old is it? I have not been able to find out about American pewter makers.

A. Rufus Dunham made pewter in Westbrook, Maine, from 1837 to 1861.

Household Help

Q. I have a 1971 mobile home and have a chip in my sink. I need to know whether it can be repaired. I've tried to match the paint, but can't get the right color. The color is harvest gold and was used on a lot of appliances years ago. No one seems to have this paint in stock. I called the company that sold the appliances but they don't have the paint to match either.

If I remove the old sink, will a new one fit in its place? It has a metal ring around the sink and measures 17" by 32". Should I use the metal ring on the newly-purchased sink?

A. It is more than likely that you won't be able to match the exact touch-up paint for your chipped sink. Considering the age of your mobile home, I could only guess that the sink is also as old. Besides matching the correct paint, you would also have to consider repairing the depth of the chip first. The repair job doesn't always hold and will eventually lift off the surface of the sink's base.

I would recommend your latter suggestion and go ahead and replace that old sink. Since you have already contacted the appliance manufacturing company, you should inquire about a replacement sink. They will be able to accommodate whatever style you select, including providing a kit with parts. Be sure to ask the company you are calling about all that is necessary in replacing your sink.

Q. I collect old milk bottles and would like some advice on how to get them "crystal" clean. Some of them continue to have a cloudy appearance, even after repeated washings with various detergents. Is there some kind of acid or solution that could clean them?

A. While I can't claim to be an expert on such things, I did consult one — my wife! She looked at your letter and came up with an answer instantly. I am happy to be able to pass it along.

Mix a solution of white vinegar with about a tablespoon of baking soda to each cup vinegar. Fill each bottle completely with the mixture and let it sit overnight. The next day, wash the bottles out thoroughly with clean water. This should remove all residue.

CRIME SOLVERS
The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information into four incidents of breaking and entering into summer residences. Sometime between Nov. 14 and Dec. 21, 1993, unknown persons broke into four summer homes in the Mountside Development. The culprits then stole items from the residences, including ski equipment, power tools, stereos, and televisions. All leads in this case have been exhausted. Any person with information about these or any other unsolved crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975 or the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 334-1911. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available for persons who provide tips that lead to arrests. Callers do not have to give their names nor appear in court.

COVER STORY

Hepburn and Quinn sparkle in 'Love'

Call it "The Lioness in Winter."

"This Can't Be Love," a romantic comedy premiering Sunday, March 13, on CBS, casts Oscar winners Katharine Hepburn and Anthony Quinn as fractious ex-lovers thrown together after 50 years apart.

Retired acting legend Marion Bennett (Hepburn) lives a quiet but active life with her housekeeper (Maxine Miller) and her new chauffeur, Grant Landis (Bateman). Initially shaken by Marion's predawn wake-up calls ("If you plan to keep this job, you will need a pair of pajamas," she says firmly, after she walks in on Grant in his skivvies), he soon finds himself responding to her indomitable zest for life.

Enter Sarah Wells (Gertz), a lovely but mysterious young woman who lures a "chance" encounter with Grant into dinner with Marion and him. Grant initially is smitten, but begins to get suspicious when Sarah delivers a thank-you note the next day — at 5 a.m., when Marion always rises. Those suspicions intensify when Sarah takes them both to a local museum, where they "coincidentally" run into Michael Reymann (Quinn), Marion's former co-star and, briefly, lover from long ago.

Although Grant and Marion won't find out the truth for quite awhile, viewers soon discover what's really afoot: Fallen on hard times, Michael has written a book spilling the beans about his liaison with Marion, which had been hushed up by the movie studios at the time. Sarah, cunning and career-driven, is a publishing associate who has come along to help corroborate anything that Marion happens to divulge.

After the four characters are stranded together by a cracked distributor cap, Marion and Michael begin to reminisce.

and the old embers start to glow. When she accidentally stumbles upon a draft of the book, however, Mount St. Marion blows sky high.

"This Can't Be Love" is directed by Anthony Harvey, who steered Hepburn to her Oscar for "The Lion in Winter," and the two films have in common the exhilarating spectacle of two larger-than-life characters (and performers) locked in combat. Quinn, not primarily known for his comedic skills, is extremely funny as a washed-up star (watch his face when he realizes that a waiter has recognized him, not from his films, but from a fire commercial).

Bateman, a very intelligent and engaging actor who should be a bigger star by now, has the charm and the presence to hold his own in his scenes with Marion. Even Gertz, who normally plays aloof, self-absorbed characters, manages to be quite touching in her latter scenes with Grant.

But make no mistake: This movie belongs to Kate the Great, who gives what is easily her most fully realized performance since 1981's "On Golden Pond." Not even her stooped posture and the stutter in her once-musical voice can diminish the tingle viewers will feel as they listen to Marion in love: "I feel 70 again," she sighs.

A&E salutes one of the true giants in the history of American television, Milton Berle, on "Biography," airing Tuesday, March 15.

The show illustrates Berle's genius and versatility from his days as a child performer alongside Charlie Chaplin to his legendary "Texaco Star Theater" that made him television's first superstar.

Also known as "Uncle Miltie" and "Mr. Television," Berle kept Americans glued to their television sets on Tuesdays throughout the 1950s.

SOAP TALK

Viewers question violence on soaps

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I would like to know if Carl Hutchins (Charles Keating) hair on "Another World" is real? —Theodore Banks, Sneads Ferry, N.C.

Dear Reader: A source close to the show says that it is indeed his real hair.

Dear Candace: I have watched "Guiding Light" for more than two years, and I disagree with someone who wrote in to you a few weeks ago.

The reader said "GL" had become too violent and that she was going to stop watching the show.

But if you really think about it, that is what today's TV watchers want to see.

The writers were very smart about the story line where George was terrorizing Fleni. It wasn't necessarily nice to watch, but I tuned in every day to see what was going to happen next, and that is what it is all about — Laurie Baker, Ashland, Ont., Canada.

Dear Reader: Violence on the soaps is a hot topic among television viewers.

Some viewers share your opinion that the violence makes the shows more exciting to watch, while others think that the violence is damaging to society.

"GL" has always been a show filled with intrigue, but not a lot of gratuitous violence. Most viewers (or at least the ones who have written to my column) seem to feel that the story line with George and Fleni was taken much further than it should have gone. There was no real reason for George to torture Fleni the way he did (George beat Fleni and threatened her child).

Of course "GL" isn't the only soap that has included violent story lines. "Days of Our Lives" had the pacifier vigilante. "Loving" had Dante keeping Curtis in a cruel prison and torturing him. There was Lorna's violent rape on "AW," and Todd's evil deeds on "One Life to Live." One of the most violent soaps on daytime television is "General Hospital."

Since the return of Luke and Laura there have been several explosions and murders.

As long as there is violence in life, there will be violence on soaps. However, it is the producers' responsibility to show us the consequences of violence for both the victim and aggressor. Violence should not be glorified.

BY SUZANNE GILL

A continent covered by an ice cap as much as 12,000 feet thick, with temperatures of 80 below zero and winds up to 100 mph (don't even think about the wind chill) might seem incapable of spring. Yet each year a brief thaw does descend on Earth's southernmost landmass.

In "Antarctica: Life in the Freezer," naturalist David Attenborough seizes the opportunity to visit the hardy birds and mammals that nest and breed along the coast and in the chilly waters of Antarctica. The three-hour program airs Monday, March 14, on TBS' "National Geographic Explorer."

The host of such a project has his work cut out for him. "We trained to spend 90 nights," Attenborough says, "to excavate ice caves and snow caves so that we would know how to survive if the helicopters failed to come (pick us up)." But he credits the film's camera crews with the greater part of valor, as in an underwater sequence with dangerous leopard seals.

"In the last half hour, you will see how the leopard seal came up and actually closed his jaws on the camera. The cameraman was using the camera to defend himself. Now that, I think, was a very brave act."

In another sequence, Attenborough shares the beach with a bull elephant seal and his harem — until the bull turns on him. "That's not very dangerous. I ought to be able to run as fast as an 8-ton elephant seal can sort of hummock its way across the beach."

"But if I tripped and fell, it's perfectly true that that huge animal would just go over you like a steamroller. And I don't suppose you would come out the back end of it in any condition to say anything much."

David Attenborough (at nest-side with an albatross) explores nature at its most resilient in "Antarctica: Life in the Freezer," Monday on TBS.

Q: I am a big fan of the actor who plays Ed on "Northern Exposure." Where can I write to him? Is he truly of Thlingit ancestry? —Mary McMullen, Atascadero, Calif.

A: Darren E. Burrows, who plays Ed Chigliak, is one-quarter Cherokee and one-quarter Apache. The Winfield, Kan., native landed his first professional acting job in the horror film "976-EVIL." Subsequent feature film credits include "Casualties of War," "Class of 1999" and "Cry Baby." He Q: Did Joe Lando of "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman" appear on "Guiding Light" a few months ago? My mother is convinced he did. I say the guy just looked like Lando. —A reader in Aiea, Hawaii.

A: Listen to your mother. Lando took a guest role on "Light" during his production hiatus on "Dr. Quinn."

Q: Why are so many TV programs reruns? I thought reruns were supposed to be shown during the summer only. Also, why aren't there any musicals? —Karen Del Proposto, Flint, Mich.

A: Karen, meet James L. Brooks, director of "I'll Try Anything," who just spent two anxious months turning what was intended to be a MAJOR Christmas musical release into a non-musical. Why, I hear you ask? According to industry reports: "The audience at test screenings became confused when the actors started singing." The last theatrical movie musical to make big money was 1976's "Grease," but Bette Midler's December "Gypsy" on CBS blew a hole in the ratings roof. Maybe more musical programs are on the way. If audiences stay "confused," I'm not hopeful. Reruns have been a non-summer phenomenon for more than a decade, since cable has brought a new source of programming. The networks schedule reruns during the holiday season (when you wrote), since viewers are likely to be shopping or party-hopping.

A: Yes, from Warner Home Video Inc., 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91522.

Q: Money is riding on this: Was Steve Erkel (Jaleel White) adopted by Sammy Davis Jr. and his wife? —M.J.G., Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada.

A: No. But you made my day.

Katharine Hepburn, Jason Bateman and Anthony Quinn (from left) star in "This Can't Be Love," Sunday on CBS. In the comedy, two aging actors rekindle an old romance.

Tim Roth stars in a new adaptation of Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness," which premieres Sunday, March 13, on TNT.

Roth portrays an ambitious young man who accepts a dangerous assignment — to hunt for an insane ivory trader who's hidden himself in the darkest jungles of Africa.

Nicholas Roeg directed this tale of savagery, horror and greed, which repeats on Tuesday, March 15, and Friday, March 18.

'Heart of Darkness' a triumph for TNT

BY SUZANNE GILL

"Heart of Darkness," debuting Sunday, March 13, on TNT, is worth this month's cable bill all by itself. This largely faithful adaptation of Joseph Conrad's best-known work, starring John Malkovich as the renegade ivory trader Kurtz, finally gives Conrad's story — a modern archetype of existential despair — the treatment it deserves. (Orson Welles and John Huston each intended to film it, while Francis Ford Coppola recast the story for "Apocalypse Now" without crediting Conrad.)

A former gunrunner and master seaman, Conrad traveled 1,000 miles up the Congo River in 1890 and published his novella nine years later. Tim Roth ("Vincent & Theo," "Murder in the Heartland") plays Conrad's alter ego, Marlow, who is sent by a colonial trading company to find Kurtz and report on his activities. James Fox, Isaiah De Bankole and supermodel Dean Cain (in a silent role) also star.

Director Nicholas Roeg exposes Kurtz's depravity without resorting to the sensational — a notable achievement in these violence-sensitive times. The film also stays out of the trap of preaching political correctness, letting the Europeans' actions speak for themselves. If there is a quibble to be had, it is over the change regarding Kurtz's last words, but this, too, works dramatically.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Try to avoid this
'Accidental Meeting'

BY JOHN HARMON

"Accidental Meeting," premieres on the USA Network on St. Patrick's Day, Thursday, March 17, but it certainly isn't blessed with the luck of the Irish.

A bland Linda Gray and an equally stagnant Linda Purl star as two women who'd love to be rid of the respective men in their lives — a two-timing husband and an unbearable boss. A car accident brings the two together where they jokingly throw out the idea of swapping murders. The only problem is one of them takes it all too seriously.

Gray is especially unconvincing as a murdering psychopath, while Purl's supposedly strong single mother character is timid and annoyingly naive. So go down to the pub and enjoy the St. Paddy's festivities, because if you stay in for this you'll get the short end of the shillelagh.

Elsewhere, however, there are some interesting St. Patrick's Day movies to choose from. TBS has a gem with "The Quiet Man," where the blarney boils over in what has to be one of the longest fight scenes in movie history. For young and old alike, the Disney Channel has the lovable "Darby O'Gill and the Little People" featuring a young and very green Sean Connery playing an Irishman whose accent has more than a hint of Scottish thrown in.

Fittingly, Showtime celebrates with "Leprechaun," a bad horror film that's always good for extracting a few screams of laughter. Even the grandeur of "The Movie

Linda Purl

Channel's "Far and Away" can't top Tom Cruise's attempt at an Irish brogue for pure entertainment value on St. Patrick's Day. To be fair, director Ron Howard's land-rush scene makes for exciting viewing and "real" Irishman Colm Meaney is great.

As for the rest of the week, TNT premieres "Heart of Darkness" on Sunday, March 13, with John Malkovich and Tim Roth. CBS teams Anthony Quinn and Katharine Hepburn in the premiere of "This Can't Be Love."

On Monday, March 14, Renee Estevez, Lisanne Falk and Carrie Michum star in the suspenseful "Dead Silence," airing on Fox.

NBC has "Eyes of Terror" on Friday, March 18, a sequel to "Visions of Murder," starring Barbara Eden as a psychic psychotherapist.

Showtime takes flight with the premiere of "The Birds II: Land's End" on Saturday, March 19, and follows it with the Alfred Hitchcock original "The Birds."

TIME OUT

March madness makes many mavens mirthful

BY JEFF PLASS

For fans of college basketball, two simple words define sheer, unadulterated pleasure: March madness.

This is the magical time when fans can relocate themselves to the sofa for entire afternoons of basketball bliss, sometimes watching as many as three games back to back.

And ESPN keeps these fanatics updated the entire way. From the team selections on Sunday, March 13, through the machine-gun single elimination "big dance" known as the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament, ESPN supplies viewers with all the relevant information on special NCAA tournament editions of "SportsCenter," beginning Thursday, March 17.

Former Notre Dame basketball coach Digger Phelps joins the ESPN crew for these shows. Phelps coached the Fighting Irish to a Final Four appearance in 1978, losing to a Duke team that went on to defeat at the hands of Kentucky.

The dog-eat-dog tournament has certainly produced its share of excitement over the years, and Phelps ponders the question of which was the most exciting NCAA championship ever.

He doesn't pause long before coming to 1983's North Carolina State squad. Its upset of powerhouse Houston redefined the term "Cinderella team."

Digger Phelps

"For me that would have to be the one," Phelps states. "They weren't supposed to be in the tournament. They got in it. They weren't supposed to lose. They weren't supposed to win. They won. That's the one. I think that most people would reflect on as the most exciting final."

And who does Phelps like in this year's tournament?

"I just love Arkansas," he says. "Locally, Arkansas is the team to beat. They've got a great backcourt. They just really play hard and keep coming at you. They're really well-coached defensively."

Anybody else?

"I still like Temple. People forget that they've been to three final eight in the last six years. I really like Michigan. The way they played against Indiana. I can see Michigan getting right back. And I think North Carolina, just because of Dean Smith and fact that they won it last year."

Regardless of who winds up wearing this year's crown, college basketball fans can expect to see plenty of slapping, jamming excitement in the month ahead. And ESPN makes sure they are kept on top of it all.

Bartlett Aims To Cut Pork From Earthquake Bill

Sixth District Congressman Roscoe Bartlett has signed on as an original co-sponsor to a bill that would remove the $33 million worth of "pork" from the recently passed "Earthquake Relief" legislation intended to help victims of the recent California earthquake.

"Unfortunately, Congress used the tragedy in California as an excuse to waste more of the taxpayers' dollars on pork projects," said Bartlett. "It's a disgrace that Congress passed earthquake aid in this fashion, and I intend to end this type of waste and abuse."

Tucked into the "emergency supplemental" bill passed by Congress was the following: $20,000,000 to add 500 employees at the FBI fingerprint facility in West Virginia. (This money was unauthorized by Congress); $1,500,000 to secure the Savannah, a commercial ship now in South Carolina, to convert to a maritime museum. (The money was unauthorized by Congress); $10,000,000 to design the James A. Farley Post Office in New York City for use as a train station and commercial center. (Not only unauthorized, 1992 authorization says "no federal funds" are to be used); and $1,300,000 redesignating a HUD special purpose grant to go to Hawaiian sugar mill communities.

Said Bartlett of the emergency supplemental bill, "When the earthquake bill came up for a vote, we were assured that the bill was 'clean' and that the funding in the bill was of an emergency nature. Congress turned this emergency into a farce and took advantage, yet again, of the American taxpayer. I'm doing my part to rectify this insult."

On Dean's List

Angela Marie Lewis, daughter of Andy and Shirley Lewis, Oakland, has been named to the dean's list at Frostburg State University for the fall semester of the 1993-94 academic year.

Miss Lewis is a senior at FSU, majoring in business administration with a concentration in marketing. She plans to graduate in May of this year.

Students at FSU must earn a 3.40 or better grade point average to be named to the dean's list.

Miss Western Maryland Event Set For Mar. 19

Several contestants from Washington, Allegany, and Garrett counties will compete for the title of Miss Western Maryland on Saturday, March 19, at the Hancock High School. The theme this year will be "Boot Scootin' Saturday Night." The program will begin at 7 p.m.

Kimberly Grimm Weimer, Miss Maryland 1990, will serve as mistress of ceremonies. Ms. Vicki Shaw Anderson and the Tri-State Bootkickers will be performing, along with the reigning Miss Western Maryland, Michelle Finn.

The winner will represent Western Maryland at the 1994 Miss Maryland Scholarship Pageant, to be held June 23-25 at the Maryland Theater in Hagerstown. The new Miss Maryland will then represent the State of Maryland at the 1994 Miss America Pageant in September in Atlantic City.

McDonald's, ALA Support Family Reading Program

McDonald's Restaurants has joined forces with the American Library Association (ALA) for the second consecutive year to encourage children and adults to read together through its 1994 national reading club program, "Reading is a Magic Trip." The program is based on "The Magic School Bus," an award-winning series of children's science books, which will air as an animated television series on PBS in September 1994.

McDonald's and the ALA has provided 16,000 U.S. public libraries with a free reading club starter kit, including posters, reading logs, bookmarks, certificates, and stickers. Also, 77,000 elementary and middle school libraries received a "Reading is a Magic Trip" theme poster. Children who participate in "Reading is a Magic Trip" at their library will be given their own reading log to record the title of books they have read and shared. After successfully completing the program, they will be awarded a "Magic Trip" certificate.

McDonald's has been supporting family reading for many years with such programs as Ronald McDonald performing his "Bookin' with Ronald" show at schools across the country. "McDonald's Family Theatre," a series of book-based animated network television specials, encourages children to "check out" the wide range of books available at the library.

Librarians and educators who desire more information on the "Reading is a Magic Trip" program or any other program offered by McDonald's should contact Christine Sheetz at (301) 729-6680.

CELEBRATE THE WEARIN' O' THE GREEN WITH EASY ST. PATRICK'S DAY DINNER

EMERALD ISLE CAKE

Preparation and baking time: 1 hour

Cake:
2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 egg whites
1/2 cup lime or lemon curd
Green food coloring (optional)

Frosting:
1 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
1 package (16 ounces) confectioners' sugar (4 cups)
5 to 6 tablespoons milk or cream

Jelly Belly beans for decorating:
1 cup (16 ounces) Green Apple flavor
1/2 cup (14 ounces) Lemon Lime flavor
1/2 cup (14 ounces) Coconut flavor
6 to 8 Peach, Cotton Candy, Top Banana, Tangerine and Ice Blue Mint flavors

1 Preheat oven to 375°. For cake, sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter until light and fluffy in large mixer bowl; beat in sugar. Add flour mixture in three batches alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients; beat well after each addition. Stir in vanilla; beat egg whites until stiff peaks form; gently fold egg whites into batter. Pour into two greased and floured 9-inch cake pans. Bake about 25 minutes or until cake begins to pull away from sides of pan. Cool in pans on wire racks 10 minutes. Remove from pans; cool completely on wire racks.

2 For frosting, cream butter until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in confectioners' sugar. Beat in milk one tablespoon at a time until spreading consistency is achieved.

3 To assemble, tint lime curd with a few drops of green food coloring until desired color is achieved. Spread curd on one cake layer; top with second layer. Frost top and sides of cake with frosting.

4 Using a wooden pick, lightly outline shamrock on frosted cake; use Green Apple beans to outline shamrock shape. Fill in with additional Green Apple beans; occasionally intersperse Lemon Lime and multi-colored beans for interest. To make border around cake bottom, gently press Green Apple alternately with Coconut beans into frosting around bottom of cake. Press Lemon Lime beans in row above border.

Cook's Tip: Use a 2-layer white cake mix and prepared vanilla frosting. Follow directions above for assembling cake.

Quick Celebration Tips

Versatile corned beef (either leftover or purchased from the supermarket deli), the multi-use cook and serve platter from Corning Ware and gourmet Jelly Belly beans team up for fun, easy, great-tasting meal ideas for celebrating St. Patrick's Day and beyond.

Mini-Reuben Sandwiches—Split small rye rolls, layer thinly sliced corned beef, drained sauerkraut and a slice of Swiss cheese on bottom halves. Arrange on the platter and broil to melt the cheese. Top with Thousand Island dressing or mustard, close sandwich and serve right from the platter.

Corned Beef Salad—Cut cooked corned beef slices into one-inch wide strips and toss with cooked potato wedges or cubes and prepared Dijon vinaigrette dressing. Arrange mixed salad greens on the platter and serve the corned beef mixture atop greens.

Leftover Magic—After the meal, arrange leftover corned beef slices on the multi-use platter, wrap with aluminum foil and refrigerate. To reheat, just place in a 325°F oven and heat through. The platter works equally as well in the microwave—use microwave-safe plastic wrap to cover in place of the foil.

Leprachaun Potatoes—Microwave baking potatoes on the platter. Cool slightly and split. Fill with minced corned beef, sliced green onion and minced red bell pepper. Top with shredded Swiss cheese, then microwave just to melt the cheese. Or bake the potatoes on the platter in the oven, add the toppings, then broil to melt the cheese—all on the same platter.

Pita Sandwiches—Cut cooked corned beef slices into strips, toss with cubes of Swiss or Monterey Jack cheese and stuff into pita pocket halves spread with a mixture of Dijon-style mustard and mango chutney. Arrange on the platter, cover with foil, and heat at 325°F until sandwiches are hot.

Bowls of Beans—Place bowls of gourmet jelly beans within easy reach and/or add them to your favorite trail mix for great color and intense flavor. Buy individual flavors and combine them for festive seasonal color combinations.

Perfect Pudding—Prepare instant vanilla pudding (or purchase prepared pudding). Top with colorful jelly beans (choose from 40 unique flavors) just before serving. Kids will love topping—and eating—it.

Shamrock Cake—Use gourmet jelly beans to decorate homemade or store-bought cupcakes, layer cakes or sheet cakes. Thanks to their small shape, it's easy to make all sorts of designs with the colorful beans.

Shamrock Cookies—Purchase shamrock-shaped cookies or bake your own. Use plain vanilla frosting as "glue" and outline the shamrock shape with the beans. Or, use your favorite flavors and colors of beans to decorate other types of cookies.

Snappy Bark—Melt one package chocolate chips, peanut butter chips or white chocolate chips according to package directions. Pour melted chips onto waxed paper in approximately 4-inch "pools," spreading to about 1/8-inch thickness. While still warm, sprinkle with desired flavors of beans, pressing lightly into chocolate. For St. Patrick's Day try white chocolate chips with Green Apple and Lemon Lime beans.

Americans love to celebrate St. Patrick's Day—whether they're Irish or not. And on March 17 we all have a bit of the Irish in us!

Part of the fun of celebrating this colorful holiday is the food, and corned beef and cabbage are intertwined with the tradition. Savory corned beef is easy to prepare at home since it needs little attention while it cooks. For perfect results every time, corned beef brisket needs to simmer—not boil—just until fork tender, so be sure to use a heavy pan with a tight-fitting lid. The colorful cabbage and red pepper accompaniment is simple, too. The vegetables are stir-fried then tossed with tangy vinegar and caraway seeds.

A glaze for the corned beef is a delicious finishing touch that requires just a single ingredient. Spread red currant jelly over the cooked brisket and broil. Thanks to a new line of cooking and serving platters from Corning Ware, you can broil on the serving platter. Because they are made of Pyroceram, a material that withstands extremes of temperature, these platters can go from the refrigerator or freezer to the microwave or broiler to the table—and then to the dishwasher for cleaning. Leftovers can be stored, reheated and served on the platter as well. Available in several different designs and shapes, there's a platter that's right for any occasion.

If you don't have time to prepare a corned beef brisket at home, purchase sliced corned beef from the supermarket deli and arrange on the multi-use cook and serve platter. Lightly brush with currant jelly and broil to warm and glaze the slices. Arrange the stir-fried vegetables alongside and serve Irish soda bread or dill potato rolls from the bakery to round out this extra quick and easy St. Patrick's Day menu.

For dessert, whimsical Emerald Isle Cake helps carry out the theme with its decorative shamrock shaped from Jelly Belly beans. These intensely flavored gourmet jelly beans are perfect cake decorations requiring no special equipment or decorating skills. They're readily available from candy shops in individual flavors.

Make the cake from scratch, or if time is short, whip up a white cake mix. Use the colorful beans to outline a shamrock on top of a round or square frosted cake. Kids will love helping with the decorating—but have plenty of jelly beans because they're great for eating out of hand, too. Unlike others, these beans are flavored in the centers and in the coatings so the delicious flavors are tasted throughout. White (Coconut) and two flavors of green (Green Apple and Lemon Lime) are just right for St. Patrick's Day decorating.

to you!

Wellness Together Implements New Health Program For Employees

Wellness Together of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department recently implemented a health program, developed by Debora Nichols, Wellness coordinator, for their employees entitled HOPE (Healthy Options Program for Employees).

The program name was selected from a collection of contest entries that were submitted in an effort to name the program. Hospital employee Cynthia Rinker came up with the winning choice of HOPE.

"The purpose of the HOPE program is to give employers the opportunity to create a work environment that supports employees in making and continuing with health lifestyle changes," said Nichols. "The program focuses on self-improvement and takes into account mental, emotional and physical fitness."

Some 125 staff members of the hospital and health department joined the HOPE program. The first phase of the program consisted of completing a health status assessment whose purpose was to make participants aware of their current health status.

The health status assessment consisted of blood testing (for fat levels), blood pressure check, smoking status, weight composition (which included body fat measurement), stress management and dietary evaluations, fitness step test, functional assessment (a test for muscular strength and flexibility) and pulmonary function testing (an assessment of airway capacity to the lungs).

"HOPE participants will be re-evaluated on a quarterly basis in order to measure changes in health status," Nichols said.

After the health status assessment is completed, participants are then provided with the appropriate tools and education to assist in making healthy lifestyle changes. HOPE participants are currently enrolled in classes pertaining to stress management, nutrition education, exercise, and smoking cessation.

"HOPE gives participants the opportunity to expose themselves to different activities such as line dancing, yoga or a communications workshop," Nichols explained. "It is completely up to the individual to select what works well for them and to hopefully continue that activity as a way to start enjoying a more healthy lifestyle."

The final phase of the program focuses on providing support to the participant. Participants work individually with a health guide whose primary role is to provide support and encouragement in setting health goals; guide the participant toward resources that will assist him or her in reaching goals; and help the participant review and revise goals on a quarterly basis.

As another way to provide support to HOPE participants, a Wellness library that contains a wide variety of subjects is available to employees to educate them in their efforts toward self-improvement. Employees are also receiving at no cost a monthly newsletter, called the Hope

THE WELLNESS TOGETHER PROGRAM of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department recently implemented an employee health program for their employees called HOPE (Healthy Options Program for Employees). The program encouraged participants to complete a health status assessment to make them aware of their current health status as well as allow for the measurement of any future changes in health. "It is important that employers begin to understand the importance of building an environment of healthy support in the workplace," said Nichols. "This can lead to improved morale, increased productivity, reduced absenteeism and fewer on-the-job accidents. In the end everybody wins—both employer and employee!"

"Everyone benefits from these types of programs. Employees and their families benefit with a healthier lifestyle, as well as employers with the reduction of absenteeism in the workplace, consumers with the reduction of product price, and ultimately, taxpayers with the total cost of health care being better managed," stated Dr. Rex Archer, Health Officer for Garrett County.

"More and more companies are investing in workplace health promotion activities," stated Benjamin Rosenthal, president Garrett Memorial. "As employees' health care costs are rising by an average of 13% per year, employee wellness programs that can help employees adopt and maintain healthier behaviors, reduce their risk factors for disease and use health services more appropriately are promising strategies to help manage these health benefit costs."

Charlotte Bock, administrative director of community services at Garrett Memorial, added "HOPE program is a pilot program in which the hospital and health department have combined their efforts to provide work environments that will help their employees adopt and maintain healthier lifestyles. It is our hope that the information learned from this pilot program, will eventually allow us to go out into the community and offer a similar program to area businesses."

Hospice, GCMH Help Couple's Dream Come True At Christmas

by Brenda Butcher, Executive Director of Hospice

Mention Hospice of Garrett County and you're likely to get a bevy of first impressions, depending with whom you're talking. Patients, volunteers, medical personnel and the many area residents who support its fundraisers certainly appreciate Hospice's mission: to serve the terminally ill and their families in Garrett County.

But every once in a while, as in the poignant story recently told by Hospice Medical Director, Dr. Margaret Kaiser, the grassroots meaning of Hospice is more apparent than ever. First reported at Hospice's Winter Frolic benefit, what has since been dubbed "the Hospice Christmas Story" was recounted by Dr. Kaiser, Sharon King, director of volunteers, Judy Wilt, LPN, Clinical Nurse and Joe McIntyre. It's about the heart-tugging Christmas weekend at Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Both McIntyre, 66, and his wife Dorothy, 62, were patients of Dr. Kaiser. Shortly before Christmas, Joe found himself in the hospital hooked up to a heart monitor, while Dorothy, diagnosed with cancer and a Hospice patient since November, was bed-ridden and being cared for at the couple's Deep Creek Lake home by her sister-in-law.

"It was Christmas Eve," said Dr. Kaiser, "and it was apparent Joe wasn't ready to go home yet." While she hesitated to directly tell anyone, the internist realized it was going to be the last Christmas together for Joe and Dorothy.

"That's when we started breaking all the rules," said the doctor, who quickly summoned the aid of two other critical Hospice staffers, Sharon King and Judy Wilt. The immediate task, according to the Hospice trio, was figuring out how to get Dorothy into the hospital with Joe. Dorothy didn't want to come to the hospital. After all, she was very ill, bed-bound and weather conditions were awful.

Brought into the hospital officially as a guest -- after near heroic efforts by the county roads department, Freeman Ambulance and others who needed a sled to transport her -- Dorothy soon found herself in the Hospice Patient Room in a hospital bed beside her husband. This, of course, was no small task. In a matter of a few hours, with Mrs. Wilt making the phone calls and Dr. Kaiser handling the necessary hospital clearance with two nursing supervisors, two nursing stations and other personnel, things took shape fast.

"Joe had been on a heart monitor on the hospital's second floor," said Dr. Kaiser, "and we weren't sure if the machine would even work on the third floor, where a room for the couple was readied. We discovered it does." Meanwhile, Ms. King and Mrs. Wilt had doctor's orders to fulfill: to quickly gather and install Christmas decorations in the Hospice Room before the pair arrived. "When I first got the call," recalled Ms. King, "I was in the middle of preparing Christmas Eve dinner for a dozen people and thought everything would be ruined. Honestly, I wasn't very happy at the beginning but that feeling quickly left me as we hurried to get everything ready."

By Christmas Eve, Hospice and medical staffers peeked in the couple's room. Beds pushed together side by side, Joe and Dorothy recently suffered a stroke and is currently undergoing physical therapy, but the warm memories of his Hospice Christmas keep him going. "It was a sad, sad time," added Mrs. Wilt, "but what happened touched a lot of people."

As this was all taking place, another Hospice crisis was in the making in the northern part of the county. A very ill patient was in serious need of medicine. The medicine was not only very expensive, but the pharmacy did not have it in stock. Dr. Kaiser rushed to her office where she had the necessary medicine and Ms. King and Mrs. Wilt made the home visit.

Brenda Butcher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County stated, "In talking with the Hospice staff, they felt that Christmas '93 had been the best Christmas they had ever experienced. Through the efforts of Dr. Kaiser, they found the true meaning of Christmas. They made it possible for the McIntyres to spend their last Christmas together and they helped to keep another Hospice patient as pain free as possible, so that he could enjoy his last Christmas at home." The consensus of the staff is, that it truly is more blessed to give than to receive.
